Doctor Measures Women

HOUSTON (UPI) — A Houston doctor believes that flat-chested women are inclined toward high I. Q.'s and generally "the bigger the breasts, the lower the I. Q."

Writing in the International Journal of Fertility, Dr. Erwin O. Strassmann said, "It is my experience that there is a basic antagonism between the scholastic type of intelligence and the reproductive system in infertile women. If you know one area, you know what to expect in the other."

Strassmann is in the department of obstetrics and gynecology of the Baylor University College of Medicine in Houston.

His article, entitled "Physique, Temperament and Intelligence in Infertile Women," said most women are of the endomorph-pyknic type, the "typical females in build as well as temperament."

He said this group has short arms and necks, small hands and feet, a tendency to obesity as they grow older, and narrow shoulders.

"All contours are smooth and curvy," he said of the endomorph type.

Women in the ectomorph-asthenic group are the exact opposite, Strassmann said. They are slender with long necks and small heads, an angled profile, small mouth and thin lips.

"There is no fullness anywhere," he said of this group. "Breasts and buttocks are small."

He said women of this group are generally introverts, "mentally supersensitive," and touchy.

Strassmann summarized, "The better the brain, the smaller the breasts; and vice versa, the bigger the breasts, the lower the I. Q."

Local CAP Helps Search For Missing Light Plane

Civil Air Patrol members from Colorado Springs joined in the search Saturday for four missing Coloradoans, who disappeared while on an airplane flight from Aspen to Greeley Friday.

The four missing men—two from Colorado State College, and two Catholic priests — were aboard a light plane that was reported missing in the high Colorado Rocky Mountains.

The plane was piloted by Dr. Leonard C. Walsh, 40, professor of educational planning services at CSC.

Passengers were John Michael Courtney, 28, instructor in social studies in the CSC teacher training department, the Rev. Fr. Andrew J. O'Reilly, 40, temporary assistant at St. Theresa Church, Aurora, Colo., and the Rev. Fr. Edward D. Ryan, 39, assistant pastor, St. Peter's Catholic Church, Greeley.

The Colorado Springs men participating in the search were CAP officers 1st Lt. Carl Yoggerst, 2nd Lt. Ronald Waker, and CWO Nelson Corriher, of Group 6 Emergency Services Squadron; Group Senior Member John Weber, and 1st Lt. Don Peck, who was acting as mission coordinator.

Headquarters for the search was at the Eagle Airport. 1st Lt. Leo Stone, commander of the local squadron, flew a mission over the Aspen area.

The local men were dispatched by Maj. Leo Wells, CAP Group 6 commander, according to CAP Lt. Col. Larry Reibschied, information officer. This

Cleo Spawns Tornadoes as She Gives Up

LAURINBURG, N.C. (UPI) — A tornado spawned by dying Hurricane Cleo roared into this little town "like a dark wave" Saturday in a blinding rain, smashing houses and injuring at least 15 persons.

Another tornado churned like a freight train across Lake Murray in South Carolina and smashed into a marina, and a third tornado ripped into a residential section of Charleston, S.C.

All three twisters were part of the dying throes of Hurricane Cleo, which was blowing itself out just north of Savannah, Ga.

Barry-Miller Plans Reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater and running mate William Miller will hit 22 cities in 15 states during the first nine days of their campaign, GOP national headquarters announced Friday.

The itinerary released by the Republican National Committee showed one joint appearance on the agenda — Goldwater will appear at Miller's campaign kickoff in the vice presidential candidate's hometown of Lockport, N. Y., Sept. 5.

The Arizona senator himself will open his drive for the White House Sept. 3 in Prescott, Ariz. He will be in San Diego and Los Angeles Sept. 8; Sacramento, Eugene, Ore., and Seattle Sept. 9; Boise, Idaho, Billings, Mont., and Minneapolis Sept. 10, and Chicago and Rockford, Ill., Sept. 11.

Philadelphia Negroes Continue Riot, Looting

Mayor Tate Invokes 1850 Law

By GEORGE ESPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negroes in a strife-torn section of North Philadelphia continued looting shattered stores and harassing police sporadically Saturday night. And for the first time in the two nights of rioting, several shots were fired.

Dick Olanoff, deputy city representative, said five or six shots were fired from a rooftop at 20th and Norris Street. He said he did not believe they were fired at policemen.

Police surrounded the area and threw searchlights on the roof, but could find no trace of anyone.

Windows were smashed. Bricks were thrown at police. Officers were bothered with false reports of crime, shooting and rioting.

There were reports of other shootings which turned out false.

Mrs. Odessa Bradford, 34, a Negro accused by police of touching off Friday night's rioting by resisting arrest, rode through the area in an open convertible with Cecil B. Moore, president of the Philadelphia chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"Here she is," Moore shouted over a portable loudspeaker. "She's very much alive. She's not even hurt."

The first violence Saturday night involved hit-run tactics of teen-agers hurling bricks and rocks through store windows, grabbing merchandise and fleeing. Police were unable to make any arrests.

The mayor went on television, and told shaken residents of the fourth largest city in the nation that 300 state troopers were standing in reserve to help smash any new outbreak of violence.

In a brief address to "Mr.

Girl Pilot Survives Wyoming Crash

CODY, Wyo (AP) — Roberta Kowaczek, 25-year-old Chicago store buyer, has a broken nose and two black eyes—but she survived the crash of her light airplane and two cold, snowy nights in northwestern Wyoming's wilderness.

Her father, Richard Kowaczek, 51, and her brother, Peter, 19, both of Chicago, perished when their light plane smashed into an 11,500 foot mountainside about 25 miles north of the east gate to Yellowstone National Park.

Miss Kowaczek was brought out of the rugged Absoraka Mountains by horseback Friday and was kept by her physician from having visitors Saturday.

KC Star Says It Will Back Demo Ticket

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Star Saturday night announced its support of President Johnson in the Nov. 3 election.

It is the first time since it backed Grover Cleveland in 1892 that the newspaper has supported a Democratic presidential nominee. The Star describes itself as politically independent with a policy of moderate conservatism.

In editorials published since the Republican National Convention it has questioned the position taken in some matters by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee.

"We are convinced that the cause of world peace would be better served by Mr. Johnson and his foreign policy, with its roots deep in both Democratic and Republican administrations," the Star said in a half-page editorial in its Sunday editions.

"It would be safer to keep his finger on the nuclear trigger than to place the awesome responsibility on Sen. Goldwater. We frankly fear that the

Network to Guard Against Sleeping Sickness

DENVER (AP)—A Statewide network has been established by the State Department of Public Health to maintain surveillance of encephalitis cases reported in horses to prevent spread of the disease to humans.

The network was developed through cooperation with the Colorado Veterinary Medical Society and local health departments, Dr. Martin D. Baum, chief of veterinary service for the State Health Department, said today.

Meanwhile, both Baum and Dr. Roy L. Cleere, state health director, emphasized there is little cause for concern of an encephalitis outbreak in Colorado.

"We are aware of it and we are alerted to it," said Dr. Martin D. Baum, chief of veterinary services for the Colorado Health Department. "But we have not seen anything in Colorado particularly dramatic."

The disease, commonly called sleeping sickness, is carried by mosquitoes. It attacks the nervous system and causes inflamation of the brain.

There were only two cases of encephalitis reported in humans in Colorado last year. One suspected case in a human, tentatively diagnosed last week, has been reported this year.

Nine cases of the disease in horses has been reported so far this year in Colorado as compared with 98 cases in horses reported in all of 1963.

Houston, Texas, has been battling a sleeping sickness epidemic which has been blamed for 17 deaths. A total of 368 suspected cases in human cases have been reported there.

In Alamosa, Colo., Dr. Wallace I. Leary, president of the Colorado Veterinary Medical Association, pointed out that the disease is not transmitted between animals, or from animals to humans, but the mosquito carrier can give the disease to both.

The number of suspected encephalitis and encephalitis - like cases has soared to 368 — up 52 in 24 hours.

A 75-year-old man died Thursday, raising the supposed encephalitis toll to 17.

Five were in their 50s, three in their 60s; eight in their 70s, and one was 90.

Although two-thirds of the suspected cases reported so far among persons under 50, no deaths have been reported among them.

The epidemic is still at its peak, Dr. Pigford said. Meanwhile, the battle against mosquitoes, which spread the disease, is continuing throughout Houston.

Confirmed cases also have been reported in Florida and suspected cases are under investigation in Illinois and Arizona.

The sleeping sickness, or viral encephalitis, could appear in outbreaks elsewhere, the American Medical Association said Friday.

Confirmed cases of the disease have been reported in Florida as well as Texas. In Illinois and Arizona, suspected cases are under investigation.

Dr. Raymond L. White, AMA director of environmental medicine and medical services, said Friday that insect-borne encephalitis is, strictly speaking, a disease of birds and small animals rather than of man.

"Its transmission to man is, in a sense, an accident," Dr. White said, because the insects which nip at infected animals generally have no taste for man. But they make mistakes and sometimes bite or sting humans.

Accident or not, encephalitis is serious. The reaction is often severe. Fatalities can range from 2 to 75 per cent, depending on the strain of the disease. Some victims are left paralyzed, enfeebled, or mentally affected.

Three types of encephalitis are known in the United States — western equine, eastern equine, and St. Louis. The St. Louis type has been identified with the outbreak in Texas which is believed to have caused 18 deaths.

This type of encephalitis got its name from large numbers of cases in St. Louis in 1933 and again in 1937. It ranges through the Lower Ohio Valley Dr. White said, and all states west of the Mississippi as well as Florida. Its mortality is highest in older people.

New Teachers Hired by School District Re-2 (J)

On the eve of the opening of another school year, a number of new teachers have been hired by the board of education of school district Re-2(J), it was announced this week by Barto Babitz, superintendent of schools.

Those recently added to the district's faculty include Neal Patrick Pine, Industrial arts, mechanical drawings, and physical education in the high school; Robert Lee Carver, fourth grade at Fremont Elementary School; Glenn E. Bittner, general science at Penrose Junior High and at Florence High School, and high school physical education; and Mrs. Earl Barnard, second grade at Fremeont Elementary School.

Babitz also reported that Gene Stone, who has been coaching at Penrose for the past three years, has resigned his post. Stone, now living at Rapid City, S.D., mailed his letter of resignation last week and thanked the board for its many past considerations.

Ken Livingston, who has been hired as head football coach at the high school, has been also assigned to replace Stone at Penrose and teach classes at the Penrose Junior High School.

According to Babitz, Pine will assist in both coaching wrestling and baseball. Pine holds a B.A. degree from Colorado State College at Greeley in May 1964. He is a native of Oak Creek, Colo.

Carver, a native of Central City, Pa., received his B.S. degree from Frostburg State Teacher's College in 1959. He was graduated from Suddersville, Md., high school and after his college training he taught at Bayfield, Colo., high school.

Bittner, who was graduated from Canon City High School in 1947, attended Pueblo Junior College, Adams State College, and received his A. B. degree from Colorado State College at Greeley in 1960. Bittner will replace Charlotte Van Loo, who taught science both at Penrose school and Florence High School. Bittner has been teaching for the past four years at Center High School.

Mrs. Barnard, who previously taught in the Florence elementary school system, holds an A. B. degree from Colorado State College and taught for three years at Delta. She has some work on her M.A. degree, Babitz reported.

A full slate of 65 teachers and administrators have now been hired and will be prepared to open the school year Sept. 1, in eastern Fremont County.

RFK Advised To Try Virginia

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI)—One of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's most vocal opponents among upstate New York Democrats Saturday advised the attorney general to run for office in Virginia to help clean out that state's Democratic party.

George Palmer, who backs Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., for the Democratic party nomination for U.S. Senate from New York, said he thinks Kennedy would be "doing the Democratic party a much greater service if he would stay in Virginia and run against reactionary Democratic senators and congressmen in primary elections."

Kennedy, who has announced an availability for the nomination appears to have the Democratic nomination sewed up. He presently is a resident of Virginia but has rented a home in New York.

As the Eiffel Tower rose above the Paris skyline in 1887, prominent Parisians petitioned against the "monstrous and useless" thing.

Patrol Officer Receives Grant For Institute

DENVER — Lt. Walter R. Whitelaw of the Colorado State Patrol has received a grant-in-aid award from the Automotive Safety Foundation to attend the 1964-65 Traffic Police Administration Training Program at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute, Evanston, Illinois.

"The department is justifiably proud of Whitelaw's selection for the program, the most comprehensive one in existence for police administrators," noted State Patrol Chief G. R. Carrel. "This year of 200 applicants from all sections of the country, only 40 were accepted. At the Institute Whitelaw will gain invaluable training and experience which will benefit both the department and the state."

On Sept. 10 Whitelaw will join 44 fellow officers on Northwestern University's Evanston campus to begin the nine month training program. The 1964-65 class includes patrolmen, troopers, corporals, sergeants, lieutenants, and captains from 23 municipal and nine state law enforcement agencies. In the class are five police officials from Indonesia, Jordan, and Peru, sponsored by the Agency for International Development.

The Automotive Safety Foundation, who awarded the grant-in-aid to Lt. Whitelaw, is an educational and research organization founded by the automotive, petroleum, tire, steel, and related industries — awarded eight grants to state police and highway patrol agencies.

ADC Chorus Completes Tour Of Northwest

Air Defense Command's chorus recently completed a two week tour of the 25th Air Division located in the Pacific Northwest. The chorus, under the direction of Lt. Gene Medford, began the tour with performances at McChord AFB, Wash.

Other Air Force installations which the chorus visited were Makah AFS, Wash., Paine Field, Wash., Blain AFS, Wash., Portland International Airport Ore., Adair AFS, Ore., Kingsley Field, Ore., and Travis AFB, Calif.

In addition, the group made a live color telecast in Seattle, Wash. and appeared on the "Dick Stewart Show" in San Francisco, sharing the billing with Arthur Fieldler, conductor of the famous Boston Pops Orchestra, Lou Rawls, the popular blues singer and the comedy team of Rowan and Martin.

The chorus is presently planning a tour of the 29th Air Division, headquartered at Richards-Gebaur AFB, Mo., for the latter part of September.

CUTE BEARD

LONDON (UPI) — British Transport Minister Ernest Marples said Saturday he'll keep his four-week-old beard, grown on his vacation. The cabinet official said a blonde stopped him outside his London home and said the beard was "cute."

Moon Pictures Indicate Lava Flows, Violent Past

By JOHN BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ranger 7's close-up look at the moon shows evidence of a very violent past—and signs too of what may be laval flow on the lunar surface, scientists reported Friday.

There are also signs of what may be erosion on the moon — but scientists differed on the depth — 5 to 50 feet. Erosion may have been caused by cosmic radiation and space dust.

Small craters near the Ranger target area were apparently caused by solid debris splashed out of the mammoth crater Tycho, some 600 miles away, by a huge meteor collision, scientists said.

The Ranger photos did not indicate apparently how recent the volcanic activity that produced the lava was. Some scientists have reported seeing phenomena on the moon through telescopes which they interpret to be signs of live volcanoes.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration Friday released 200 more photos taken by the Ranger spacecraft as it headed for a lunar crash. Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper of the University of Arizona helped interpret them for a news conference. He said varicolored surface features make him confident of lava flow on the lunar surface.

While scientists were interpreting the Ranger photographs, astronauts and other NASA experts were training in volcanic areas of the Pacific northwestern United States to test man's ability to maneuver on rugged moon-like terrain.

The space agency experts said the moon seems to be much smoother than hitherto believed, and probably could bear the weight of an astronaut landing.

MILITARY SHOPPING

MOSCOW (UPI) — Indian Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan arrived Friday to negotiate military aid from the Soviet Union.

His shopping list was said to include MIG jet fighters, frigates, submarines, ground-to-air missiles and helicopters.

Safety Council Cites Need for Caution

Attorney General Duke W. Dunbar, Chairman, Colorado Highway Safety Council, cautioned today "school children, many who will be going to school for the first time, have their minds on just about everything else but safety. It's up to us to watch out for them.

"Even though there are school patrols, be especially alert for mid-block crossings. When children 'horse around' and chase each other into the streets or highway, it will take your very best efforts to avoid them." Dunbar concluded with a plea "keep your eyes open for youngsters at all time."

Officers From Viet Nam Due Here Monday

The Vietnamese Air Force officers who recently completed training at Keesler AFB, Miss. under the U.S. Air Force Military Assistance Training Program are: Capt. Chau Huu Loc, First Lieut. Nguyen Tan Si, and Second Lieutenants Che Ven Nghia, Dang Thanh Danh and Nguyen Van Chin.

The officers will be given a briefing on the Air Defense Command mission Tuesday morning followed by a tour of the NORAD Combat Operation Center and a visit to the Air Force Academy.

They are scheduled to depart Wednesday morning for Travis AFB, California for their return to South Viet Nam.

AFA Population To Rise 1,700 On Sept. 5

Population of the Air Force Academy will jump by more than 1,700 Saturday.

A total of 590 families of Academy Fourth Classmen have indicated they will take part in the special Parents Weekend Sept. 5, 6 and 7. By last Friday 1,692 moms, dads, brothers, and sisters indicated they would visit the Academy.

Even more families are expected to "sign up" before Labor Day weekend rolls around. Visitors wil stay in Colorado Springs area hotels and motels.

Fourth classmen will be given their first break from training and classroom work since June 29 when they entered the Academy to spend the three days with their families.

Highlights of the weekend will include a luncheon in Mitchell Hall, cadet dining hall, Saturday, briefings by top officers Sunday, and the Superintendent's reception Sunday afternoon.

The superintendent, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren will welcome guests Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Arnold Hall theater. Briefings will be given by Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong, Commandant of Cadets; Brig. Gen. Robert F. McDermott, Dean of Faculty; and Col. Edmund H. Rafalko, director of athletics.

During a special open house, visitors will inspect Vrandenberg Hall, cadet dorm; Arnold Hall, the social center; Mitchell Hall, cadet dining hall; Fairchild Hall, the academic building; the Chapel and Gymnasium.

Aim of the unique program is to give the parents of Fourth Classmen a closer understanding of Academy mission, aims and operation.

Terry Sanford completed dedicating a new seed plant in the town, which is just north of the South Carolina border, about 80 miles southwest of Raleigh, N.C.

It skipped around the town for a mile, damaging downtown buildings and wrecked residences.

Scotland County Sheriff B. P. Lynch said that of the 15 injured, at least two were hospitalized.

Wrecks Buildings

Lynch said the tornado destroyed six houses, damaged about 15 more, and severely damaged a flour mill, a cotton warehouse, a finance company and other stores in the downtown areas.

Carl Stephens, an attendant at a service station about a mile from where the tornado hit Laurinburg, said it "looked just like a dark wave going through. I was just putting gas in a car and looked to the west and saw shingles flying up in the air."

The tornado, he said, made Lauringburg "right black" although it was several hours before dusk.

The storm smashed into a trailer park, sending two women residents to a hospital with cuts and brusies.

Sees Tornado Coming

At Ballentine, about 100 miles southwest of Laurinburg, Lighthouse Marina owner H. L. Clary said he saw a tornado coming across Lake Murry toward him, sucking up water as it went.

"It sounded like a freight train," he said. It damaged 26 boats, unroofed seven boathouses, and picked up a 40-by-100-foot frame building and hurled it 50 feet into the woods.

The tornado continued on into the woods around Lake Murray, Clary said.

Late Saturday, the remains f Hurricane Cleo were located just northwest of Savannah, Ga., and the Miami Weather Bureau said the storm was continuing to weaken. Its highest winds were 25 miles an hour.

It was drifting slowly northward, sending heavy rains over a wide area.

The twister at Charleston destroyed one house in a residential area and damaged nine others. There were no injuries.

Rains Hit Savannah

Savannah experienced flooding as a result of the heavy rains Cleo dumped on it. Thunderstorms hit along the South Carolina coast.

Turks Riot In Ankara

ened by an announcement earlier in the day that Turkey had postponed its plans to rotate the Turkish army garrison on Cyprus. This would have brought a showdown and almost certain warfare with Greek Cypriot forces on Monday.

In the port city of Izmir, more than 2,000 demonstrators nearly wrecked the 33rd International Trade Fair. Before troops dispersed the demonstrators, they smashed the American, Russian, British, U.A.R., Czech and Bulgarian pavilions. They tore down the flags of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Restaurants and cafes in the fairgrounds were wrecked and hundreds of windows smashed. Another group of demonstrators broke the windows of the Greek consulate near the fairgrounds.

Father Doubts Son's Story, Calls Police

pool," the son said.

But Barnes had read in the newspapers of the week-long, around-the-clock search by police for two youths whose white station wagon ran down Cheryl Howard, 10, last Monday.

Two boys hopped out of the car. They lifted the girl, broken and bleeding, into nearby weeds and then they roared away in the wagon.

Barnes was not satisfied with his son's answer. He telephoned the police.

By the time Sgt. Dave Holcomb got to the Barnes home in Balch Springs, just southeast of Dallas, the youth had admitted he was in the station wagon when it hit Cheryl.

But he said his friend, John Raymond Acord Jr., 16, was driving.

Police said Acord would be charged with juvenile delinquency, aggravated assault and failure to stop and render aid. Barnes will be charged with juvenile delinquency and failure to stop and render aid.

Acord had been visiting the Barnes family but lives in Hutchins, Tex.

Cheryl is "improving steadily" at Methodist Hospital, doctors said. She will be in traction at least two months.

Asst. Chief of Police Ray Lunday said he had talked to parents of both boys.

"They are both cooperative," he said. "I am convinced that parents on both sides knew nothing about the accident."

Young Barnes was crying and Acord was "visibly upset," Lunday said.

He said Barnes had no previous police record, although Acord had two traffic tickets and had been in one auto accident.

KC Star Says It Will Back Demo Ticket

Goldwater philosophy, transformed into presidential policy, might plunge the world deeper into the uncertainty of greater international tensions."

"We believe that to entrust the peace to a Goldwater administration would be an unnecessary and undesirable gamble for the nation to take," the editorial added.

The Star said President Johnson's critics have described him "as a man who tries to work both sides of every political fence."

"Particularly at this time, we believe his talent for a compromise to be an asset," the editorial continued. "We cannot afford a divided country, and Mr. Johnson has displayed an ability to draw Americans together, to be president of all the people."

Philadelphia Negroes Continue With Rioting

and Mrs. Philadelphia" he pleaded for strict obedience to a drastic curfew, amounting almost to martial law, which he had clamped earlier on a six-square-mile area encompassing the debris-strewn, riot zone.

The 1,500 man force replaced plans to use 800 policemen Saturday night in an effort to keep a lid on the tense riot area.

The toll from the rioting which raged through Friday night and into the mid-afternoon was 127 injured, 32 of them policemen. Another 127 persons were arrested. More than 100 stores were damaged and looted.

Police were under orders to prevent any incidents which might trigger new violence. Prowl cars were ordered not to use flashing lights or sirens while patrolling the curfew zone.

Deputy Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo stationed 48 expert marksmen atop rooftops along a six-block stretch of Columbia Avenue to prevent rioters from hurling debris on the officers below. Columbia Avenue, mainstream of the howling, rock-hurling mobs, showed a gaping face of smashed store windows, broken glass and damaged store merchandise.

The mayor made it plain in his television speech that the city's public safety forces were geared to cope with any fresh violence. He urged all persons in the curfew area to get into their homes or places of business — or face arrest and possible imprisonment from six months to two years.

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary first said that his forces would be increased from 600 to 800 for duty. The mayor then announced 1,400 men were assigned to riot-watch duty. This was then increased to 1,500 men.

Police leaves and days off were canceled.

Mayor James H. J. Tale issued an emergency proclamation Saturday ordering all unauthorized persons off the streets in a 125-block North Philadelphia area torn by Negro rioting which left more than 100 stores looted and nearly 300 persons injured or arrested.

Then Tate went on television to urge cooperation with the proclamation — issued under an 1850 law which subjects violators to a penalty of up to two years imprisonment.

Tate told the people in his brief television address that when the outburst occurred Friday night, it grew so quickly it was physically impossible for police to arrest all looters. He said the situation has now been corrected with more manpower being brought into the area.

The mayor said 1,400 policemen were assigned to the area Saturday night, and that 300 state policemen are on call if needed. He said the FBI is investigating the possible involvement of other persons outside the city and state.

"We recognize this as an outbreak of hoodlums who do not want to obey the law," said Tate.

He said the proclamation was invoked on a 24-hour basis until further notice.

Youth Receives Cut While Watching Fight

Pat Chavez, 20, 1605 W. Vermijo St., received a cut on the eye from a rock and had the side windows of his car smashed when he and a companion went to Prospect Lake early this morning to watch a gang fight, police reported.

According to Chavez, he heard the fight was on the north east side of Prospect Lake and he and his friend drove there. He said between 50 and 60 boys were involved but when police arrived at the scene the brawl had broken up.

Resident Booked For Disturbance

Fred Lingle, 24, 411 Arrawanna St., was booked into County Jail early Saturday morning following a signed complaint alleging disturbance, the sheriff's office said.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Larry Holien and Vincent Denboske, Lingle had gone to one of the apartments at 414 Arrawanna St. and knocked on the door of an apartment belonging to a woman tenant saying the manager wanted to see her.

The officers said she replied that if the manager wanted to see her he could come to the apartment himself. The incident happened at 2:15 a.m. Saturday.

Youth's Arm Broken When Car Hits Rail

A 17-year-old boy who had his arm out of the window of a car received multiple fractures when the vehicle hit a bridge rail, the state patrol said Friday.

Susan E. Owens, 18, 2831 W. Kiowa St., was driving west on Ramona Street while her passenger, Raymond F. Dellacroce rested his arm on the open window ledge. Miss Owens crashed into the bridge rail and Dellacroce's arm was broken in several places. He was taken to Penrose Hospital.

Cymbals Worth $185 Stolen From Resident

A set of cymbals worth $185 were stolen from Lynn Karol, 3404 N. Institute St., police reported Saturday.

True Image of America Forgotten, LeFevre Says

The image of America, an image of defiance to the state and reliance on the individual which ignited the imagination of the world, has been misted over and forgotten by the American people themselves.

It was an image created on April 19, 1775, when a group of volunteers stood up to the King of England, Robert LeFevre, founder and president of the Freedom School, told a graduating class Friday.

But it is an image which has faded and become dulled in recent years.

"If there is any distinction about this country, if there is anything to mark it apart from the others of the world, it relates to that magic moment in Lexingto and the idea of free men making their own decision, not ordered by anybody and fully responsible for what they do. If we haven't got that, we're no different and we're no better than any other group on earth. That's Image America," LeFevere said.

A nation's image, the speaker said, comes in part from the method employed at the moment of organization.

In the instance of America, it was a group of "ordinary people" defying the throne of England and their king in order to be free.

LeFevre traced the rise of America from the first colonization about 1600 to 1775 when the break with England occurred and America's Image was born.

It was in this period that "we really learned to be free, and we learned to be free by practicing freedom. We were free. There was nothing around except nature to inhibit us," LeFevre said.

He pointed out that for approximately 150 years prior to the "revolutionary war," there was no central government in America and economic activity was moving rapidly ahead.

"Despite the wilderness, we developed a very fine and flourishing economic structure which by 1700 was doing so well that we began to compete with the European countries and by 1750, we were actually competing on a favorable basis with Britain, France, the low countries and Spain," LeFevre said.

He pointed out that governments always come after an economic structure has been formed. He said that free market system in America flourished "by virtue of the fact that there was no government to prevent it from flourishing."

But in 1760, when George III ascended the throne of England, America got its first real taste of government. George, "a true bureaucrat," decided that the colonies should pay taxes.

"And we didn't like that," LeFevre said. "And the reason we didn't like it is because we weren't used to it."

During the next 15 years, a series of actions occurred with "imcreasing tension" and came to a head at Lexington.

LeFevre said that the poet's use of the phase, "the shot heard round the world," in describing the Lexington incident, has more truth than poetry in it.

"The poet had glimpsed the truth and it has taken years for our historians to glimpse it and most of us haven't glimpsed it yet," he said.

"Here is the significance of that shot," LeFevre continued. "Capt. John Parker acting on his own authority and being responsible to no one but himself, stood up before his king, the mightiest monarch on earth and he declared war on him. And it stuck."

That, LeFevre said, was the only declaration of war which led to the forming of the United States. There could be no other since we had no government at the time and didn't actually form a government until 1789 seven years after the war ended.

But it was the shooting at Lexington that formed "Image America," LeFevre said.

"And the events that were to follow put it into focus," the speaker continued. "It was like a current of electricity running around the world. People began to get the significance of this.

"Here were some ordinary people. They were not representing government and no government had given them an order and they were not being paid by government. They were just ordinary people and they walked out in front of their king and his troops and they said 'That's all. You stop right here. If you don't stop here, you got yourself a war.' And it stuck."

When word of what was happening in America spread around the world, it fired the imagination of the people. They began to realize that a people could survive in a land not dominated by politics, LeFevre said.

"Everywhere around the world men and women who heard this story stood up a little straighter and they looked each other a little closer in the eyes and they said, 'Oh, boy, America's for me. That's the place. Because in America, there's a land that isn't dominated by politicis; there's a land where you can work and be free; there's a land where what you earn, you can keep. Because in America, every man has the same right as every other man.'

"That is Image America," LeFevre continued. "The image of defiance to the state, the image of reliance on the individual, the volunteer. And how we have forgotten that."

"It's no surprise," he said, "that the image of this nation in the past several years has become somewhat misted over. It isn't quite the clear, bright, shining visage it once presented to the world."

It was in 1775 that "image America" was born and "it's at this point that we are going to have to come into harmony if we are to find our image again or perhaps create a new one."

LeFevre pointed out that the struggle for freedom could not be considered a war because "governments make wars, not men," and there was no government in America at that time. He said that it could not be declared a revolution, because "the American effort was never aimed at toppling the British throne, getting rid of the king. We didn't have anybody else in mind for the office."

He said that the Delcaration of Independence was not written until a year after the fighting began and the constitution was not written unitl 1787 and not ratified until two years later.

"From approximately 1600 to 1789 we did not have a government," LeFevre said. "We fought a major war against one of the great, if not the greatest military power on earth and in this period from 1760 to 1789, Image America was born.

"How about helping to bring that image back again?"

Local CAP Helps Search For Plane

was the fifth mission of the year for the local CAP.

Col. Arthur F. Putz, wing commander for the Colorado CAP, said the four men flew to Aspen Thursday to attend an educational conference. They were believed to have left Aspen at 2:30 p.m. Friday with about four hours of fuel for the flight to Greeley.

The Colorado Air National Guard sent six planes Saturday to help out in the CAP search.

Fr. O'Reilly came to St. Theresa Church from New York for health reasons. Dr. Walsh has been at CSC since 1957.

The search by air for the plane was cut short Saturday by turbulence over the mountains.

Three planes from Lowry Air Force Base and six from the Colorado Air National Guard made one sweep over the area and then were grounded by bad flying weather.

Civil Air Patrol officials said they had 20 planes standing by at Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Salida and Canon City waiting to join the search should conditions improve.

The CAP also said ground units had been called from Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Georgetown, Idaho Springs, Canon City, Glenwood Springs, Aspen and Ft. Carson.

Dr. Welch is a native of Farmington, Minn. where he graduated from high school. He received his bachelor's degree from Minnesota, his master's from Oregon and his doctorate from Stanford.

Before coming to Colorado State College in 1957, he served as principel of the Payette (Idaho) High School, superintendent of Rogue River, Ore. schools and a research assistant at Stanford. He is married and has three children, Nick, 17, Mark, 13, and Elizabeth, 9.

Courtney joined the social studies staff at CSC after receiving his master's there in 1960. He is a native of Denver, graduated from Cathedral High School in 1953 and received his B.A. from Carroll College, Helena, Mont. He also did graduate work at St. Thomas Seminary in Seattle. He has two children, Benjamin, 15 months, and David, three months.

It was raining in Montana and the Dakotas. Cooler temperatures were observed in the Rockies and Plains states as well as in the northeast. (AP Wirephoto Maps.)

Girl Pilot Survives Crash In Wyoming

Saturday to bring out the bodies of the two dead men. Plans to fly the bodies out by helicopter were cancelled when 60 mile an hour winds kicked up and the helicopter was unable to take off from the Cody airport.

Miss Kowaczek, a tiny brunette who received her pilot's license only a month ago, left Cody Wednesday on an aerial sightseeing trip of Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks intended to land at Big Piney, Wyo., to continue their Western vacation. High wings buffeted the area shortly after take off and she found herself in a box canyon in the Silver Tip Basin.

Sheriff Harley Kinkade quoted Miss Kowaczek as saying her plane was losing elevation and she was unable to fly over the mountain peaks. She warned her two passengers they were going to crash and kept the plane's belly up as it hit the peak.

The sheriff quoted her as saying the impact knocked her unconscious. When she recovered both her brother and father were alive. However, her brother died a short time later and her father ied early Wednesday evening.

Miss Kowaczek scrambled to the top of the ridge Wednesday afternoon, hoping she could spot the Cody - Yellowstone Park highway. She couldn't see the road, so returned to the crash scene to wait for a rescue party to spot her.

The physician praised the young woman for keeping her head by staying close to the downed plane, conserving her meager supply of food and melting snow for drinking water. Miss Kowaczek slept over night in the plane as temperatures dipped below freezing and heavy snowfall hampered aerial search of the area.

Kinkade said the woman had only a few pieces of bread and a can of tomato juice until a search pilot spotted the wreckage Thursday evening and dropped food, a survival kit and sleeping bags.

Kinkade and Roy Coleman, an experienced big game hunting guide, led a party of four men into the area by horseback. They left Pahaska Teepee, near Yellowstone Park, about 11 p.m. and reached the crash scene at daybreak.

Kinkade said they moved the bodies to a spot a half mile from the plane. The rescue effort was the roughest since it was over a steep slide of rocks

The woman was warmed near a campfire at the base camp and was able to make the rest of the horseback trip.

The sheriff said heavy snow prevented getting a helicopter into the remote area Friday so it was decided to pack Miss Kowaczek out by horseback. The search party was short one horse so the four men took turns walking and leading her horse during the seven - hour journey.

She arrived at the Pahaska Teepee early in the evening and was taken by car 53 miles to the Cody hospital.

Her physician said she is in satisfactory condition, but has refused to let newsmen talk to her. He said he felt that relating details of the crash may upset her emotionally.

Thieves Take Seats Out of Parked Car

Darrel Cox, manager of Riley Auto Sales, 1605 S. Nevada Ave., reported to the sheriff's office Saturday that two front bucket seats and one rear seat worth a total of $182 were stolen from a car parked on his lot.

The vehicle belongs to William A. Turner, 323 Columbine St.

"Health Center, a Building Type Study," was the subject of a discussion at 4 p.m. The panel: Jonathan King, Educational Facilities Laboratories; Juan Reid, Colorado College and Herbert Paseur.

The closing event was a tour of the health center now under construction, led by Reid and Paseur.

Woman's Ring Stolen, Sheriff's Office Says

A woman's $1,500 ring was stolen from the home of Dr. W. Cogswell, 36 Broadmoor Ave., the sheriff's office said Saturday.

According to Dr. Cogswell, his wife had worn the ring Friday night and when she returned home, placed it on the dressing table in her bedroom. Upon looking for it the following morning she found it gone.

The ring is platinum with one large sapphire, three quarters of an inch by half an inch with four diamonds on each side.

Newest Chief In Viet Nam Is Harvard Man

cated economist, assumed temporary leadership by appointment of a military triumvirate that was established Thursday.

Oanh, 45, stressed at a news conference that it was still Khanh's government and he had no plans to reshuffle it.

"He is still the premier," Oanh said. "He is incapacitated. He is not well."

Troops in battle regalia maintained a tight guard around Saigon and other trouble spots to prevent rioting that has been almost unchecked for a week.

At least nine persons perished in the rioting, two Friday, and scores were hospitalized with injuries.

Oanh comes to the fore apparently with full approval of the United States, which is pouring men, material and money into the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

To many American officials, Oanh is affectionately known as Jack Owen. This is a play on the similarity of pronunciation of Oanh and Owen. Oanh speaks fluent, American-style English.

Oanh returned to South Viet Nam before President Diem was overthrown and slain in the coup of last Nov. 1

Oanh had been away for 16 years. He received his doctorate in economics from Harvard 10 years ago and from 1955 to 1960 was an instructor of economics at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

A Trinity faculty member described him as "a very courteous, friendly guy who was smiling most of the time."

At his first news conference as acting premier, he wore a dark blue suit and smiled confidently throughout. He appeared with members of Khanh's cabinet, among them Information Minister Pham Thai, a Dai Viet party member.

Oanh told the news conference he has no political affiliations.

He said he would work in harmony with the triumvirate of Khanh, Maj. Duong Van Minh and Lt. Gen. Tran Thiem Khiem.

Anna Johnson Died Saturday

Anna C. Johnson, 1026 N. Institute St., died Saturday at a local hospital. She was born on Dec. 6, 1870 in Sweden and had been a resident here for 60 years. Miss Johnson was a member of the Lutheran Church.

She is survived by a cousin, Mrs. Mabel Bloom, Chesterton, Ind.

Graveside services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday in Evergreen Cemetery with the Rev. A. G. Edstrom officiating.

Thieves Enter Park Buildings, Beer Taken

All the buildings at Memorial Park Baseball Diamond were broken into late Friday or early Saturday, police reported.

Apart from a six-pack carton of beer nothing else was taken. According to the report it would seem that the burglars were scared off as a number of valuable items had been placed to one side by the intruders.

Late Model Car Stolen, Owner Says

A 1962 Oldsmobile worth $2,800, was stolen from Anker O. Bergh, 211 S. Garo Ave., while the vehicle was parked at his home, police reported Saturday.

The car is a four-door, red hardtop with white wall tires, Colorado license JZ 6171, ID 625KO3453. In it were bats and balls worth approximately $200 and a 35 mm Argus C4 camera valued at $100.

Flying Grandmother Considers Parachuting

By THOMAS A. REEDY

Her husband, 85, is amused. Her son is proud. Her granddaughter, aged 4, is so impressed she prattles of being a parachutist some day.

Mrs. Hobday, a native New Zealander, is taking flying lessons and her instructors say her sureness at the controls is remarkable.

"That will be the greatest day of my life," Mrs. Hobday said.

Will she get a license?

That may be doubtful at her age. But she said :"I pass a test every year to drive my car. And I don't really need these glasses. I take 'em off in the cockpit."

Her husband, Richard, a retired clergyman, has been tolerant of his wife's flying.

"He was rather amused," she said. "He just smiled a little broadly, I suppose."

Mrs. Hobday traces her yearning to an encounter with a pioneer British aviator.

She recalled: "My ambition to fly began when Sir Charles Kingsford Smith flew the Tasman in 1928 and landed at Wigram Aerodrome, Christchurch, in New Zealand. In the early 30s he came again and I had a flight with him in the Southern Cross. I entered a competition for free flying tuition. There were 2,000 in it and I finished among the 10 finalists."

Since Mrs. Hobday was helping her husband in his ministerial duties as well as raising a family, the flying instructions never materialized.

Later the Hobdays returned to England. During World War II Mrs. Hobday qualified as an ambulance driver and at the age of 60 she whisked around blitzed London.

Her unfulfilled desire to fly was aroused again by her son, Stephen, when he joined the Three Counties Aero Club to obtain his private pilot's license.

"When I am in the air, I feel free," she said. "The whole world is around me."

LUCILLE BALL: "My advice to anyone who wants to improve his musical or speaking ability is to use a Roberts Tape Recorder for rehearsal."

Judge Allows Pills New Name

DENVER (UPI) — U. S. Dist. Judge Hatfield Chilson agreed Friday to allow Halsion pills and tablets, an acne treatment seized by the government for alleged false claims, to be relabeled.

Chilson earlier upheld seizure of the product by the U. S. Food & Drug Administration, which charged that labels claimed the pills were a complete treatment for all types of acne. Chilson said testimony showed the product may be helpful in mild cases.

Attorney Robert D. Inman told Chilson Friday the manufacturer, Allan Drug Corp. of Los Angeles, had been trying for a year and a half to relable the product but that the FDA has refused to heed this request. He said the government agency sought simply to have the pills and tablets completely removed from the market.

AAHS Adds Space Course To Curriculum

Air Academy High School (AAHS) has chalked up another educational milestone in the Pikes Peak region with addition of an aerospace education course to the curriculum.

Developed by the Civil Air Patrol, the year-long course is designed to be introductory type study. It can be offered for graduation, as a credit in science, or as an elective.

The high school principal, John Asbury, and Capt. James Cooksey, Academy Candidate Advisory staff member who serves as Air Academy Civil Air Patrol squadron commander, worked together in implementing the course outline entitled "Aerospace Education."

Richard Savino, a high school faculty member for six years, will teach the new two-semester course.

Enrollment in the course is not limited to CAP members.

Field trips and guest speakers are expected to enrich the content of the course. Additional training aids, such as mockups and actual aircraft inspections, will be used to add realism.

Organized field trips would include visits to an airport for study of traffic control, weather facilities, tower operation, communications, operations, and aircraft.

Study of aerospace career opportunities and continuous research on current aerospace activities will keep participating students up-to-date in the new field of education.

Adjutant General Personnel Chief To Retire Soon

Maj. John E. Pinkerton, chief of the Adjutant General personnel services division at Ft. Carson, will close more than 21 years of Army service when he retires Aug. 31 at Carson.

This World War II veteran who wears the Silver Star for heroism will continue to live at 815 Cresta Rd. and enroll at Colorado College to complete his degree requirements and to prepare for a teaching career.

Mrs. Pinkerton is a teacher at Midland School and a CC alumna.

The major began his Army service in Pittsburgh, Pa., where he enlisted after graduation from high school. After training in the United States, he went into combat as a squad leader with the 13th Armored Division and earned his Silver Star in a German ambush at Urbach.

He received a direct commission in the Adjutant General Corps while stationed at Munich, Germany, in 1951 after experience as a first sergeant.

Maj. Pinkerton first came to Carson 10 years ago leaving to attend Adjutant General School followed by duty tours in Texas, Japan and Korea before returning finally two years ago.

He has earned college credits at Georgia schools and through the University of Maryland.

The Pinkertons and their two young sons are members of Colorado Springs First Methodist Church. Mrs. Pinkerton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Santerre, 2922 Highland Drive.

CSU Receives Health Institute Facility Grants

FORT COLLINS — Colorado State University has received two National Institutes of Health facility grants totaling $268,000, Dr. A. R. Chamberlain announced Saturday following notification by the NIH Division of Research Facilities and Resources.

Confirming telegrams were also received from Senators Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick. One grant of $159,000 is for the construction of the Physiology Research Laboratories and the second of $109,000 for an addition to the Bio-Physical Building. In order to qualify for the grants, matching funds must be provided from non-federal sources.

The NIH $159,000 physiology facility grant, together with one of $459,750 from the National Science Foundation previously received, completes the federal participation in funding the Physiology Laboratories. This grant, in planning for nearly three years, is now ready to go pending availability of $659,000 of state matching funds later than May 1, 1965.

The second NIH grant will provide for the second phase of the Radiational Training Laboratory in the Bio-Physical Building and will provide facilities to carry on radiation biology research. This grant will provide critical space for additional senior staff members and for laboratories which will be utilized for research by the staff and the 25 graduate students in the department of radiology and radiation biology.

The grants are two of 48 totalling $29,492,365 awarded to 40 institutions in 24 states to provide matching federal funds for health research facility construction and equipment. Including the recently announced awards, the health research facilities program, administered by the Division of Research Facilities and Resources of the NIH, has made awards totalling $309,361,067 since 1956 to 396 institutions in 30 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. The Surgeon General makes these awards on the recommendation of the National Advisory Council on Health Research Facilities composed of leading nongovernmental scientists, research administrators, and other experienced in assisting health research facility needs of institutions throughout the nation.

New Skin Test Detects Penicillin Allergy Early

CHICAGO — A new skin test for detecting penicillin allergy was described in the Aug. 24 Journal of the American Medical Association.

The test has been used in 16,239 patients and no life-threatening reactions occurred in those with negative test results who later recieved therapeutic doses of penicillin, according to Bobby C. Brown, M.D., Eleanor V. Prince, and M. Brittain Moore, Jr., M.D., Atlanta. However, some false-negative and false-positive responses were recorded.

Although the new skin test is not the ideal tool for predetermining penicillin sensitivity, the authors said they believed it was "clearly the best at this time and the most promising area for future investigation."

Allergic reactions to penicillin, which can be fatal, have proved to be a serious drawback to what might have been almost universal recommendation of this antibiotic, the authors commented. The best blood test devised so far for determining penicillinsensitivity appears to be impractical for routine use, they pointed out, and skin tests in which dilute penicillin is used cannot be recommended for all persons because the test material itself has caused serious reactions.

The compound used in the new skin test incorporates one of the degradation products of penicillin, penicillinic acid, rather than penicillin. In recent years the theory has been advanced that the allergic reaction is caused not by penicillin, but by its degradation products.

After testing numerous compounds, the researchers said they found one, penicillolyl-polylysine, which would evoke a skin response without provoking an allergic reaction.

The test is performed by injecting a tiny amount of the compound in a solution within the skin to raise a small blister, the result is considered negative if, after 20 minutes, the blister has not changed. Any enlargement or redness around the injection site is considered positive.

Patients who participated in the study were seen at venereal disease clinics in Atlanta, St. Louis, Charlotte, N.C., Chicago Louisville, Memphis, Norfolk, Va., and Philadelphia and also at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., principally in its cardiac clinic.

The study re-emphasized the fact that reactions may occur in patients with no history of previous penicillin sensitivity, and penicillin can be tolerated without reaction in many who earlier demonstration bona fide hypersensitivity to the drug, the researchers added.

The authors are affiliated with the Communicable Disease Center, U.S. Public Health Service. Dr. Brown is assistant to the chief of the Veneral Disease Branch. Mrs. Price is a statistician. Dr. Moore is director of the Venereal Disease Research Laboratory.

New York Attorney Takes CU Law Post

BOULDER — J. Dennis Hynes, New York attorney, has been appointed an assistant professor of law at the University of Colorado.

Hynes, a 1960 CU law graduate, will assume his new position at the start of the fall semester. Hynes received a B.A. from CU in 1958. Among many honors he earned at the University as a student were membership in Phi Beta Kappa, Heart and Dagger, Phi Epsilon Phi and Phi Alpha Theta, all honorary organizations in the College of Arts and Sciences, and membership in Order of the Coif, law honorary.

Hynes had been associate attorney for three years with the New York law firm of Shearman & Sterling before accepting his new position at CU.

THREW A BOOMERANG

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A defense attorney was attempting to discredit the testimony of a woman state's witness during a trial in Buncombe (Asheville) County Superior Court.

"You just finished a prison term yourself, didn't you?" the attorney demanded. "Yes, that's right," the witness replied.

"What did you forge?" the attorney continued.

"Nothing!"

"Nothing!" the attorney thundered. "What on earth were you doing in prison?"

"I wish you'd tell me," the witness replied. "You were my lawyer."

AFA Personnel Plan 'Holiday' From Danger

Air Force Academy personnel will take a holiday Labor Day — a "Holiday from Danger."

For the third year in a row, Academyites and their families will be asked to stay off crowded holiday highways and spend their time instead at the unque, dual-purpose "Holiday from Danger" carnival.

In addition to providing Labor Day entertainment right at home, the Carnival raises contributions for the 1964 Air Force Aid Society Fund Drive.

Entertainment will be available for kids of all ages. The always popular "dunk the first sergeant" booth will be in operation as will fire engine and pony rides, adult and children's games, dart throwing contests, miniature golf, a photography and caricature booth, etc.

Music by various combos from the Academy and a twist contest for the youngsters are also on the program.

In addition, a Carnival from Danger Queen will be chosen by popular vote. Queen candidates include: Ada Kirkman, Karen Bitter, Mary Ellen McKinzie, Mary Liz Quinlan, Sally Sampson, and Jacque Kuilema.

Colorado Governor John Love signified his backing of the event by making the first contribution to the fund drive last week. Miss Janet Pitman, last year's queen, accepted the donation in the Governor's Denver office.

USO Official Recalls Tour at 'Camp' Carson

"Marvelous support" from the civilian community when the Camp Carson U. S. Army Hospital Red Cross program was expanded for Korean casualaties is the high spot in 21 years of service to the military for Elizabeth Luce, new program director for the Colorado Springs USP Club.

Miss Luce is delighted to be back in the Pikes Peak region after five years with Air Force Special Services most recently as director of the Arnold Hall Service Club at Lowry Air Force Base, Denver.

This Nebraskan recalls her hospital Red Cross duty tour at Carson as "most rewarding" and hopes to renew old acquaintances. She remembers many shortages in the personal comfort line for patients back in 1951 and how the community responded with volunteer help as well as materials. A veteran of the China-Burma-India Theater in World War II, her overseas service has been entirely in the Far East.

Now she is concerned with new program ideas for Colorado Springs home-away-from-home for service personnel including the vital junior and senior volunteers who add to the home-like atmosphere.

Girls from 18 to 24 17½ with written permission from parents) are invited to volunteer by visiting the club and meeting Miss Luce or Miss Elizabeth Dickey, the director from noon to 10 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday.

Senior volunteers willing to work at the club can serve in many ways or give refreshments such as through the USO Cake Club. Interested persons are asked to visit the club or call.

Miss Luce is living at 913 La Salle Street Colorado Springs.

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

C. S. DUDLEY

I hear echoes of my resurrected story of the runaway freight train that rolled at high speed from Falcon to Roswell and was smashed to smithereens there May 8, 1938. Readers of this column of Aug. 21 have been telephoning me that they went to Roswell to see the wreckage and that the pile of debris in the roundhouse yards there was almost unbelievable. They tell me they cannot see how an 18-car train, without a locomotive, could have cracked up in such a mess.

One of those who tells me she went to Roswell is Mrs. L. A. McCandlish, of 1923 N. Cascade Ave.

"The cattle in the train were my husband's," she said. "You have it that one steer was killed and another injured so badly it had to be shot. I believe there was more than one that were shot because of serious injuries."

The ranch of the late L. A. McCandlish is near Falcon.

"You never have seen such a pile of wreckage as there was at Roswell after that wreck," Mrs. McCandlish said. "Cowboys worked all the next day rounding up the terrified animals. They fled in all directions from the place of the wreck, and finding them was not like rounding up stock on the range."

Mr. and Mrs. McCandlish were at church in Colorado Springs and as they came out some one said to Mr. McCandlish, "Are those your cattle running all around here?"

He replied that they were not, only to find out a few minutes later that they were.

Another reader of this historic wreck account tells me that she went to see the wreck the day of the accident and that a car wheel had been thrown high into the air and came down on a water tank, cutting a hole through the roof of it as a can-opener would open a can.

The woodwork of the cars in which the cattle were loaded was reduced to splinters, hoisting the animals into the air and setting them free when the cars came down in pieces.

I have been unable to find out exactly what caused the wreck when, just in time, the train was shunted to a sidetrack in the roundhouse yards. What I seem to come to by my inquiries is that when the switch was thrown the train dashed from the main track and was derailed, and that it was then it piled up, and that if it had not derailed itself it would have crashed into the roundhouse. The spikes that held the rails of the track on which it was wrecked were pulled from the ties by the force of the runaway.

Most of the cars were loaded with coal. This coal was piled up in the railroad yard into almost a mountain, and much of it was pulverized by the force of the sudden stop of the train, the speed of which was estimated to have been 180 miles an hour. Had it not been that the train was switched onto a roundhouse track it might have rolled on down to Colorado Springs and perhaps crashed into a passenger train.

Local Resident Now Stationed At Ft. Carson

S.Sgt. Eldon R. Broughton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Broughton, 2809 West Bijou, arrived at Fort Carson recently and is assigned to C Company, 1st Battalion, 61st Infantry.

Sgt. Broughton, a squad leader, entered the army in December 1954 and completed his basic combat training at Fort Carson. Traveling to Germany in 1961, he was assigned to Headquarters Company, 509th Airborne, 8th Infantry Division. During his tour in Germany, he received the airborne master jumpers wings, indicating 65 jumps, prior to his second assignment at Carson.

Broughton is a 1954 graduate of Lamar Union High School, Lamar, and is a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Colorado Springs.

Quotes From End Of Convention

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democrats were saying these things as their 34th national convention came to a close:

President Johnson — "I ask the American people for a mandate — not to preside over a finished program — not just to keep things going. I ask the American people for a mandate to begin. Let us be on our way."

Vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey — "In the last three-and-a-half years most Democrats and Republicans have agreed on the great decision our nation has made. But not Senator Goldwater. He has been facing backward — against the mainstream of history."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, paying tribute to his late brother — "I realize as an individual, and even more important, for a political party and for our country, you can't just look to the past, we must look to the future. So I join with you in realizing that what has been started four years ago — that everyone here started four years ago — that's to be sustained, that's to be continued."

Mrs. Johnson — "Sometimes I wish all the world could just once travel the campaign trail across America in an election year. So much that can never be put into words about America and the meaning of our freedom comes through so clearly from seeing the land and the faces of the people — from their spirit, their confidence, their strength, and what I can only describe as their goodness."

Littleton Man Shot On Street in Denver

DENVER (UPI)—Denver police said a Littleton, Colo. man was shot in the back while walking along an East Denver street late Friday.

The man, Aaron Work, 22, told officers he did not see who did the shooting nor could he give a reason for it.

Work was reported in satisfactory condition at Denver General Hospital Saturday.

STUDY IN MEXICO — Sally Knop, left, and Gloria Green, both of Colorado Springs, are surrounded by history as they sit on an ancient stone bench beneath drawings from a long-dead civilization in Mexico. Another local student, Janet Campbell, is also studying at the University of the Americas, formerly Mexico City College.

Three Springs Residents Study in Mexican School

MEXICO CITY (Special to the Gazette Telegraph) Surrounded by the remains of an ancient Toltec civilization and the surging vitality of Mexico City, the second largest metropolis in the Western Hemisphere, three residents of Colorado Springs have been studying at the University of the Americas this summer. They are Sally Knop, Box 225 Rt. 3, Janet Campbell, 2118 Clarkson Dr., and Gloria Green, 822 W. Polk St.

Belonging to the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the institution is the only liberal arts university in Latin America approved by a United States accrediting agency. All classes are taught in English although most students take Spanish which they practice daily in their contact with the people of Mexico and in the university - approved Mexican homes where they live. The university enrolls more American students than any other school in the world outside the borders of the United States.

Besides being able to take courses from a faculty trained in Latin America, the U. S., and Europe, the Colorado Springs residents have had the opportunity of going on UA sponsored trips to the pyramids of Teotihuacan, the floating gardens of Xochimilco, the Monte Alban archeological ruins in Oaxaca, and to such places in the capital as Chapultepec Castle, the Palace of Fine Arts, and to some of the modern federal housing projects.

Miss Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Green, is a graduate of Palmer High School and has a B. A. degree from the University of Colorado. She is a teacher in the Canal Zone. Miss Campbell, who is a graduate of Roy J. Wasson High School in a Spanish major and studied last year at Austin College in Sherman, Texas. Miss Knop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Knop, graduated from St. Gertrude Academy in Boulder and is a freshman at the University of Colorado.

"With students enrolled from 49 of the United States and 30 countries, the University of the Americas," says President D. Ray Lindley, "has a unique role in the area of international education and has a part in the cold war. The school is an important cultural 'bridge' between the Americas."

Grant Awarded For Expansion Of 4-F Program

DENVER -- The Colorado State Department of Public Health has been awarded a federal grant, expected to total $182,465 over a three-year period, for the development of a selective service rejectee rehabilitation program to serve as a prototype for other states, Dr. Roy L. Cleere, Colorado health director, said Saturday.

The State Health Department has been conducting a pilot rejectee counseling project to learn what happens to Coloradans rejected for military service because of a physical condition. Under the initial program, public health officials have emphasized to rejectees the importance of follow-up action and have referred them to appropriate sources for medical care.

The federal grant just approved by the Community Health Services Division of the U. S. Public Health Service will enable the State Health Department to do comprehensive remedial and rehabilitative follow-up work in local areas with the comprehensive remedial and rehabilitative follow-up work in local areas with the approximately 500 young men disqualified annually in Colorado for military service. The grant will provide $57,644 this fiscal year, $61,131 next year, and $63,690 for the third year. Commitments for the second and third years, however, are dependent upon congressional appropriations.

The program will start October 1 under the direction of Dr. Valentin E. Wohlauer, chief of the Department's Health Mobilization Section. A six-member staff will administer the program. Office space will be provided at the State Health Department and adjacent to the Armed Forces Examination Station in the New Custom House in Denver.

Family Mill Far from Automatic

In some areas the owner of the only industry in town wouldn't be expected to pitch in with the hired help and get his hands dirty, but when the town is Florissant and the industry is the Los Pinos Lumber Co., that's just what happens.

The saw mill run by William R. Manuel and his son, Bill Jr., supports four families, puts out about 350,000 feet of lumber a year and has a long way to go before it becomes a push-button operation.

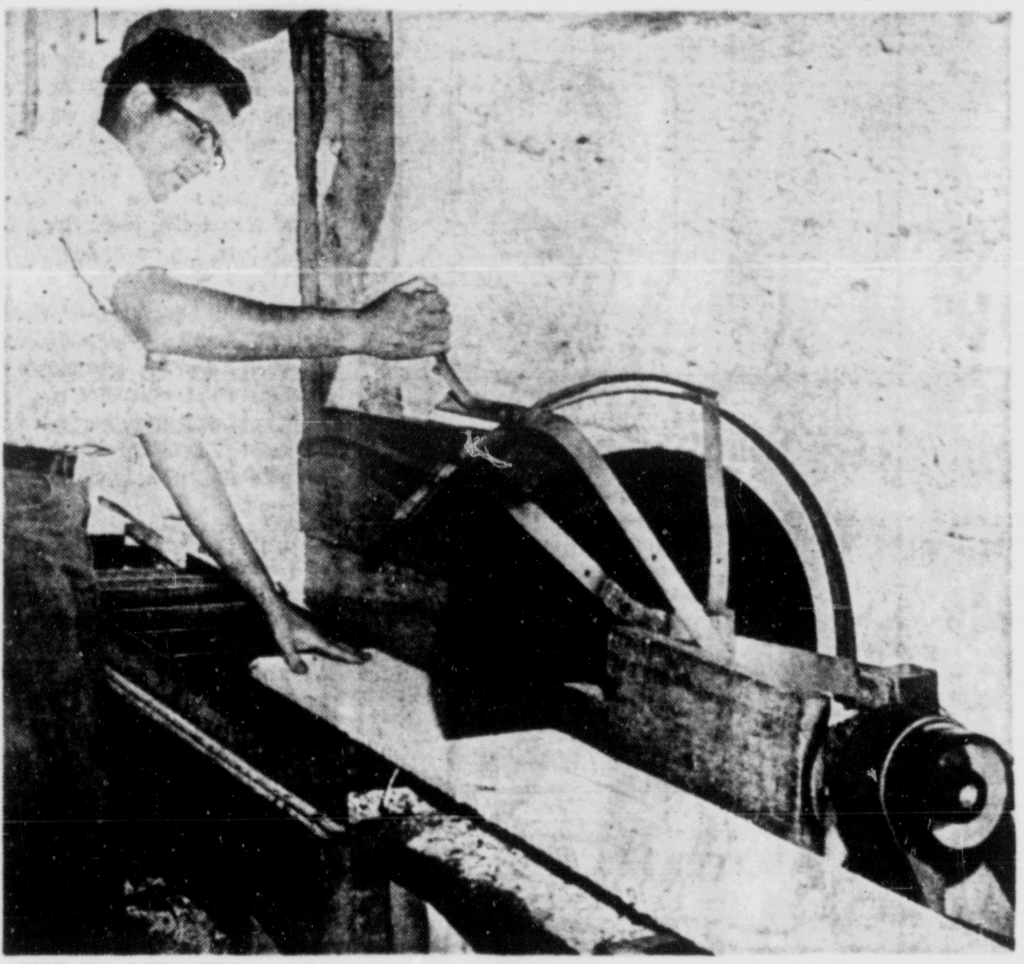
Manuel calls the $15,000 mill "very small as mills go," but is planning to "buck the big operators" soon by installing hydraulic equipment and expanding the operation generally. But for now, the two men who help Manuel and his son operate the mill during the winter can make more money working for the forest service during the summer, and that is what they do. Manuel hires college students as summer replacements.

Most of the Los Pinos lumber is sold to the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad as cross ties although the Manuels are finding a growing summer market for lumber in such nearby areas as Colorado Mountain Estates, Tranquil Acres and Sportsman's Paradise.

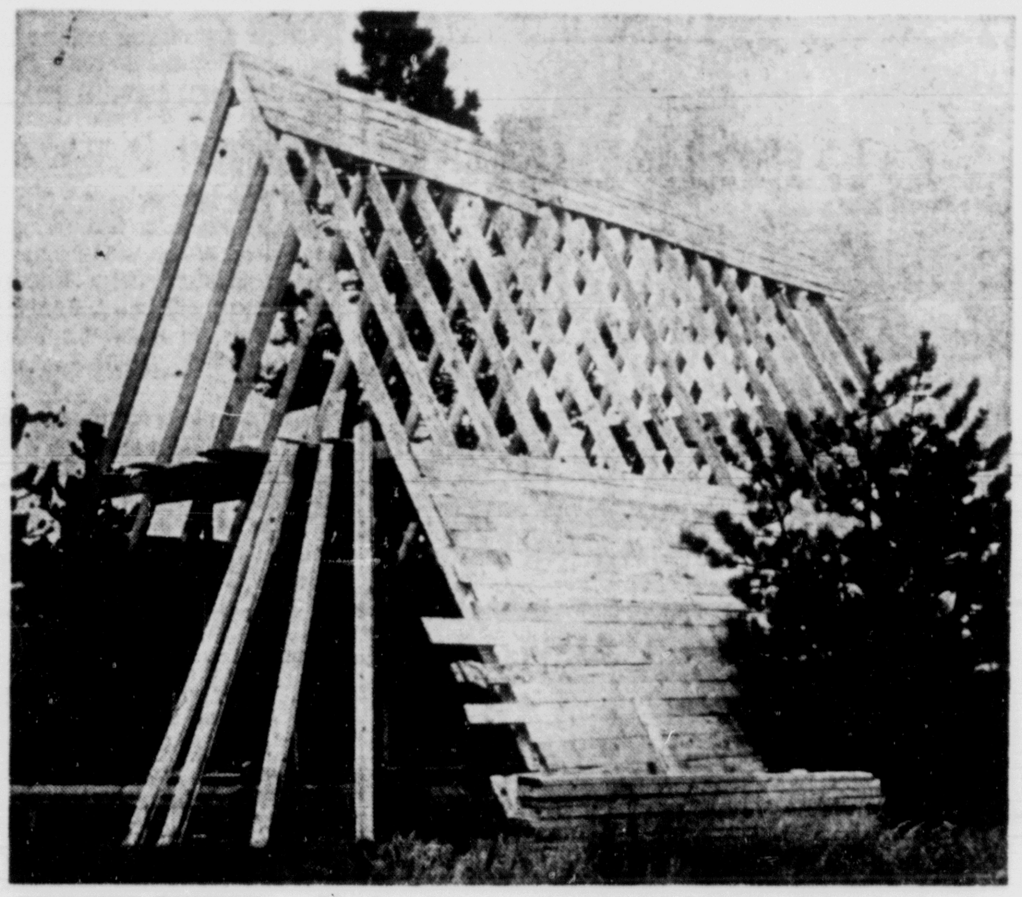
Los Pinos has six highway trucks which carry the Pike National Forest lumber to Denver and just about all of the new development projects in Teller County. The company "supplied the lumber for at least one or two cabins in each of the new projects," said Manuel, who started the mill three years ago after running another mill on the western slope for several years.

The expanding Los Pinos operation recently acquired a million and a half feet of timber from the government and Manuel is planning to increase the mill's output to 50,000 feet a month in the near future.

Manuel would like to have electric power to run the mill's saws, rather than the diesel power he now uses, but since he likes to stay out of debt and own fully all of his equipment, it may be a long time before electricity comes to Florissant's only industry.



CUT TO LENGTH — This trim saw is used to cut the lumber into specified lengths and is used as the last step in the process before the lumber is sold.



FINISHED LUMBER — The Los Pinos lumber is used here in the construction of a cabin in the Colorado Mountain Estates development area, three miles south of Florissant.

Woodland Man Competes for Safety Award

Samuel H. Bleam, Woodland Park, has won a commendation for safe driving and will compete for the August Highway Safety Award to be presented by The Denver Post and Denver U. S. National Bank.

Following an occasion on which he was seen operating his vehicle in an exceptionally careful, defensive manner, Bleam was issued a "congratulation" card by Colorado State Patrolman Gordon W. Baumgardner, 2918 Gomer Ave.

The patrolman also recommended that Mr. Bleam be considered for the current month's Highway Safety Award and a $100 savings bond prize which will go to a motorist singled out for statewide recognition by a judging committee.

Californian to Study Local Social Needs

Daniel A. Belknap, executive director of the Welfare Planning Council in Santa Barbara, Calif., has been named to direct a long-range analysis of the social needs of the Pikes Peak region.

The five-year program is being financed by a $100,000 grant to Colorado College from El Pomar Foundation of Colorado Springs.

Operating under the guidance of Colorado College and an advisory committee of community leaders headed by Mrs. Harry S. Bunker, the program will be the first independent analysis of the welfare, health, recreation, and family and youth services of the region ever undertaken.

Belknap will assume his new duties as project director in Colorado Springs on Sept. 1.

In Colorado Springs, Belknap will study areas of need and determine how these prolbems can be solved with the existing resources. Working with the advisory committee, he will compile and make available information about existing community services, serve as a consultant, help to coordinate the efforts of both private and public social services, and attempt to determine the long-range social needs of the community.

Belknap has been at Santa Barbara for the past five years where he developed the Welfare Planning Council program and has supervised the Volunteer Bureau and the Social Service Exchange. He also has been consultant on health and welfare to the County Board of Supervisors and consultant to the Santa Barbara Community Chest budget committee.

Since 1961 he also has been a part-time lecturer in social welfare at the University of California at Santa Barbara, and part-time instructor in sociology at Westmont College.

Belknap holds a master of science degree from Columbia University, a master of arts degree from New York University, and a bachelor of arts degree from Cornell University.

Prior to his appointment at Santa Barbara, he was county area secretary of the Council of Social Agencies and Red Feather Fund of Flint and Genesee Counties in Michigan.

Belknap's experience in social work dates back to 1947 and includes field work, camp directing, casework, research, and street club work.

Author of a monograph on "A Study of Families Using the Day Care Center at Montclair, N. J.," he is a member of the National Association of Social Workers and Phi Delta Kappa.

He is married and the father of six children.

Hospital in Florence Faces Crisis; Sends Out Call for Financial Help

By BOB CRUZEN

After 16 years of successful operation, St. Joseph Hospital in Florence, which serves not only this community but all of eastern Fremont County and a population area estimated at over 5,000 persons, is facing a major crisis.

While services, personnel, administration and equipment is of a high caliber, the chief problem is the hospital's physical plant which no longer meets the standards of an accredited institution.

The main portion of the present hospital was once a chicken hatchery. Florence residents, civic organizations, and interested citizens throughout the area raised over $30,000 in donations in 1945 to launch this vital community institution which was erected in the fall of 1946 at a cost of over $200,000.

The hospital was formally dedicated by Bishop Joseph Willging, bishop of the Southern Colorado Diocese on Jan. 15, 1948. Since that time it has been efficiently and successfully operated by the Sisters of the Order of Saint Benedict.

The hospital board, a group of civic leaders throughout eastern Fremont County who serve without compensation, and the residents of eastern Fremont County and southern Custer County who directly benefit from the hospital's service, are proud of this community hospital and the Sisters of Saint Benedict for the services rendered to the area.

Now faced by a real emergency, brought about by a new and much stiffer minimum hospital standard handed down by the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Hospitals, and the Colorado State Department of Public Health, St. Joseph Hospital is in danger of being closed down because of a physical plant which is sub-standard.

Since the fall of 1963 the hospital board has been working long hours in a desperate attempt to solve the problem.

The board first hoped to launch a remodeling program which would require the simple addition of necessary facilities, however, the architectural firm of Murrin, Kasch, Kahn & Associates, hired by the board, found that the physical substandard conditions could not be eliminated by this arrangement.

The design and construction of a new hospital, therefore, was virtually forced on the board by the growing needs of the hospital, the community, and the accreditation boards.

In the past few years, vast changes in the minimum accepted standards for a hospital plant have taken place. No amount of new equipment or excellence of staff can make up for a physical plant that is worn out.

The deficiencies in the hospital have been again pointed out through the recent survey of St. Joseph Hospital by both the Joint Commssion of Accreditation of Hosiptals, and the Colorado State Department of Public Health.

The following areas do not meet the minimum standards set forth by either organization:

1. Operating Suite.
2. Emergency Room.
3. Obstetrical Delivery Room..
4. Kitchen.
5. Heating.
6. Storage Facilities.
7. Maternity Suite.
8. Existing plant upon which to base a master plan for future growth.

The board, therefore, has been faced by the stern fact that remodeling of the existing building would be both physically and economically impossible.

The present hospital is operating at an average of 85 per cent of capacity, well above the national average of 63 per cent. It is therefore necessary to increase the number of beds from 32 to 40. This addition to the above stated needs makes a total new hospital the only answer.

Space requirements for the proposed new hospital, which will meet the needs of the community and the requirements of the accrediting agencies, are these:

Ground Floor — food service: kitchen, staff dining, sister's dining; hospital service — central sterilization, clean storage, housekeeping, central supply; other areas — employe lockers, mechanical equipment, unassigned equipment.

First Floor — administration: waiting room, business office, administrator's office, library and records, chapel; out patient department — emergency room, X-ray suite, exam rooms, laboratory; surgical suite — two surgery rooms, scrub - up, soiled holding room, dressing rooms, storage; obstetrical department — eight maternity beds, father's waiting room, labor, delivery, nursery and work room, day room; pediatrics department — four beds, nurses' station; medical-surgical — 40 beds, two utility rooms, nurses' station, bath facilities, floor storage.

The problem of financing a new hospital, which has been estimated to cost about $1,200,000, is a formidable one and will require maximum community support.

It is, of course, impossible for Florence and eastern Fremont County to raise even a sizeable portion of the total monies required to build a hospital as the one now on the drawing boards. However, the full support of the people in this area will be required to raise as much money as possible through voluntary contributions. The bulk of the monies will come from other sources by sheer necessity.

The object of the local drive is two-fold. First, the board hopes to raise approximately $30,000 through various area contributions. Secondly, the drive, if successful, will show to those outside this area, who are being asked to help us out in the desperate plight, that the folks who need and use the hospital are willing to go all out to save it from being closed. . . a tragedy the area can ill afford in this instance.

The drive will be head by Jerry Sandell, Florence attorney and member of the board. He will be assisted by hospital board members and volunteer workers throughout the eastern Fremont County area.

Dates for the main drive concentration have been set Aug. 29 to Sept. 15. There will be no other hospital drive this year.

The early date for the drive, which is usually set in October, became necessary when it was learned that matching Hill-Burton (federal aid) funds will be allocated during the month of September.

The board of St. Joseph Hospital has been advised that the hospital here will be given one of the top priorities for these Hill-Burton funds. Monies received from the drive, plus a supported sum of $200,000 from the Order of St. Benedict, and other funds now being sought from foundations will be needed to make Hill-Burton assistance possible. The federal funds will account for 45 per cent of the total building program if allocated.

Women from local organizations will solicit house-to-house in Florence beginning Monday. A group of businessmen will be detailed to collect funds from from commercial and industrial groups. Volunteer workers will solicit funds in Penrose, Wetmore, Coal Creek, Rockvale, Brewster, and other areas in the county. Several board members will contact a list of special donors.

Contributors are urged to send in their donations as soon as possible to expedite the drive and help conclude the campaign before the Hill - Burton application is finally acted upon in Denver. Therefore, the Sept. 15 deadline has been established.

Registration Information For District 11 Reprinted

Editor's note: School District 11 officials have requested reprinting of registration information due to numerous and continuing calls from parents. The Gazette Telegraph carried this information in its Aug. 9 Back to school section.

Colorado Springs public schools will open Sept. 9. Last year youngsters began classes Sept. 4

The following information on registration was reported by District 11 officials:

Elementary pupils, including those who in kindergarten who enrolled in pre-registration last spring, will report to their schools at 9 a.m. Sept. 9. Children must be five-years-old during 1964 to enroll in kindergarten and six-years-old during the year to attend first grade.

Pupils, including those in kindergarten, who enroll for the first time in city schools, will submit birth certificates at enrollment. New pupils in the system and pupils in the first, four, seventh and 10 grades will have physical examinations. Registration forms are at the Administration Building, 1115 N. El Paso St.

Adjustments in time schedules for the 1964-65 school year are necessary at high schools because of the enrollment increase.

Juniors and seniors at Palmer High School will report at 8 a.m. Sept. 9 to a sponsor group. Registration will be finished by noon. Sophomores will report to an orientation meeting at 1:30 p.m. Registration will be completed by 3 p.m.

Juniors and seniors at Wasson High School will report at 7:30 a.m. to a sponsor group, then to classes. Sophomores will report to a sponsor group at 12:30 p.m., then to classes.

Former elementary pupils, including kindergarten, will be excused for the rest of the day after they receive homeroom assignments.

Students at East, North, Horace Mann, South and West junior high schools—who attended District 11 schools last year—will report to assigned homerooms at 8:45 a.m. Sept. 9. Students at these schools who are new to the district, or those who do not have homeroom assignments, will report to the auditorium.

Students enrolling in Washington Irving Junior High School will report at 8:45 a.m. to the following areas: seventh grade, cafeteria; eighth grade, gymnasium; ninth grade, auditorium.

Enrollment will be accelerated for students in grades seven to 12 who are new to the district, or have been away for a year or more, if they arrange programs of study and take pre-school tests to be administered at 8 a.m. Aug 27, 28, 31 and Sept. 1 in Palmer and Wasson high schools. Youngsters with physical or other handicaps may make special arrangements for testing by contacting the principal of the school they expect to attend.

New students at North, South and West junior high schools and Palmer High will report to Palmer High for testing. New students at East, Horace Mann and Washington Irving junior high schools and Wasson High will be tested in Wasson High.

Students going to Palmer High for tests should use the main entrance on North Nevada and East Platte avenues and report to the cafeteria. Students going to Wasson High for tests should use the office entrance on Afton Way.

This is the testing schedule: grades seven to nine, 8 to 11:45 a.m. and 1 to 2:30 p.m.; grades 10 to 12, 8 to 1:45 a.m. and to 3:30 p.m.

It is necessary for students taking tests to appear on only one of the above dates. Report cards and birth certificates are not needed when a student is tested. On Aug. 24 students transferring from one junior high to another were requested to call the school they will attend to arrange registration.

Officals say that testing new students will take most of the day and that arrangements should be made for a noon meal.

Students who attended Palmer High or Wasson High last year—but withdrew during the school year — had to arrange for an appointment with their counselor Aug. 27. If this is not done the student may wait until Sept. 11 to be enrolled. Students should make telephone appointments at their respective high school offices.

Students who changed residences during the summer, and will be transferring from Palmer High to Wasson High or visa versa should call the school to which he is transferring and arrange to see his counselor.

High school sophomores should have a medical examination during the summer. The record of this examination is to be given to the student's sponsor at enrollment time.

Physical education is required of sophomores and juniors. If a student wishes a medical excuse, a doctor's certificate presented at registration will accelerate enrollment.

Lockers will be assigned Sept 9 at both high schools and locks will be issued.

Cafeteria service will begin Sept. 10. It is recommended that students eat in the cafeterias, whether they bring or buy lunches.

Wasson High students who drive automobiles or motor scooters must register them with the school office by Sept. 10. Parking places will be provided on the school lot.

High school students are urged to buy activity tickets so they may participate in all activities at minimum cost. Activities are: admission to all regularly scheduled games (except hockey and championship playoff games), concerts, dramatic productions, school parties sponsored by the student organization, a subscription to the school paper and annual. Other activities, such as debate, music and the student organization, receive funds from sale of activity cards, which cost $10.

Under a deferred payment plan activity cards may be paid for in installments for a total cost of $10. Cards are sold at business managers' offices.

CU to Begin Fall Semester On Sept. 8

BOULDER — More than 13,000 students will gather on the Boulder campus of the University of Colorado the day after Labor Day for the beginning of the fall semester.

Registration and orientation for the more than 2,800 new freshmen expected will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 8. The freshmen will be kept busy through Saturday, Sept. 12, meeting with their advisers, registering for classes, touring the campus and attending various open houses.

The President's Convocation for new students will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 8, and a convocation on CU traditions will be held at 8:15 p.m. Sept. 9.

Students other than new freshmen also will register from Tuesday, Sept. 8 through Saturday, Sept. 12.

East Junior High Boundary Line Is Described

An error was made in the description of the boundary of East Junior High School, according to Charles M.. Day, administrative assistant to the superintendent. Day said the error was made by the school district.

The correct description of the boundary is as follows:

The boundary for East Junior High School will be from a point directly north of the main stream of Shooks Run to a point of intersection with Madison Street, then from this point on Madison Street east to Oriole Avenue, then north on Oriole Avenue to Robin Drive, then north on Robin Drive to Van Buren Street, then east on Van Buren Street to North Circle Drive, then south on North Circle Drive to Pikes Peak Avenue, then west on Pikes Peak Avenue to Farragut Avenue, then north on Farragut Avenue to Willamette Avenue, then west on Willamette Avenue to Logan Avenue, then north on Logan Avenue to Monument Street, then on Monument Street west to Foote Avenue, then north on Foote Avenue to Dale Street, then west on Dale Street to Sheridan Avenue, then north on Sheridan Avenue to San Rafael Street, then on San Rafael Street west to Hancock Avenue, then north on Hancock Avenue, then north on Hancock Avenue to San Miguel Street, then west on San Miguel Street to Shooks Run, then north on Shooks Run to Madison Street.

Cheyenne Mountain Registration Schedule

Youngsters attending Cheyenne Mountain District 12 schools will register Tuesday by the following schedule:

—Elementary, 9 a.m.-noon.

—Seventh grade, 9 a.m.

—Eighth grade, 10:30 a.m.

—Ninth and tenth grades, 1-3 p.m.

Eleventh and twelfth grades, 9-11 a.m.

Schools will be in full session Sept. 2.

Aiken Society To See Film On Hawaii

The 1964-65 series of four Audubon Wildlife Films to be presented in Colorado Springs this winter has been announced by Mrs. Noble Miller, president of the Aiken Ornithological Society which sponsors the films locally. All four programs will be at 8 p.m. at the Fine Arts Center.

Opening the series Oct. 9, Dr. Alfred M. Bailey will show his all color motion picture "Hawaii," a golden anniversary film commemorating his 50 years of active field work in all parts of the world. Dr. Bailey is director of the Denver Museum of Natural History.

Other National Audubon Society speakers and their programs:

Jan. 16 — Robert C. Hermes of Homestead, Florida, introduces Venezuelan wildlife in color and in action in "Ranch of the Purple Flowers."

Feb. 20 — "Teton Trails" is Charles T. Hotchkiss' film and lecture which ends in a breathtaking climb up the Grand Teton.

April 2 — "Land That I Love" features Eben McMillan of Cholame, California, who narrates a film-story to stimulate interest in conservation.

"The Audubon Wildlife Films bring us an appreciation and understanding of the world of nature," Mrs. Miller said in her announcement, "Which, in turn, can help us further the cause of conservation. Our Wildlife and natural resources need our help."

This is the eighth year the Aiken Ornithological Society has sponsored these films in Colorado Springs. Tickets are now available from Mrs. H. J. Weberbauer, 2005 Patrician Way, 633-9879, or at Blick Sporting Goods Co., 119 N. Tejon St.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: When the Compasses Don't Point North.

NEEDED: Two needles, a ruler, two books, a magnet, some thread.

DO THIS: Magnetize two needles by rubbing the end of a magnet against them as shown in drawing 1, and suspend them on strings so that they will point North and South. Hang them on a ruler. Bring them together by sliding the strings along the ruler, and soon they will point toward each other, not North and South.

WHY? The magnets made by rubbing the needles produce magnetic fields close to them that are stronger than the magnetic field of the earth. The effect of their fields is noticed only when they are close together.

When they hang at a distance from each other the earth's magnetism keeps them pointing North. The force of attraction of two magnet poles on each other is inversely proportional to the square of the distance between them. The strength of the fields does not vary.

Teenage Market Has Great Economic Power in U.S.

BOULDER — The millions of dollars being drawn from the pockets of America's teenagers by Britain's mop-topped Beatles isn't much of a surprise to a University of Colorado faculty member.

Phillip R. Cateora, an assistant professor of marketing in the CU School of Business, has a special interest in the spending habits of America's 20 million teenagers. He says the Beatles and their multi-million-dollar business are just another proof that the teenage market is one of great economic power and should be considered as such.

For instance, American teenage girls spend $321 million per year on popular records, or 56.3 per cent of the total record purchases. And Cateora says the 11,165,000 girls make up only 6 per cent of the nation's population.

Each year teenagers spend an estimated $10 billion of their own money on "maybe 10 or 12 types of items," Cateora says. "By 1970, it will be around $21 billion."

Teenagers also buy one fifth of the total deodorants sold—more than $25 million worth per year—and they spend more than $1.5 billion per year on entertainment. Girls spend about $450 million per year on cosmetics.

"The female segment of the teenage population," says Cateora mildly, "is of particular delight to the retailer."

"The teenager has become significant from a marketing view in at least three capacities: as an immediate market, as future adult consumers, and as a force causing great shifts in types of items purchased."

"There is no question as to the immediate discretionary teen market," Cateora said. "You only have to look at the millions of dollars the Beatles have attracted in the short span of a year and a half."

Cateora attributes much of teenage spending to a nationwide teen culture, which has three traits: compulsive independence of the family, compulsive conformity with the teen group, and a romantic attitude.

He lists as an example the surfing fad which started on the West Coast and has spread across the nation, "even to little landlocked towns in Nebraska, where the teenagers play surfing music, comb their hair like a surfer, and buy surfboards with wheels on them."

The $10 billion spent per year by teenagers is money from gifts, wages, and allowances. Cateora estimates that teenagers influence another $20 to $30 billion in sales annually, by getting their parents to purchase items for them.

Regarding the teenager as a future adult consumer, Cateora's market analysis showed that " . . a child-oriented society . . coupled with general economic prosperity, has produced a modern teenager too impatient to wait for years to accumulate the 'good things' of life.

"He will fully expect to start married life with nearly a house full of yesterday's 'luxuries,' " Cateora says, and he strongly suspects that "should (the young adult) be denied many of these items he would feel badly underprivileged."

The teenager's experience and behavior during the teen period "will certainly serve as an important frame of reference for future consumer behavior," Cateora said. He therefore believes that advertisers should direct much of their attention to the older teenagers, who are developing adult buying habits.

As the teenager moves into young adult life, and thus becomes more and more independent of his family, the family then has more money to spend on items which could not be purchased during the years when the teenager's demands had to be met. This additional money in the family causes the shift in purchasing, with more money being spent on different types of goods.

"As a market," Cateora says, "the teenager possesses all of the attributes necessary to justify a marketer's efforts. He has desires, money, and a willingness to translate those desires into purchases."

Doctors Tell Ways to Cure Migraine Ache

BY THE COLORADO CHIROPRACTIC SOCIETY

In almost all cases, there is a formula for getting out of trouble and staying clear.

It's true with the body's health, just as it is with problems which plague the nation, such as migraine headache.

For example, sensible eating habits, enough rest and good living conditions are necessary to health and happiness, but it is part of the health formula being left out because of something people do not know?

"There are too many who do not realize that the nerves in the spinal column mean life and death, sickness and health," the Colorado Chiropractic Society reports. "It is not romantic to think about because illness never is, and yet, good nerve condition is just as necessary as food, water and shelter to the lives of Colorado citizens."

The society points out that the relief of headache through the use of deadening drugs is at best a temporary measure - these drugs relieve pain temporarily, but will not cure. The cause of most headache, including migraine, has been demonstrated as a nerve pressure problem in countless cases, and the proof is in cures where relief has been brought about permanently.

In these cases, the unique hollow bones of the spinal column have been found to be out of place, and the nerves within their protective centers have been pinched and the brain began to ache in protest.

Some patients have been given relief immediately through chiropractic care as the bones were put back in place and the pressure relieved, while in others it takes longer before the pinched nerves can regain full normal function. But the story of chiropractic and headache is almost always the same: there was headache before chiropractic, and there was none after.

State Patrol Will Be Strict On Labor Day

Labor Day weekend will be the final three-day holiday of the summer season. How many lives will be lost in traffic mishaps?

The State Patrol promises the tightest possible enforcement with all Patrol equipment including radar units, and every available officer.

Patrol Chief Carrel warns, however, that his officers cannot be every place at once, and drivers will be obliged to help protect themselves by driving with the greatest possible care.

"Obeying the traffic rules is not enough," says Carrel. "The driver who is seriously interested in protecting himself and his passengers will drive defensively — he will obey the law AND keep a sharp eye for the fellow who doesn't. In a smash-up Death doesn't limit his selection of victims to violators."

The Patrol Chief pointed out that the safe driver obeys all traffic laws, but he is especially careful to avoid 'killer' violations. These are listed as speeding, wrong side of the road, improper turning and failing to yield the right of way.

"Every driver and every pedestrian is a candidate for a traffic tragedy," said Carrel, "Drive carefully — walk carefully."

RED—ANNIVERSARY

MOSCOW (UPI) — Pravda said Saturday the international Communist movement is "the most influential political force of our time." It accused Communist China of having "openly broken with the main conclusions of the movement." The newspaper was commenting on the 100th anniversary of the First Communist International.

Philosophy Instructor Author of New Book

BOULDER, Colo. — Donald F. Gustafson, assistant professor of philosophy at the University of Colorado, is editor of a newly published book, "Essays in Philosophical Psychology."

The book, published by Doubleday & Co., Inc. (Anchor Books), includes 20 essays "bearing on the nature of mind, intellect, will, action, emotion, and the mental processes thorugh which human nature and behavior must be under stood — believing, pretending, dreaming, imagining, intending, and many others."

Gustafson has been a member of the CU faculty since 1961. He formerly taught at the University of Texas from where he holds B.A., M.A. and Ph.D degrees.

North Koreans Hold Welcome for Defector

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Korea announced today it had staged a welcoming ceremony for a South Korean soldier who allegedly defected.

A broadcast by the official North Korean radio identified him as Li Eun Jong, and said he had been given a sum of money as a reward for defecting.

Federal Health Benefit Prices To Increase

The Civil Service Commission has announred that 20 of the 38 plans participating in the Federal Employes Health Benefits Program will increase their premium rates for the fifth contract period which begins Nov. 1.

The commission also said that an unlimited open season will be scheduled for Feb. 1-15, 1965, during which eligible unenrolled employes may enroll in a plan and enrolled employes and annuitants may change plans, options, or type of enrollment from self only to self and family. This will be the first unlimited open season since October 1961 for annuitants enrolled in the active Federal Employes Health Benefits Program.

In general, the premium increases are in the high options of the plans which provide greater benefits at a higher cast. Approximately 1,783,000 employes will be affected by the rate changes. However, of this number 1,339,000 employes are enrolled in plan options for which premium rates are being increased for the first time since the program began in July 1960. The premium rates have been held down by plans drawing on their reserves to meet benefit payments which, during the current contract year, have generally exceeded premiums.

The commission said that as a check on its own findings that the premium increases are necessary, it retained a nationally recognized firm of consulting actuaries—Milliman and Robertson of Seattle, Wash.—to make an independent study of the experience of six plans in which almost 91 percent of the total 2.1 million covered employes are enrolled.

The firm confirmed the commission's own study. The plans studied by Milliman and Robertson include the government-side Service Benefit Plan, the government-wide Indemnity Benefit Plan, the National Association of Letter Carriers Plan, the United Federation of Postal Clerks Plan, the National Postal Union Plan, and the Federal Employes Hospital Association Plan.

The commission emphasized that the premium increase for each plan is based on its own experience and reflects the rising cost of hospital and medical care. The increases are intended to produce income exceeding benefit payments, with any net gain being used to restore depleted reserves.

$32 Million Spent For Open Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has spent $32 million to help 177 communities set aside more than 100,000 acres for recreational and scenic use under the Open Space Program established by Congress in 1961.

The Urban Renewal Administration said Friday that states, cities and other local governments contributed about $90 million in the program which permits the federal government to pay up to 30 per cent of the cost of acquiring undeveloped land.

WSC Extension Talks Slated Here Sept. 10

Interest in extension class work in the Colorado Springs area during the school year just beginning will be surveyed at a meeting scheduled Sept. 10 at 7 p.m., room 115, Stratmoor Hills Elementary Schoool, 200 Loomis Ave.

Where sufficient interest is indicated in specific courses, Western State College of Gunnison will make every effort to provide instructors.

Several educators in the area have requested Western State to offer the course, Ed. 191-291, The Elementary Curriculum, during the fall teaching period. An instructor has been secured for this particular course.

Beginning Tuesday, tuition for extension courses offered by Western State College will be $10 per quarter hour credit, making tuition for each three quarter hour course a total of $30.

All extension courses will hold 11 weekly meetings of three hours each.

All residents of the Colorado Springs area interested in taking college level academic courses during the school year are invited and urged to attend this Sept. 10 meeting.

For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

ForPikes Peak Group fo Colorado Mountain Club

Teh San Juan Mountains which cover most southwestern Colorado, were explored by Spanish before 1800. Fremont described them as the highest, most rugged and impractible of all Rocky Mountain ranges, inaccessible to trappers and hunters even in summer. At one time Fremont lost 11 men inside the ranges.

The San Juans comprise the following peaks: Uncompahgre, 14,301, altitude, San Luis, 14,014; Handies, 14,049; Wetterhorn 14,017; Redcloud, 14,050; Sneffels, 14,150; Sunshine, 14,018 Eolus, 14,086; Sunlight 14,060; Windom 14,091.

This great range is almost perfect in detail, magnificent in contour, sublime in height, beautiful and gorgeous in color. Uncompahgre is the highest, in the range but not the most difficult. It has a name of great antiquity, transferred from the Uncompahgre River.

The majority of Indian names were given to nearby mountains. This river was crossed by early Spanish explorers in 1776. Eolus, Sunlight and Windom are extremely rugged and craggy. Clouds are continuously circling as if their home was hovering there before starting on their meandering way. Early in the day, the clouds circle about in restless manner, like so many lions in their lair. This restlesness of storm clouds suggests to one terrific destructive power and they are held in awe. Eolus is the God of the winds and Windom was named after a senator of early days who spent his early life in a log cabin.

In the heart of the spectacular San Juans are situated the Jagged Needle mountains. They are the most outstanding sharp mountain peaks found anywhere in Colorado. It is said that the Needles contain more vertical topography than any other mountain section in United States. A description of Needle mountains by Marshall in 1776 report as follows: "Here add pinnacles and there the likeness of a shattered wings of a giganic bird and again the grim grinning teeth of death. Some people are impressed with a feeling of terror in merely viewing them." To quote Will Rogers on the Nedles: "This is a part of Colorado that seen from an airplane makes Switzerland look like a prairie dog town."

The mighty San Juans challenge the most experienced climbers and many have accepted that challenge and gotten the real thrills. There is something, about Colorado's 14,000 peaks which makes their attainment gratifying. John Muir once said,"Climb the mountains and get their good tidings, Nature's peace will flow into you as sunshine flows into the trees. The winds will glow their own freshness to you and the storm their energy while cares will drop away." The Colorado Mountain Club has scaled many high peaks in the San Juans at different times.

Persons on Social Security Must Regulate Income

Social security beneficiaries under 72 who are still working while getting social security checks should keep the Social Security Administration up to date on their expected earnings for the rest of 1964. This was the advice Charles W. Feldhauser, social security district manager, had today for the 12,000 persons in the Colorado Springs area now receiving social security checks.

The reminder is being released because of the number of people who are overpaid social security benefits each year and must make refunds after the end of the year. This occurs when the "retired" beneficiary's yearly earnings exceed the original estimate given to the Social Security Administration.

Under the social security law, the test of whether or not a beneficiary under 72 is "retired" is based on his annual earnings. If his earnings are $1,200 or less, he will get all benefit checks. For annual earnings between $1,200 and $1,700, one dollar is deducted from benefit payments for every two dollars earned. For example: if yearly earnings were $1,700, there would be a deduction of $250 from the total benefit payments for the year. For earnings over $1,700, one benefit dollar is deducted for every dollar earned.

Since the test is a yearly test, the correct amount of benefits due a beneficiary is not determined until the year is over and the beneficiary files an annual report with the Social Security Administration. Yet timely receipt of checks is very important to one who is supplementing his social security check by employment, so the Social Security Administration withholds or pays checks during the year on the basis of the estimate you filed with them.

This estimate of total earnings for the current year is usually given by the beneficiary at the time he files his annual report for the past year. Earnings of that past year may serve as a guide for this estimate, but if the beneficiary knows his earnings are due to increase, his estimate should reflect this fact.

Also, if during the year wages or profits rise, a revised estimate of earnings should be filed with the social security office to prevent benefits from exceeding the total amount due.

Any beneficiary who is in doubt about how his work will affect his benefit payments may get additional information or assistance from the local office at 15 S. Weber St.

Use some of the fat when you chop left over cooked corned beef for hash. Give the hash plenty of time in the frying pan to develop that welcome bottom crust.

Kiwi Test Is Called Success

By BILL FEATHER

JACKASS FLATS, Nev. (AP) — The United States took a forward step Friday in the space race with a highly successful test of the Kiwi B4E nuclear rocket reactor.

Elated scientists, working toward a nuclear-powered rocket engine, announced that all principal objectives were achieved.

The hydrogen-propellant rocket operated for slightly more than eight minutes at a planned power level.

Friday's test was the eighth and final in the Kiwi phase of Project Rover. Rover is America's program to develop a nuclear-powered rocket and is a joint effort of the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Project Rover is administrated by the Space Nuclear Propulsion Office.

The Kiwi phase of the project has been the responsibility of the University of California's Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory.

Details of Friday's test will not be available until the reactor has been disassembled and all data analyzed.

The pint-size Kiwi reactor was designed with a power capacity of 1,000 megawatts, four-fifths the capacity of Hoover Dam.

Spectrophotometer Test May Protect RH Babies

By The Colorado Medical Society

A new technique of sampling and testing the amniotic fluid—the fluid which bathes an unborn baby— holds promise of better protection for babies whose lives are threatened by Rh factor conflicts.

About 1 in 200 babies is so threatened. Many of these babies are still born; others must receive a totally new blood supply by exchange transfusion immediately after birth, a relatively recent procedure which today is 97 per cent effective.

Obstetricians would like a better means of knowing, before birth, whether or not a baby is affected dangerously by the Rh factor conflict so that preparations can be made for an exchange transfusion as soon as he is born shold that be necessary.

(The Rh factor is a specific characteristic of blood. Approximately 15 per cent of all persons are Rh negative. When a woman is Rh negative and her husband Rh positive, the baby is likely to be Rh positive. The mother may then become "Rh-sensitized" and create antibodies against the blood of her unborn baby. This results in destruction of the baby's red blood cells, leading to anemia and a condition known as erythroblastosis. A mother also can be Rh-sensitized by means of a blood transfusion with wrongly matched blood or by a previous pregnancy in which the Rh incompatibility did not affect that baby.)

The new technique, known as amniocentesis, seeks to identify such problems early in a pregnancy so that counter-measures can be taken. It is still regarded as experimental, although it is being used widely throughout the world and it is harmless to mother and baby if done properly.

No good method has been abailable for predicting the outcome of an Rh-sensitized pregnancy. Since early in the century, however, it has been known that under certain conditions the amniotic fluid stains yellow. About 1950, a group of English doctors found that when they reptured the amniotic sac containing the fluid in order to speed the birth of Rh-threatened babies, the fluid stained yellow in a high percentage of cases and showed a higher iron content.

The English doctors began sampling amniotic fluid during pregnancy, and the method spread to other countries, including the United States and Australia, on an experimental basis. It was learned that a pigment of the degenerating red blood cells is deposited in the amniotic fluid and produces a specific curve in spectrophotometric tests if the baby is affected.

In general, amniocentesis now will indicate whether a baby is affected, but not how badly he is affected, although a series of the tests can show if the situation is worsening and whether labor should be induced early to remove the baby as soon as possible from an essentially hostile environment.

The test is relatively simple, although it requires expensive spectrophotometric equipment.

A novocain block is used to avoid pain, and a needle is then inserted through the mother's abdomen and the amniotic sac to withdraw about one third of an ounce of fluid. Ordinarily, the first test is made between the 28th and 34th weeks of pregnancy, and depending upon the initial findings may be repeated later. The fluid is subjected to spectrophotometric analysis, producing a characteristic pattern which indicates the presence or absence of erythroblastosis in the baby.

If a certain severity of erythroblastosis is indicated, the pregnancy may be interrupted early in order to deliver a live baby.

Old Doc Experience advises:

1. Amniocentesis is still in an investigative stage, but hopefully it will lead to a major step forward in conserving and protecting Rh-factor babies.

2. Every husband and wife should be conscious of the possibility of Rh factor incompatibility. No "blame" attaches to either partner; it's just the way things are.

3. The possibility of Rh factor conflict is one of the good reasons why every woman should have good prenatal care from the earliest days of her pregnancy. An Rh determination is one of the tests made during the prenatal visits to her doctor.

4. Any Rh-negative woman married to an Rh-positive man requires special prenatal care and observation. It is these wives and their babies for whom amniocentesis holds great hope.

Explosion Injures 5 Italian Soldiers

BRUNICO, Italy (AP)—A bomb explosion injured five Italian soldiers Thursday night in an apparent renewal of terror tactics in Italy's South Tyrol region.

The soldiers were in a truck parked outside this Alpine town near the Austrian border. The area has been the scene of attempts to undermine the Italian nation by German-language residents seeking more autonomy from the government.

GERMAN PHOTOS OF KENNEDY

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) A recent amateur photography contest entitled "Kennedy in Germany" drew 1,600 entries from 500 participants. The pictures had to be related to the late President Kennedy's visit to Germany in 1963.

Awards were announced June 25, 1964, a year after the American President's visit.

New Apartment Complex To Exceed $1,300,000

A new apartment complex, named Top-of-the-City and containing 144 rental units is now under construction on Moreno Drive, one block West of Eighth Street, overlooking Colorado Springs.

Carmon C. Greer, trustee for the developer and the investors, said the building program has been projected over a 30 month period. First Federal Saving and Loan of Pueblo, has provided the financing and appraised the total value when completed to exceed $1,3000,000.00.

There will be 36 buildings containing four apartments to the building. William Fairbanks is architect for the project and also developed the plot plan and general lay out of the buildings on the 10 acre site to proved view, recreation facilities, private parking, and the best utilization of space.

Management and sales will be under the direction of Pike Realty Company. L. M. Larson of Pike said that although completion of the buildings is still 30 to 45 days away, two apartments have already been rented and, from inquiries, it looks as though the other two will be rented prior to completion.

New Fountain Crest Homes Dates Open House Today

By DICK MOORE
Gazette Telegraph
Business Editor

Equity Producer Inc. announced today it is holding open house at two late model homes constructed in the Fountain Crest Estates, only 14 minutes by freeway south of downtown Colorado Springs.

These new homes, are but samples of the 100 residences to be built in the estate area which is located within the city limits of the town of Fountain and within easy access to Ft. Cartson headquarters.

The homes, which are in the $10,750 to $12,650 price range, can be located by following the freeway to the Fountain interchange then turning left, driving across the freeway interchange bridge and continuing east until the estate signs are seen.

The new homes on display have been built by Park Hill Corporation, which has constructed over 5,000 homes in the Colorado Springs and Chicago area during the past 10 years.

Wilbur Hanes, president of Equity Producer Inc., said that the new homes will be on display from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. with representatives on hand to show the distinctive features of each house.

The homes are of frame construction and can be built with or without a basement, electric kitchen or wall-to-wall carpeting.

The "Ophir," the $10,750 residence, contains 800 square feet of living space which can be doubled by the addition of a basement. "Silverheels," the larger home, contains 950 square feet which can also be doubled with a basement.

The names of the homes are taken from famous landmarks and personages of Colorado history.

Government finance is available for each of these homes and all veterans interested in buying homes in the area are urged to bring their government qualification papers when they inspect the homes or the area building sites.

Under the terms of government financing, veterans can move into the house of their choice without a down payment. The move-in cost amounts to $75 and the monthly payments range from $80 to $94 a month.

Future plans for the area include the opening of a new Fountain bank, two super markets and a general shopping area, plus office buildings for professional personnel.

Water and electricity are supplied to the estates by the town of Fountain. Gas is supplied by the Plateau Natural Gas Company.

Equity Producer Inc., 125 E. Boulder St., first opened for business in Colorado Springs in 1963 with offices in the Mining Exchange Building. Wilbur Hanes is president of the corporation and his son, Donald, is vice president. The company is an approved FHA mortgage and Veterans Administration lending institution.

Sears Announces Larger Staff Member Promotion

Sears Roebuck and Co., southgate, today announced their largest move to date in staff member promotions to positions of higher responsibility. The move is in keeping with the company's policy of "promoting from within," according to G.A. Cheney, manager of the Colorado Springs store.

The promotion of five department heads involves the relocation of two staff members to Sears stores in two major cities. The promotions are effective immediately, Cheney said.

Paul Collett, assistant store manager, has been transferred to the Austin, Tex., store, to the position of assistant store manager. Collett has been with the store here for one year and has been an employe of Sears for 14 years.

While in Colorado, Springs, Collett was president of the Stratmoor Hill PTA and has been active in the Broadmoor Rotary Club. He and his wife, Agnes and four children, and will move to their new home in Austin.

Ben C. Widmer, was promoted to the position of assistant store manager here. He was formerly soft-line merchandise manager and has worked a total of eight years with Sears in Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver Sears stores.

Widmer and his wife, Dortha, have four children: Deborah, 16; Gregory, 14; Catherine, 13; and David, 12. He has B. S. and M. A. degrees from the University of Denver and is a 4 year army veteran.

Harry J. Hendricks, was promoted to soft-line merchandise manager. He formerly held the position of division manager in the furniture department. Prior to that he was manager of the rug department and has been with Sears since June 1954. He was graduated from Oklahoma University business school in 1941, and has served 5 years with the Air Force.

Hendricks and his wife, Betty, have three daughters: Beverly and Barbara, twins, ages 14; and Carolyn, 7.

Neil M. Johnson, formerly hard - line merchandise manager here, has received a promotion to assistant retail sales manager, of the tire department in the store at the Chicago, Ill., home office. He is native to Colorado Springs and has been with the firm since 1956.

Johnson will be accompanied to Cicago by his wife Mary Lou, and four children, Don, Doug, Bob and Bruce.

Don H. Johnson, has been promoted to hard - line merchandise manager and comes here from the Sears store in Pueblo. He attended Denver University to obtain a B.A. degree in business.

Personal Income Based on State '63 Economy

While the increase in total personal income in Colorado at 4.6 per cent was close to National increase of 4.9 per cent for 1963 over 1962, the increase in per capita personal income of the State at 1.0 per cent fell markedly below the national increase of 3.4 per cent.

Reasons for this disparity are obvious as the estimated increase in Colorado population at 3.6 per cent for 1963 over 1962 is substantially greater than the national increase of 1.5 per cent. In other words, the increased total income in Colorado in 1963 was divided among a greater increase in population than nationally, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce field office.

When individual segments of the State's economy are examined the areas of 1963 loss, or slow growth, can be identified. The most pronounced change came in farm incomes which showed decreased of $25 million from 1962 and $48 million from 1961.

Had farm income remained at their 1961 level, the State would have shown a gain of 5.6 per cent in total personal income against the 4.9 per cent national gain. Also the per capita income for the State, which for 1963 was $2,464 or slightly higher than the national figure of $2,449, would have been $39 higher at $2,488.

The State's extractive industries failed to keep pace with the general growth of the economy as both mining, oil and natural gas remained at their 1962 levels with mining $9 million below its 1961 total. Personal services, business and repair services and amusements and recreation remained at their 1962 levels, but all above the 1961 figures.

All other important segments of the economy except contract construction exceeded figure for both 1962 and 1961. Contract construction, while $10 million ahead of 1962, still was $12 million less than 1961.

CIG Men Will Give Papers At Conference

David W. Bean, senior engineer and Donald J. Vinson, engineer, both with Colorado Interstate Gas Company in Colorado Springs, will present technical papers at the 1964 Petroleum-Mechanical Engineering Conference of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers to be held in Los Angeles, California, Sept. 20-23.

Bean will discuss a method of completely purging air from pipelines with gas at very low pressure and volume.

Vinson will describe a method and equipment used in determining gas and ground temperatures along eighty miles of 22-inch pipeline in Wyoming.

These papers will be just two of some 60 to be presented during the meeting. The Petroleum-Mechanical Engineering Conference is held annually by the Petroleum Division of ASME. More than 1,000 mechanical engineers from the petroleum and allied industries are expected to attend the Los Angeles meet.

Branch Bank Schedules Grand Opening Monday

Monday, has been set as opening day for the new East Colorado Springs National Bank at the corner of East U. S. Highway 24 and North Circle Drive.

Neighborhood banking service for the rapidly developing area of East Colorado Springs comes initially via a colorful 55 foot-long, 12 foot-wide trailer quarters. "Newest and most completely equipped trailer bank in the Rocky Mountain region".

The new bank, an affiliate of the pioneer downtown Colorado Springs National Bank, will be managed by Henry E. Heyser, formerly assistant vice president of the parent bank.

The "bank-on-wheels" will serve as temporary quarters while the bank's permanent building is being constructed at the same location, 500 North Circle Drive.

All metropolitan banking services excepting only safe deposit will be provided in the temporary mobile bank facility. A drive up window and a 40 space customers parking lot are ready for use, Heyser said.

Construction will start immediately on the spacious permanent building under the supervision of Bunts and Kelsey, architects, with Charles M. Loughrey as general contractor. Plans for the new bank include an attractive community room which will be made available to groups meeting in the East Colorado Springs area.

The public is invited to visit the novel "bank-on-wheels' during open house hours from 10-5:30 Friday, Sept. 4 and from 10-1 Saturday, September 5. Blinky the Clown will give away autographed photos, and there will be gift carnations for the ladies and free balloons for the children. Visitors may register for one of several $20.00 saving accounts to be given away.

In addition to Heyser, the following experienced staff members from the Colorado Springs National Bank will assume top operating posts in the new bank; Robert L. Bishop, cashier; William L. Perry, assistant casiher, and Miss Kathy Ditlevson, operations manager. Mrs. Robert W. Pacheco, formerly of Greeley, will be head teller. Mrs. Lyle S. Bolender will manage the bank's customr service.

Floor Craft Names New Department Head

O. P. Scott has been named manager of the carpet department of Floor Craft Co., 2031 W. Colorado Ave., according to an announcement made by Lawrence (Larry) Strauch, owner.

Strauch has also announced that the carpet department has recently been added to the store and carries a complete line of materials including a large number of well known brands of carpeting.

A new front has been constructed on the store and new carpet racks installed, Strauch said.

"We have a complete line of materials including wool, cottons and synthetic fabrics in a wide range of prices and also a drapery department," Strauch said.

Scott (Scotty) has had many years experience in the carpeting, furnitures and decorating business. He has worked for French & Co., has been superintendent of a woolen mill 13 years and has been connected with sales for seven years throughout the four-state Rocky Mountain Region.

Scott is a native of Paris, Ill., and is a member of 130 F and Am Masonic Lodge of Mishawaka, Ind., No. 1 consistory, Denver, Abou Ben Adhem Shrine at Springfield, Mo.

He is the father of two sons and lives with his wife Margaret, at 1821 W. Platte Ave.

Strauch came to Colorado Springs in 1942 and opened business at 9 E. Pikes Peak Ave. His store, handling tile and linoleum, was known as the S&H Floor Coverings.

Later he moved to West Colorado Avenue in 1952 and has been there ever since.

The complete lines now handled by Floor Craft include tile, lineoleum, ceramics and now everything in floor coverings.

PRODUCTION CUT BACK

BUDAPEST (UPI) — Many factories in Communist Hungary may have to cut back production schedules this year because of a shortage of "screws, rivets and other small items," according to the official newspaper of the Hungarian Communist party.

Five New Home Models Shown by Cimarron Homes

Cimarron Homes now have on display five house models in Cimarron Hills northeast of Colorado Springs off U. S. Highway 24. The area, only a few moments drive from downtown Colorado Springs, offers a perfect view of the front range of the Rockies and the twinkling lights of the growing city by night.

The development offers at present an unlimited water supply plus underground utilities. The lots upon which the present homes are located were purchased from Cimarron Development Company, according to an announcement made by Levoy L. Free and Harvey Clark, president and vice president respectively of Cimarron Homes.

Both men have much experience in the real estate and lumber business.

Free, in 1950, was in the construction business with his father and Clark operated the Lakeside Lumber and Building Company for 10 years prior to his moving here.

James O. Carmichaek, secretary of the company, is an attorney, specializing in real estate. All three men were previously members of the Houston Tex. board of realtors.'

Sales manager of the company is Wally Edgar, who was a real estate broker in Denver for a number of years.

Water to the area is supplied from the Cherokee Hill Water District.

The homes now on display feature five models named the "Executive," the "Bellaire," the "President;" and the "Ambassador."

Features of the new homes include intercoms for music and two-way conversation; exterior reading dial for meter readers; self cleaning ovens; louvered, folding closet doors and curb and gutter combined with sidewalks.

Cimarron Development Company is developing 1,400 acres in the Cimarron Hills. Future plans of the company include the laying out of five-acre tracts in the 5,100-acre development adjacent to the Air Force Academy.

SHARES DROP

LONDON (UPI) — Shares in John Bloom's Rolls Razor Company dropped to three-fourths of a penny (about one U.S. cent) on the London Stock Exchange Friday. The tumble followed Thursday's vote by the shareholders to liquidate the company.

According to the Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program, it takes 24 hours for an average person's body to get rid of the alcohol in a pint of liquor.

BIDED HIS TIME

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Merwin Frye found a skunk with its head caught in a rusty can and approached the animal warily.

Initial efforts to free the animal brought no odorous response so Frye went to work in earnest to get the can off the animal, thinking the skunk perhaps was deodorized.

After more than two hours, the skunk wiggled free and promptly showed his gratitude by showering the area with its skunkly scent.

Ford Company Expects Record Sales in 1965

Boettcher and Company reports that Lincoln Mercury Division of Ford Motor Company expects a record sales year with it's 1965 models.

Paul F. Lorenz, vice president and general manager of the division, said that "today's market is definitely a premium of step-up market and people are paying more for their cars."

He said that prices on the new Lincoln-Mercury line will not be announced at the present time.

Ford is aiming at five per cent of the total passenger car market for its Mercury, up one percentage point from the 1964 run, Lorenz said.

In other reports International Harvester Company has reported record sales and earnings for the nine months ended July 31.

Harvester earned $79,807,000 or $5.50 a share on sales totaling $1.65 billion in the first three quarters of its fiscal year with $47 million or $3.13 per share earned on sales totaling $1.428 billion in the similar year ago period.

The nation's eight primary aluminum producers turned out a record 216,097 tons of metal in July, the aluminum association reported. The industry's output through the first seven months of this year totaled 1,469,194 tons, putting it ahead of last year's record breaking pace by 13.3 per cent or 172,426 tons.

Directors of Harris-Intertype have voted to boost the quarterly dividend and split the common stock.

The split which does not require stockholder approval, effect Sept. 11 which is the record date for a quarterly dividend of 17.5 cents per share on the new shares. Both cash and stock go out to shareholders on Sept. 25. The Cash dividend is equal to 35 cents a share on present shares compared with 30 cents paid in previous quarters.

PATIENT DOG

TARANTO Italy (AP) — Doctors finished treating two patients in the first aid room of a Taranto hospital and thought that was all.

Then they noticed a dog waiting next in line. He howled for attention. The doctors found a deep cut on one leg and treated it. The bandaged dog wagged his tail and walked out.

Ford Division Selling Rate Up 22 Per Cent

The daily selling rate of Ford Division passenger cars for the second 10-day period in August was up more than 22 per cent over the same period last year, and the truck daily sales rate was the highest for any similar August period in division history.

E. F. Laux, Ford Division general sales manager, said preliminary reports showed that 48,579 cars and 11,758 trucks were sold during the mid-August period for daily sales rates of 5,398 and 1,306 respectively.

The previous high for trucks was 1,252 in 1955.

In the same period last year, 35,277 cars and 8,559 trucks were sold for daily selling rates of 4,410 cars and 1,070 trucks.

Mustang sales continued strong during the period, raising to 119,070 the total number sold since the car's introduction in mid-April.

Car sales for 1964 through August 20 totaled 1,100,789, while truck sales were 268,183. Previous division highs for year-to-date dales were set in 1955 with 1,032,791 cars, and last year with 247,642 trucks.

GOLDFISH GUIDANCE

Never overcrowd a goldfish tank. Proper instructions call for one gallon of water for each inch of fish. A tank is better than a bowl, which has too much light and not enough water surface. Fish have no eyelids and need protection from strong light by such means as water plants, ceramic tunnels and pebbles. Also, never keep a goldfish by itself. It hates to be alone.

AstroMotels Seeking Site For Motel in Springs

AstroMotels, Inc., a national motel chain with headquarters at 407 N. Central Ave. Glendale, Calif. is seeking a suitable downtown location on which to build a motel of from 35 to 65 units, in Colorado Springs the company announced today.

Paul Gropman, operations vice president of AstroMotels, said results of a preliminary economic feasibility survey proved satisfactory and the firm will build a motel valued at approximately $300,000 if a suitable site is available in downtown Colorado Springs.

Realtors or property owners with potential motel sites are requested to write Gropman at Glendale headquarters offices of AstroMotels, Ind.

Gropman stressed that sites must show a high density foot and vehicular traffic count, and theaters and the business district in the city's central area.

AstroMotels currently has motels in operation or under construction in Arizona, California, Kansas and Utah. Construction is scheduled to begin on a La Junta, AstroMotel in the early part of October.

Every AstroMotel is managed by a resident co-owner couple. The company secures the site, arranges financing, construction, furnishes the motel, and after an intensive course in motel management, turns the motel over to the co-owner couple.

Co-owners come from all walks of life and frequently have no motel business background.

An investment in motel coownership with the AstroMotel chain costs a minimum of $40,000.

By DICK MOORE
Gazette Telegraph
Business Editor

Colorado Springs citizens will get a glimpse of both the past and the present beginning Sept. 23 when Mainstreet U.S.A. rolls into town on two express cars.

The specially equipped cars will be located at the Denver and Rio Grande railroad station and graphically contrast the business retailing field of the 19th century with that of today.

The exhibit, brought to Colorado Springs by the Retail Merchant Division of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce as a free public service, is sponsored nationally by the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, Mich., and is a part of the museum's famous "Street of Shops."

The cars will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekedays and on Sundays from 1 to 7 p.m. The exhibit will be in Colorado Springs through Sept. 28.

On school days specially scheduled school classes will take field trips through the cars.

Termed "A Tribute to the Retail Merchants of America," the million dollar exhibit contains 16 shop windows of the 19th century, all well stocked with various merchandise of the 1800's.

All of the antique merchandise displayed in the railroad cars is completely authentic and are from the collections of the Henry Ford Museum.

Included is a "cracker-barrel" store, a dry goods and apparel store, a butcher shop, a jewelry store replete with a watchmaker (wax) working on 19th century watches, an old-time apothecary and many others.

In sharp contrast, directly opposite this display of stores of the 1800's, are a series of extremely modern exhibits depicting today's counterparts being offered by the 20th century American merchants.

The old-time shops should interest viewers. For example the blacksmith shop on display is, in actuality, the antecedent of today's service station. This shop not only shows the standard anvil and bellows but additionally has a sign reading "horseless carriages repaired." Gasoline from drums is also an item which was sold by early day blacksmiths. Even automoile tires were a part of the merchandise purveyed by the blacksmith who found his carriage trade replaced by the ever - increasing horseless carriage.

The tin-type photography shop will interest camera fans. In it is exhibited the tin - type camera of the turn of the century and the chair in which the subject sat which contains a torturous-looking head - holder. Examples of early photography is also exhibited.

The other early American shops literally contain thousands of items which grandma and granddad purchased enthusiastically. Bustles, high - button shoes, iron stoves, horsehair jewelry and multitudinous other products make an exhibit which will be nostalgic for elders and exciting for today's youngsters.

Curator Robert B. Johnson, with the train, is of the Ford Museum and holds a BS degree in education and an MA degree in journalism.

Jack Waymire, local businessman and chairman of the retail merchants division, will be official host while the exhibit is in town.

Colorado Springs is one of the three cities at which the train will stop during its state tour. The other two cities, Denver and Pueblo, have as exhibit sponsors, public utility companies.

Transmission Outlet To Have Two Locations

A new transmission outlet at 2225 East Platte Ave. in Nob Hill was recently opened by Allied Transmission Rebuilders of 22 West Las Vegas St. Gene Walters, general manager, stated that with two allied locations, east and west, Allied Transmission will provide the Pikes Peak Region with the most complete and modern transmission service and repairs available.

The new allied branch office in East Colorado Springs will be managed by Floid T. Dickson building for the Ford Motor firm.

Dickson announced that Bob Brace, a well known transmission rebuilder from Pueblo, will serve as shop foreman.

Included in the new Allied extension will be a steam room, a transmission rebuilding room, parts room and additional car stalls. This will make Allied Transmission at 22 West Las Vegas St. the largest and most modern transmission facility in the Rocky Mountain West.

Roy S. Taylor, vice president of Allied Transmission Rebuilders, supervises the overhauling and rebuilding facilities of both shops, directing six experts transmission rebuilders.

Taylor has been in the transmission business since 1945, having taught transmission rebuilding for the Ford Motor Company in Los Angeles and General Motors in Detroit.

Gene Walters, secretary-treasurer of Allied Transmission, stated that "Allied Transmission has established a reputation of honesty and reasonable prices for transmission overhauls and exchanges. Allied was the first transmission outlet in the state to introduce the 12 months or 12,000 mile guarantee.

The policy of free checkup and linkage adjustments will continue, plus giving our customers honest appraisals, top quality work and fast one-day service."

Allied Transmission also offers a free towing service headed by Jerry Francois, a local independent towing expert who tows for a number of garages and agenices in this area.

The two Allied Transmission locations at 22 West Las Vegas and 2225 East Highway 24, also feature a General Electric 2-Way Radio hookup, maintaining radio communication with the Allied trucks and mobile units and the Allied Towing service.

The present garage features Wonder Steel Construction, curvuture steel that is mounted in sections. The same kind of steel construction will be used in the new addition complete with spray-on insulation. Acme Steel Buildings of Denver is contracting the new Allied building. The total shop area excluding the front office will have 5,000 square feet of working area.

Faricy Buys Fitzgerald - Ross Motor Agency

Effective Sept. 1, Colorado Springs will have one Rambler automobile agency. Owen Faricy, owner of the Owen Faricy Motor Company, 201 N. Weber St., has announced the purchase of the Fitzgerald-Ross Company.

Faricy said he plans to combine both business at the Weber Street address and has offered employment to all Fitzgerald-Ross employes who wish to continue work with the Faricy organization.

The Faricy company completely remodeled its building in 1963 and is prepared to offer full service in new car sales as well as automotive maintenance.

The Owen Faricy Motor Company began business in Pueblo in 1942 and opened the Colorado Springs division in 1955.

Pat Fitzgerald stated that at present his future plans and those of his partner's, Jim Ross, are indefinite.

Fitzgerald said that he began business as an automobile dealer with the late C. H. Peebler in 1956. The company was then known as the Peebler-Fitzgerald Motor Company. Ross joined the company as a partner in 1957.

Packers Call Workers Back

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP — Several major Midwest packing companies had a move under way today to recall some of the workers laid off a week ago when meat production was curtailed by the National Farmers Organization action to withhold livestock.

Representatives of Wilson & Co., which dropped about 660 production employes at plants in Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, said plans were to resume increased operations if receipts of cattle and hogs remain steady next week.

Some of the 350 laid off at the Armour and Co. plant at South St. Paul, Minn., will be recalled Tuesday of livestock receipts improve, said Plant Manager M. E. Barnes.

Spokesman for the NFO at the Corning, Iowa, headquarters said, however, that the call has gone out to strengthen the holding action and that they expect market supplies to drop again.

A report by the Iowa president of the NFO, Earl Riediger of Hinton, that three packing firms agreed to sign price contracts or cooperate with the NFO on an experimental basis, brought sharp denials from those firms Friday.

Volvo Sales Show Increase Of 26 Per Cent

Sales of Volvo automobiles for the first seven months of 1964 were up 26.5 per cent over the same period last year, according to Stig Jansson, president of Volvo, Inc., U. S. importer of the Swedish-made cars.

Jansson said that 1964 retail sales through July totaled 9,937 units, compared with 7,855 in the comparable 1963 period. For the month of July, retail sales amounted to 1,524 units, up 24.6 per cent over July, 1963 figure of 1,223.

Wholesale sales, he noted, also showed strong gains with the seven-month 1964 total of 10,452 units, up 13.2 per cent over the 9,232 unit sales recorded through July of last year. During July, the wholesale volume was 1,317 units, a gain of 15.9 per cent over the year-ago total of 1,136.

Volvo automobiles sold in the U. S. include the 1800S G.T. sports coupe, the 122S two and four-door sedans, the 122S station wagon, and the 544 sedan.

REPORT CHECK — D. C. Franklin Jr., vice president of Federal Services Finance Corporation, looks over a Chamber of Commerce statistical report showing the area's business potential. Al Erickson, branch office manager here, spent Tuesday with Franklin aiding him in becoming familiarized with the Colorado Springs area and the local office procedure. Erickson said the company's future plans include the possibility of a local office expansion. The company whose headquarters are in Washington D. C., recently appointed Franklin as vice president in charge of the sales finance division. The company specializes in financing armed forces personnel on a world-wide basis.

Priest Blames Reds for Riots In South Viet Nam

MANILA (UPI) — A Roman Catholic priest whose parish is in the heart of guerrilla territory in South Viet Nam Saturday blamed the Vietnamese rioting on Communist agitators.

Father Nguyen Lac Hoa made the statement in an interview with UPI prior to receiving a Ramon Magsaysay award for public service.

Hoa, 57, said it was incorrect to call the violence between Catholics and Buddhists a holy war.

"It is not such a war," he said. "They (Buddhists and Catholics) have lived in Viet Nam for many years without any animosity. Communists and other trouble-making elements are behind these disturbances. They agitate and create trouble so the governments will fall one by one until they can take over."

Hoa and five other persons will receive their Magsaysay awards Sunday. The group includes Mrs. Welthy Honnsinger Fisher of Rome, N.Y., founder of Literacy House in Lucknow, India, an institute to promote international understanding.

Survey Committee Reports On Summer Business Trend

As the summer of 1964 slips into history, businessmen can reflect on one of their best mid-year periods of the past decade. Only in 1958 did the summer exhibit stronger ternds, according to Purchasing Executives, and that period benefited from initial thrust of recovery from the 1957-58 recession.

The rate of new order improvement accelerated in August, as was predicted last month, although the advance was by only a few percentage points. Production showed similar improvement, but those reporting higher production continue to lag behind those reporting higher new orders — a situation conducive to the avoidance of later inventory excesses. September has a good chance to show further gains, according to historical patterns, though this has not occurred as consistently as the July to August improvement.

Prices are firm again in August and vendors are reported to be quoting slightly longer deliveries. Inventories and employment continued to gain, but at a slower pace.

In their comments, members reflect a high degree of confidence, optimism, and general satisfaction with the state of the economy. Many are keeping a wary eye focused on Detroit as we go to press, particularly those who would feel the first effects of an automobile work stoppage, but even here optimism predominates. The only other event on the horizon which comes in for comment is the upcoming election, and then only as a potential but unevaluated factor in the future trend of the economy.

It is not surprising that some of our respondents are already tagging 1964 as one of their better years and setting their sights on 1965.

The pace of inventory accumulation has slackened in August as Purchasing Executives steer toward the lower September 30 inventories they predicted last month. Those whose stocks are still rising number 22 per cent down from 26 per cent in July, while 19 per cent are operating with lower inventory levels, up from 17 per cent last month. It is noteworthy how effectively procurement and other controls continue to be applied in keeping materials inventories under restraint in the face of continually improving business, and price and delivery pressures. As a matter of review, modest inventory accumulation began in February 1964, after six months of liquidation. Additions increased in March; but since that time, the rate has been steady to lower.

Despite indications through the remarks of our members that some suppliers are beginning to clamor for more lead time, the statistics indicate continued resistance. Neither production material nor MRO supply commitments have changed much in August.

Capital purchases indicate a slight growth in the six-month-to-one-year category, with 51 per cent reporting to be thus committed. This is the largest number in over four years even though the 50 per cent mark was reached several times. Taking the 90 - day - and - over commitments as a total, however, the 71 per cent actually represents a 1 per cent decline from July's figure.

The rate of improvement in employment has tapered off in August, but only slightly. The figures still indicate a better than 3-to-1 ratio in favor of those reporting greater employment.

Gains are reported by 23 per cent while 7 per cent note a lesser number of employes. In July, 27 per cent had noted higher employment figures, and 9 per cent disclosed reductions.

The latest price advance, which developed in July, has continued in August and has intensified. The number reporting hikes reached 23 per cent up from last month's 20 per cent; and those paying less accounted for 4 per cent down from 6 per cent in July. The majority, or 73 per cent, of our committee report no change, a dip of only 1 per cent. Those paying more are, so far, well below the peaks of the price spurts of October 1963, and April 1964, when 56 per cent and 40 per cent respectively, reported price increases.

Skirmishes on the price front are scattered throughout the remarks of our members. It is noted by some that, while many price increases are not holding, discounts have become less plentiful.

Once again, we have a rather impressive list of price changes to report, and again the emphasis points upward. Most of the items are repeaters from the July list, although brass and mercury are newcomers in the metals group.

On the DOWN side are: Sugar and valves.

In SHORT supply: Copper, steel plate, zinc, cadmium, molybdenum, and antimony.

Development Co. Opens Branch Office in Springs

Colorado City Development Corporation, with offices at Denver and internationally at Frankfort, Germany, Hawaii, Tokyo, Japan, has set up a new business at 714 N. Weber St., which will open Monday.

Donald Firestone, manager of the new office reports that the company which is in the business of developing completely planned cities, plans to recruit local persons to sell properties in the new Colorado City south of Pueblo.

Colorado City, a $125 to $150 project planned and developed by the company, is planned around and for the needs of people — particularily its recreational facilities. The city now has a golf course, a lake with boating and fishing facilities and picnic grounds, scenic gorge and 19 miles of roads now being paved.

New homes in the area are being lived in and 25 to 30 new residences are now under construction. Some homes are of the weekend or summer home type. The area is ideal for those desiring a home in which to retire, Firestone said.

The water distribution system has been purchased from the Colorado and World Company. The new city is layed out for 12,000 home sites with an ultimate population goal of 35,000.

The company has been in business 15 years and was the developer of California City, and 80,000 acre development 98 miles northeast of Los Angeles. The California city has 200 miles of water mains and paved streets and several hundred homes constructed and being lived in at the present time.

Firestone said the office will be open at 7:30 p.m. Monday for the purpose of interviewing those persons interested in selling properties at the Colorado City site.

Firestone, a native of Oklahoma, is a graduate of Bethany College, Oklahoma with an AB degree in social science. He also holds an MA degree in education administration from Adams State College, Alamosa.

After his graduation from school, he became a school teacher for six years prior to his present employment.

AMWAY Head To Speak at Products Meet

Richard M. De Vos, president of AMWAY Corp., Ada, Mich. will address hundreds of distributors of Amway products meeting in the Antlers Hotel at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday. Friends of the organization who are expecially interested in the contribution of Amway in the matter of water polution, or in it's current leadership in promoting the idea of free enterprise in America, are invited to attend this meeting. It will be held in the Terrace Room.

The Amway organization has made a great impact on the business community all over the United States and Canada over the past five years.

Some 75,000 independent business men and women have found with this enterprise just what they may have been seeking in their desire to go into business for themselves.

Success stories throughout the country, demonstrating that Free Enterprise still works in America, are becoming the usual thing.

In the Colorado Springs area there are over 100 qualified Distributors associated with C. K. & Polly Dean, owners of Dean Enterprises, and direct distributors for the Amway firm.

An additional 2,000 Distributorships in over 30 states have been developed through Dean Enterprises which has it's headquarters here in Colorado Springs.

Reservations for a special dinner meeting preceeding the general meeting may be made by contacting Dean before the end of August.

FLOOD CONTROL PROJECT—A new $46.823 earth-filled dam is now complete just north of East Junior High School. Don Ringsred Resigns From Film Company

Alexander Film Co. has announced it has accepted the regignation of N. Donald Ringsred, sales vice president, effective Thursday. Ringsred also resigned his position as director of Motion Picture Alexander Corp., of New Orleans La.

Ringsred had been elected president of AFCO in February of this year, according to an announcement by Cortlandt S. Dietler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer. Ringsred was heading the company's Detroit office at the time.

Ringsred was a resident of Colorado Springs from 1939 until 1955. Joining AFCO in 1945 as pilot of the company plane and to work in the theater relations department, he was later named merchandising manager and then appointed assistant to the president before moving to the Detroit office.

Flood Control Reservoir Complete at Patty Jewett

Work has been completed on a flood control reservoir on Patty Jewett Golf Course land just west of Union Boulevard and north of East Junior High School.

The earth filled dam, which is large enough to impound about 60 acre feet of water, was built by the Harry Pinello Construction Co. under a $46,823 contract.

Primarily, the structure was built as part of a flood control project to help harness water that roars through the golf course and down Shooks Run during heavy rains.

The dam has a control valve outlet for the release of water and also has a spillway in case the dam fills and overflows, according to officials in the city department of public works.

It is anticipated that the reservoir will become a part of another nine hole course to be added to the Patty Jewett layout, which now contains 18 holes.

Patty Jewett and city officials felt that plans for the extra nine holes could not be finalized until something was done about controlling flood waters coming down from the general area to the east of the city property.

In previous years, heavy damage has been done to the golf course and along Shooks Run because of heavy rains.

It is hoped that funds can be budgeted next year so that an architect can be employed to lay out the additional nine hole course, and then perhaps start construction in 1966.

For some time, there has been a 25 cent fee levied on golf rounds in order to provide funds for the expansion of the golf course.

Since the general city had no funds budgeted this year for the construction of the dam, an arrangement was reached whereby funds were borrowed from the golf course, but which the city will pay back over a three year period.

It has not been determined at this point as to whether any of the water impounded by the dam can be used for irrigation purposes in the golf course.

It is hoped that eventually the golf course can be tied into the recently completed non-potable water line that starts at the sewage disposal plant and terminates at the so-called Knob Hill Reservoir north of Uintah Street.

This 12-inch transite pipeline was installed by Douglas Jardine under a $154,230 contract. The line goes north from the disposal plant to Hancock Avenue and Fountain Street, then east to Union Boulevard and north to Pikes Peak Avenue, then east to Iowa Street, north to Boulder Street, then east on Boulder Street to the intersection of an alley east of Boulder Street, and then north to the reservoir.

The city has already tapped the line so that irrigation of non-potable water can be used in Memorial Park. It is anticipated that the Union Printers Home and the International Typographical Union will also tie into the line and purchase some of the non-potable water.

This non-potable water is so treated that it is considered safe, but drinking it is not advised.

Campaign Gifts Not Deductable On Federal Tax

In this presidential election year, a tax item to note is that contributions to political candidates or campaigns are not deductible on federal income tax returns, says Commerce Clearing House, national reporting authority on tax and business law.

Such contributions are not deductible either as business expenses or as contributions. They classify as gifts under the income tax law.

A gift for political purposes is no different from any other gift, subject to federal gift tax rates ranging from 2¼ per cent to 57¾ per cent, depending on the net amount of the gift.

Thus the tax will be imposed on each gift exceeding $3,000, unless part of the $30,000 lifetime exemption is used, CCH said.

Where the supported candidate loses, the contribution cannot be called a deduction for a "bad debt" for tax purposes.

Any financial debts owed by political parties or their adjuncts to anyone but a bank are not deductible as "bad debts" on federal income tax returns.

A political campaign is not in any sense a transaction entered into for profit, according to a U. S. Supreme Court ruling. Therefore, any money spent in any unsuccessful campaign is not deductible as a loss on a transaction for profit — the only kind recognized by the federal tax collector.

And win-or-lose, the candidate himself gets off scot-free of any tax on any contribution to his campaign provided it is used for campaign purposes, CCH said. Of course, if the candidate diverts any portion of the contribution to his personal use, he will be taxed on the contribution to that extent.

Atlantic City Got Good Buy

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — City boosters, who gave the Democratic party $625,000 cash to woo the 34th party convention to this boardwalk town, figured Friday they got their money's worth.

Tossing in the big hall rent-free, and adding other gratis items, the outlay totaled about $690,000.

"It was a very successful convention," said Wayne Stetson, head of the convention bureau here.

LITTER NOTE

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) —Trash of the litter variety is a big business on the Michigan State University campus.

Maintenance engineers at MSU estimate that if all the rubbish picked up on the campus last year were dumped in Spartan Stadium, it would cover the entire football field to a height of 30 feet.

The school pays about $18,000 a year just to dump garbage, and maintaining containers costs another $50,000, the engineers said.

Speaker Praises Advertising, Sales Teamwork

Eugene F. Pilz, owner of the Eugene F. Pilz & Co. Advertising Agency located in the Western Federal Savings Building, Denver who handles public relations and publicity for Western Federal, was the speaker before the SWAP Club Monday morning.

Pilz began his talk by declaring that advertising and selling must work together. They use the same selling ideas.

Salesmen follow-up advertising. Our salesmen, like ads, tell people what they want to hear-not what we want to say.

He pointed out how we all live with averages; more ads — more consistently — sell more; make more calls for more sales; better quality — higher percentage sales. He added that nothing is "magic," it takes hard work.

The speaker supplied such statistics as: only 2 per cent of the gross sales volume goes to advertising, cigarette advertising costs only 1-3 cent per package, and 6 per cent of the world's population produced 25 per cent of the goods — with the help of advertising.

He asserted that everywhere in selling these days the big talk seems to be price objectives, price cutting and fierce competition.

The important procedure is to see that "your price is right" and then prove it.

He offered a few thoughts that might help in business promotion, and stated that the publicity media used must be studied in an effort to reach the most of the right people at the lowest cost per thousand.

All publicity, he said, should be directed toward building a business image and the image must be total and consistent. Then he pointed to such things as logo, sings, identification, buildings, employes, attitude, trucks, uniforms, printed matter, public relations and management policies.

Image must be predetermined, planned and built. Everybody in a company is building the image 24 hours a day, he said.

Pilz enumerated a number of thoughts on salesmanship such as: Fix the customers problem, don't sell ½" drills when the customer wants ½" holes, don't waste his time, stick to the subject, be a good listener, don't prove you're smarter, empty the customer's bucket of satisfaction and fill the bucket with your brand.

He declared that a successful business is good people working together to produce or sell quality products in quantity at a profit.

Upon being questioned as to which advertising media was best he answered: that any basic media will do a job used well and consistently and added that it would depend largely on the business.

He offered the opinion, from his personal experience, that TV was best for demonstrable products, outdoor advertising best for impulse products and simple ideas, radio is the intimate ad media and newspapers are best to "show the goods." In conclusion he admonished his listeners not to "follow the leader."

SEED-FREEZE

ALTO, Tex. (UPI) — The state Forestry Service is freezing billions of pine cone seeds to insure that Texas always will have plenty to replenish its forests.

At the state's only tree nursery, in Alto, the seeds are stored at sub-freezing temperatures so they will regain their ability to germinate. Some of the seeds are eight years old and are still potent, managers of the service say.

GENEVA—The rising cost of living in Switzerland has cut into recent wage increases.

Stock Expert To Speak In Olin Hall

A lecture on how to select the stocks you want to invest in will be given in Colorado Springs Tuesday.

The speaker is Thomas E. O'Hara, chairman of the board of trustees of the National Association of Investment Clubs. Thousands of people are using the stock study methods developed by successful investment clubs, both for their personal investing programs and for their investment clubs.

O'Hara's lecture is designed to aid groups or individuals analyse, a specific company and decide if it is likely to be a good investment, officials said.

The meeting, sponsored by the Colorado Springs Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange and the National Association of Investment Clubs, will start at 7:30 p.m. in the Olin Hall of Science Room at Colorado College.

Arrangements for the meeting have been made by Robert F. Delaney of Boettcher and Company, representing the member firms of the New York Stock Exchange in Colorado Springs and local clubs of the National Association of Investment Clubs.

O'Hara, one of the founders of the National Association of Investment Clubs, lectures widely on "How to Invest" procedures. People have called his talk "a college course in one evening," authorities said.

Formed in October, 1951 by four investment clubs with 40 members, the National Association of Investment Clubs today comprise more than 7,500 clubs with 100,000 members in 50 states and 21 foreign countries.

A widely read story about Investment Clubs appeared in the June issue of the Reader's Digest.

"The meeting is arranged in response both to the growing interest in clubs being shown by the residents of Colorado Springs," Delaney said, "and to the interest investors are showing in the methods developed by the National Association of Investment Clubs for the selection of stocks. There are more than 65 clubs composed of friends, neighbors or business associates in Colorado Springs today, and many more persons are interested in getting clubs started."

Members of clubs pool their surplus funds (usually $10 or $20 per month per member) and, after investigation and discussion, decide by majority vote which common stocks to buy.

In following the principles of the National Associaton of Investment Clubs, clubs learn how to select growth companies, invest regularly regardless of the market outlook, reinvest earnings for compounding and diversify to help protect their investment.

Pastore May Succeed HH

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI)—Two names were mentioned Friday for the pair of jobs that would be vacated by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey should he become the nation's next vice president.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., was far and away the leading contender to replace Humphrey as Senate Democratic whip.

And Rep. John O. Blatnik was given a big boost for the Senate seat that would become available to a Minnesota Democrat in the event Humphrey and President Johnson should win in November.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy, the state's other senator and the man who competed with Humphrey here for the vice presidential nomination, "personally favors" Blatnik.

While others may be in the running for the Minnesota Senate seat, there appears to be no competition for the whip post.

History and Travelogues Among Books at Library

New books received at the Pikes Peak Regional District Library this week include "History, Sacred and Profane," by Alan Richardson, and "Both Sides of the Ocean," by Viktor Nekrasov.

These and other offerings may be requested at any regional library service area.

Titles received this week include the following:

"The Secret Battalion," by Michael Bird. The story of how 470 courageous French Resistance fighters in the High Savoy took on 10,000 German and Vichy soldiers in World War II.

"History, Sacred and Profane," by Alan Richardson. Traces the development of historical thinking from ancient times to the present day with emphasis on the split between Christian and humanist attitudes.

"Search in the Desert," by John Marco Allegro. The archaeologist, who organized and led an exploratory expedition into the land of the Dead Sea scrolls, explains the internal workings of such journeys.

"Both Sides of the Ocean," by Viktor Nekrasov. This exuberant account of a Russian writer's travels in Italy and the United States caused international controversey when it was published in Moscow in 1962.

"The New York Book," by Percy Seitlin. A many faceted view of New York City, profusely illustrated with photographs.

"For Love of Some Islands," by Floyd Schmoe. The author's memoirs of some years spent in the San Juan Islands of Puget Sound.

"The Cart and the Horse," by Louis Kronenberger. A witty diagnoses of American life today, particularly taking into account its urban and suburban culture, its social attitudes, and its manners and customs.

"Discovery," by Vilhjalmur Stefansson. The well known explorer recalls his whole adventurous and exciting life, and the great achievements that made him a top authority on the Arctic and its people.

"On a Shoestring and a Prayer," by Raymond P. Sloan. This is the life story of Mother Alice, a nun with a genius for running hospitals.

"Waiting for the End," by Leslie A. Fiedler. A view of the present American cultural situation as evidenced in 20th century literature.

"Baseball Has Done It," by Jackie Robinson. Based on interviews in which Negro baseball players talked about their personal experiences.

"For Better Gardens," by Roland A. Browne. Deals with all gardening problems.

"American Gem Trails," by Richard M. Pearl. A down-to-earth guide for the gem hobbyist and rockhound in search of America's gem stones. The author is a resident of Colorado Springs and a professor of geology at Colorado College.

"Bidding Through Logic," by Curtis Smith. A "how-to-do-it" guide of logical bidding in contract bridge.

"Gara-Yaka, the Story of a Cheetah," by Desmond Varaday. The true story of a game warden's friendship with a cheetah in a South African game preserve.

"1001 Questions & Answers on Your Skin Problems," by Sidney J. Robbins. The author and his wife are noted dermatologists.

"Without a Grain of Salt," by Elma W. Bagg. Recipes for salt-free diets.

"A Parent's Guide to the New Mathematics," by Evelyn Sharp. Explains the mysteries of the new (or modern) mathematics which is now being introduced to American children at all levels in the schools.

"Pushbutton Parents and the Schools," by Paul P. Mok. Discusses what parents can do to help a child to learn, and to help schools int eaching.

"How to Invest and Protect Your Profits in Real Estate Syndicates," by Hugo Rothschild. A new and revised edition of "How to Make Money in Real Estate Syndicates."

" 'The Making of Justice' the Supreme Court in Action," by James E. Clayton. Presented to the library by the Woman's Club of Colorado Springs.

"The Bible for Students of Literature and Art," selected by G. B. Harrison. Selections from both the Old and New Testaments for the general reader and student.

Any of these books may be requested at any Regional Library service area.

Burma Arrests Six After Buddhist Unrest

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Gen. Ne Win's military government has arrested six persons in Mandalay after Buddhist unrest in that ancient city.

Sources said the action Friday stemmed from last week's burning of a newspaper by militant Buddhists reportedly provoked by insulting remarks to the Young Buddhists Association. The government has warned Buddhist clergy that it will take firm steps against hostile actions by monks.

The six; three of whom are newsmen, will be brought before a committee seeking to determine reasons for the unrest.

State University Takes to Air In Springs Area

BOULDER — The University of Colorado will take to the air lanes this fall, offering persons in the Denver and Colorado Springs areas college credit for an anthropology course taken via television.

CU has offered non-credit courses via television in the past, and it has sent Boulder credit courses into the Denver Center via closed-circuit television, but this is the first time it has offered a credit course for home TV viewers.

The course, "Principles of Anthropology," will be telecast by Station KRMA (Cahnnel 6) in Denver beginning Sept. 4 and Station KKTV, Channel 1, in Colorado Springs beginning Sept. 21, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. KRMA will carry the course from 5:45 to 6:30 p.m. and KKTV from 6:15 to 7 a.m.

It will be taught the first semester by Asst. Prof. Mark Papworth, and will deal with the evolution of man and his culture from their beginnings through the Middle Ages. It will be taught the spring semester by Assoc. Prof. John Greenway and will cover the world's major cultural areas and their subsistence, social organization, religion and language.

Both Papworth and Greenway are regular members of the CU anthropology faculty.

Four college credit hours may be earned in each semester. Persons may take the course for credit in one of two ways: by signing up for weekly discussion sessions to supplement the TV lectures, or by signing up for correspondence study.

The CU Bureau of Class Instruction will arrange the weekly discussion sessions at the Denver Center, at Lowry Air Force Base, in Boulder and at the Air Force Academy. Persons may register at any of those places, or at the Colorado Springs Center, 1105 N. Nevada Ave., or the Extension Division headquarters, 1165 Broadway, Boulder. Tuition is $52 per semester.

The CU Bureau of Corres- group or individual participation in the course, with the telecasts supplementing regular correspondence study guides.

The course will be produced in the CU television studios in Boulder and will be recorded on video-tape for KRMA and KKTV. It also will be sent from Boulder to the Denver Center via closed circuit TV for regular students at the Center. Dr. Richard H. Bell, head of the radio-tv section of the Bureau of Audio-Visual Instruction, is in charge of the project.

Nevergall Captures World Seniors Crown

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Dorsey Nevergall, an affable marksman from Pompano Beach, Fla., became the fifth champion of the annual World Seniors Golf Tournament at the Broadmoor Saturday with a decisive 5 and 4 finals' victory over outgunned Jack Barkel of Sydney, Australia.

The triumph thus completed a spectacular rise to the top of the senior golf world for the balding Florida stylist. Nevergall failed to even qualify for the championship flight in his first appearance here in 1962. Last summer he launched his climb upward by advancing to the semi-finals before dropping out of the running and climaxed the comeback Saturday by crushing the intent Australian beneath a deluge of accuracy.

The loss was extremely disappointing to Barkel, who had made a brilliant bid to become the first foreign winner in the five-year history of this premium seniors championship. But the steady game which had carried him into the finals departed after the first five holes Saturday and by the turn it was obvious that this was simply not his day.

"I feel I played poorly, and certainly didn't putt well," Barkel said afterwards. "But, then, he also played very well. I think the score reveals that!"

In contrast to Barkel's dilemma, Nevergall reached the peak of his game Sunday. His was a shaky start early in the week when the slippery surfaces of the Broadmoor greens were proving troublesome but the danger gradually evaporated as the competition wore on. His route to the finals included a 5 and 4 first round win over Leonard Stone of Beaumont, Tex.; a 1 up win over R. M. Udow of Yokohama, Japan; a 4 and 3 victory over San Reynolds of Omaha, Neb.; a 5 and 3 triumph over Forest Andrews of Colorado Springs; and Friday's 3 and 2 semi-finals win over Joe Dyer of Denver.

With his Saturday victory, Nevergall became the fourth man to wear the World Seniors crown. Howard Creel of Colorado Springs, who did not participate this year, is the only two-time champion, having won in both 1961 and 1962. Harry Strasburger of Coffeyville, Kan. was the first winner, in 1960, and George Haggarty of Detroit captured the crown last summer. Haggarty was the only former champ to enter this year, but was severely hampered by a sore hand and was eliminated in the first found.

It took Nevergall just three shots to gain a lead he never relinquished in Saturday's final match. He and Barkel both dropped beautiful second shots on the first green, both about 10 feet from the pin. Nevergall ran his in and Barkel missed to set the trend for the day.

The following three holes were a picture of flawless golf. Both players hit the greens in regulation and the longest putt was a 20 footer by Barkel at the second hole. The first mistakes of the match popped up at the fifth, which could possibly be classified as the turning point.

Both players were short of the green but Barkel made a magnificent recovery chip from the rough 40 yards down the fairway to within five feet of the pin. Nevergall's shorter chip out of a grass trap strayed some 18 feet from the hole and he two-putted. With a chance to tie the match, Barkel then slid his putt low of the hole.

Nevergall immediately returned to his immaculate play following that brief lapse, while Barkel went completely sour on the next three holes. Second shots caught the front traps at both six and seven and he lost both with bogies.

At the par-three eighth, his iron off the tee missed the edge of the green by not more than a couple of feet and drained back down into the yawning canyon below, leaving him with an unplayable lie. A fine second shot off the tee and a one-putt green still gave him a bogey four but Nevergall two-putted for a par and took a commanding four hole lead.

Barkel's only win of the day came at 10 where Nevergall plopped his tee shot into a fairway trap and eventually bogied. He got the four hole margin back at 12 when Barkel three-putted and then closed out the match at 14. There, his second shot bounded into a back trap but the new champion blasted out with what he called "one of the best sand shots I've ever made" to within two feet of the cup and sank the putt. Barkel, in grass to the back of the green with his second, pitched short and failed to get the putt down for the bogey that ended it.

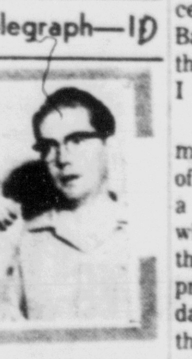
Phrasings

BY MORRIS FRASER



Among the visitors who had a vested interest in the Western Junior Golf Tournament played at the Air Force Academy was Karl Tucker, golf coach for Brigham Young University. Tucker had a pair of twins, Craig and Kean Ridd, entered in the qualifying.

Both play at BYU and both are two-handicap golfers. Craig failed to make the qualifying score. Kean shot 158, but fell in the first round Thursday.

Tucker is a living, breathing promotion man for his school. And one of the things he promotes as he takes his golfers on matches around the country — "to give them experience" — is the interest of Mormons to enter Brigham Young.

The church-supported college is carrying on an all-church athletic program, which includes golf, football, softball, basketball and volleyball. The aim of this program, so says Tucker, is to stimulate Mormon interest in BYU, thus insuring an increase in the fortunes of the athletic department.

Last week, the all-church softball tournament was held in Salt Lake City. 96 teams entered. A few weeks ago the all-church golf tournament was held. A boy from California won it and Tucker immediately started recruiting him. But the lad lived across from Stanford and picked that school.

"I've had quite a bit of ribbing about that," said Tucker. "I can't even get the church's best golfer to attend BYU."

However, he does have two of the better golfers attending in the Ridd kids. And their father Jack won the Utah men's amateur title last week.

The BYU coaching staff does have one problem that most schools do not have. The LDS church strongly believes in its young men doing missionary work. The boys may go out anytime during their college career, spending two years in the field. So coaches are never sure whether they will have a player for one or four years.

This has led to complications, Tucker notes.

"When one of those football players comes back from his mission, some people say he has a mental block. They say he doesn't know whether to 'love thy neighbor' or kick him in the teeth."

Football has not been one of BYU's strong points, but a new $30,000 stadium is expected to give the team a start. And with Tucker's tours around the country, he hopes to persuade more Mormon athletes to enter their church's school.

For the record, Tucker also is interested in fall golf, as opposed to the usual season starting in the spring.

"The boys play in tournaments all summer, and they are just starting to get their form when school starts. Then all golf ends. By the time spring comes, the boys are not in shape and the weather is hardly conducive to golf.

"We try to get some fall tournaments when we can. I believe the boys would show improvement if fall golf could be conducted on a wide-spread scale."

The Western Junior produced its first quotable quote Monday night at a banquet for the contestants and parents.

Several parents were introducing themselves at one table. George Rea, father of Chuck Rea of Meridian, Miss., was last to state his name. Referring to the difficulties encountered by the Mississippi delegation at the Democratic convention, he announced in a distinct Southern drawl, "My name is George Rea and I'm mighty happy to be seated."

All the contestants in the Western Junior were exhorted to practice good sportsmanship during the week, something which none of them needed telling.

But two of the best sports, if there is any meaning left to that term, were Hale Irwin and Roger Cleveland. Those two were battling in the second round Thursday. Cleveland was one down and it appeared as if he wouldn't be able to make up the difference. Irwin putted on one green and left a tap of better than a foot. If he had putted and missed, Cleveland could have won the hole. But Roger tapped the ball away from the cup, signifying a conceded putt.

Irwin obviously wasn't expecting such a gesture and breathed "Thank you."

One of the rules of any golf course worthy of the name is that divots should always be replaced. Often, in the tenseness of match play, a golfer either forgets to replace turf knocked out by a chip shot or tosses it in the general direction of the pock mark.

It probably could be said without embarrassing anyone, that Irwin was a good sport along these lines. He made a couple of bad shots in the fairway, but each time, muttering to himself that he should have taken up gardening, he carefully replaced each wad of dirt.

Those are little things. But to the knowledgeable spectator or official, they make the difference between the good and the great golfers.

Liston Still Off World Rankings

Anthony Petronella of Rhode Island, chairman of the ratings committee, released the top 10 heavyweights during the WBA convention.

Terrell, who knocked out Bobby Foster in his last appearance, moved up from third to No. 1, while Doug Jones of New York dropped from first to No. 4 following his defeat to Billy Daniels of New York.

Daniels, who wasn't even rated in the last WBA world selections, was placed as No. 8 heavyweight.

Wiechers Wins Western Junior Tournament Over Greg Pitzer, 3-1

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

For the first time in the week-long Western Junior match play golf tournament, Jim Wiechers found himself behind. But, also for the first time, Greg Pitzer lost the playing composure that marks him as a tough competitor and Wiechers walked off the Eisenhower course at the Air Force Academy Saturday with his first (and last) WGA Junior championship.

Wiechers pulled out a 3-1 victory after falling behind on the first hole, as Pitzer, under par for the first nine holes, churned three bogeys on the last eight fairways.

The champion from Atherton, Alif., will not be eligible to compete next year for the Western Junior title because of his age. His best showing in previous tournaments was the 1963 medalist in this tournament, losing in the quarterfinals to eventual champion George Boutell.

Wiechers became the second person in history to win both the USGA national juniors and the WGA juniors. He copped the USGA title in 1962. Dean Lind won the USGA championship in 1948 and the Western Junior in 1949-50.

The husky 19-year-old Wiechers had taken three fairly easy early-round wins before running into Pitzer, who has beaten Walker Cupper Billy Joe Patton by a 7-6 margin. Pitzer won the first hole with a birdie putt of six feet, as Wiechers left an eight-footer short.

Pitzer put the pressure on Wiechers on No. 3 as he holed out a beautiful 23-foot putt for a birdie. Wiechers watched helplessly as his own tap from half that distance lipped the cup on the left.

Pitzer missed another birdie on the No. 4 182-yard fairway as he put his tee shot 28 feet from the pin, then put the ball past the hole by inches.

Wiechers cut Pitzer's two-hole lead in half on the fifth hole. Pitzer hooked into trees on the left-bending fairway and Wiechers went over the dogleg on the fly. While Pitzer chipped out to the green, Wiechers put his ball 20 feet from the cup and sank his putt for a birdie.

Wiechers took the next hole to even the match. He placed his second shot in a trap, and knocked it out two feet from the pin. Pitzer, also playing from a trap, couldn't get as close and couldn't sink his 17-foot putt.

But Pitzer got back a temporary lead as he birdied No. 7 from eight feet. He kept the lead through No. 8 as both ran in putts under eight feet for par threes.

Wiechers made the turn even as he placed a 40-foot putt six inches from the cup for a par four and Pitzer three-putted.

Both finished the nine holes in one-under par 35.

They split No. 10 and Wiechers won No. 11 on Pitzer's missed five-footer. They played No. 12 an even par three.

Wiechers went two-up on No. 13 as he hit the green in two and sank a 15-foot birdie putt. Pitzer had sliced his tee shot into heavy undergrowth and put his second shot on the left side short of the green.

That was the start of Pitzer's undoing. Normally a cool-playing youngster, the kind which lets the other player make mistakes, the Santa Monica, Calif., golfer began missing the fine edge he had displayed on the front nine. Although he won the 14th hole, he had to three-putt and had to have Wiechers' only bogey of the match to narrow the lead to one-up.

The slim lead lasted just a few minutes, however, as Pitzer hit a bad tee shot to the right and couldn't hit a three-foot putt on No. 15. Wiechers played into the left trap and one-putted to regain his two-up advantage.

Pitzer did show one flash of form that makes him one of the nation's top junior golfers. The 17-year-old put his tee shot on No. 15 behind six trees, placed in two rows of three about a yard apart. Pitzer gambled and hit his shot between the trees and on the green 48 feet from the flag.

The pair halved No. 16, a three-par. Then Pitzer, needing to win to keep in the running, sent a 50-foot putt two feet short of the hole. Wiechers conceded the long putt, needing only a pair of putts to win the hole. He sent his first putt from 18 feet squarely over the cup and beyond a foot, cinching the match.

Although smaller than Wiechers, Pitzer managed to keep his drives almost as long as the champion's. He was longer on five tees and there was never any great distance between any of their drives.

Wiechers finished in even par, with his bogey on 14 matching his only birdie on five. Pitzer was two strokes over for the match, erasing his three birdies with a pair of bogies on the front side and taking three bogies on the back side.

Injured Knee Helps Champion

If Jim Wiechers hadn't been knock-kneed he probably would not be the Western Junior golf champion this year.

Wiechers, who in addition has won the USGA championship, received an injury to a knee during football practive five years ago as a freshman at Atherton, Calif. While treating the injury, the doctor noted that he could fix Jim's leg growth by inserting steel pins in his knees.

The operation was successful, but Jim could not play football any more. His father had just started playing golf and encouraged his son to take up the game in place of football.

"I talked to the pro I took lessons from, Romie Espinoza" relates Mr. Wiechers. "He said if he could have Jim all to himself, he would make a champion of him.

"I laughed."

Two years later Jim went to the quarterfinals of the USGA Junior and won the meet the following year (1962). He went to the quarterfinals of the 1963 Western Junior and earned medalist honors with a record 136.

Fight Promotion Will Mean Expulsion---WBA

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The World Boxing Association threw up another blockade Saturday in a move to solidify its ban on the proposed Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship bout.

Closing its 45th annual convention here, the WBA voted to declare the heavyweight title vacant and expel all principals involved immediately on announcement by the promoters of the date and site of the proposed rematch.

If this happens, President Ed Lassman of Miami Beach, Fla., said the WBA would recommend an elimination series of bouts among the top contenders to decide the new champion.

Following the WBA's refusal Friday to sanction the fight because of violation of the return bout clause, Inter-Continental Promotions announced it would stage the fight anyway, probably in November and at a site to be determined.

J. Y. Jordan of the North Carolina Boxing Commission offered the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

". . . That if a rematch is authorized by any member commission of WBA that said member be expelled from WBA; in addition all promoters, managers boxers, seconds and other ring officials will have their license suspended in all WBA territory. Furthermore, WBA will withdraw as champion from Cassius Clay and the bout will be considered as a non-title match.

"In the event the match shall be held in territory a member of WBA, then all participants in said match including promoters, boxers, managers, seconds and ring officials will be prohibited from appearing as such in any WBA territory.

"The foregoing shall become in full force and effect when the site is designated and the date of said proposed rematch made public."

Commissioner M. R. Evans of Kentucky, Clay's home state, passed in the voting.

New York and California, two of the 13 states not members of the WBA, have announced they do not want the Clay-Liston bout.

The WBA voted to establish American ratings of boxers in all divisions in addition to the world ratings.

Lassman was named WBA representative to the World Boxing Council meeting in Venice, Italy. The WBA approved Las Vegas, Nev., as the site of the 1965 convention and Tokyo, Japan, as the probable site in 1966.

Thompson to Stop Racing For Health

By ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Millionair race driver Mickey Thompson, holder of nearly 200 speed records, was ordered Saturady to give up racing because of a suspected heart ailment.

The 34-year-old Thompson blacked out three times in two days after racing a sports car at the Bonneville Salt Flats west of Salt Lake City. A heart specialist, Dr. Roy McDonald, was quoted as saying an electrocardiagram hasn't determined the extent of damage but Thompson "definitely will not be allowed to race again."

Additional tests are scheduled today and tomorrow at Salt Lake's Holy Cross Hospital. Dr. McDonald said he hoped to have a definite medical report by Monday.

Thompson, of Rolling Hills, Calif., was said to have accepted the doctor's verdict. "But," said his brother-in-law, Gary Campbell, "Mickey is under heavy sedation and I don't really think he knows that this is it."

Campbell said Thompson ran his Corvette sports car 161.74 m.p.h. at Bonneville Thursday morning. "He passed out later in the day," Campbell said, "and blacked out about midnight that night. His third blackout was yesterday in the hospital."

Thompson was driven to Tobele Hospital, 60 miles east of Bonneville, by Craig Breedlove, who holds the land speed record for jet-powered vehicles at 417.45 m.p.h. Later he was transferred to Salt Lake City.

Newsmen could not see Thompson but his brother-in-law said he will go ahead with most of his plans including an assault on the automobile land speed record at Bonneville in October or November. "The only difference, of course," Campbell said, "will be that Mickey will not drive."

Thompson had intended to run his supercharged Challenger I in pursuit of Sir Donald Campbell's auto speed record of 403.1 miles per hour, set at Adelaide, Austrapia, in July. He also had scheduled an assault on Breedlove's jet-powered mark with his pur jet US 1.

Most of Thompson's records, set in 20 years of racing, are for acceleration and distance. He also has the top one-way speed for automobiles — 406.6 m.p.h. Official records require a two-way run.

Two weeks ago, Thompson announced plans for a front-engine, front-wheel drive car to race at the Indianapolis 500 next year. "The car will still be built," Campbell said.

IT'S AROUND HERE SOMEWHERE — Greg Pitzer, finalist in the Western Junior golf championships Saturday at Eisenhower Course, sliced his tee shot into heavy growth on the 13th hole. He banged the ball out in front of the green and chipped within eight feet of the hole. He was defeated by Jim Wiechers, 3-1.

Allen, Callison Pace Phil Attack

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Richie Allen drove in four runs and Johnny Callison knocked in three, powering National League-leading Philadelphia to a 10-8 triumph over Pittsburgh Saturday.

Allen tripled across two runs in a four-run second inning and slammed his 24th homer, a two-run blast, in the sixth.

Callison batted in Allen with a single in the second and brought in Tony Gonzalez, who had singled, with his 23rd homer in the eighth.

Despite the Phillies' offensive fireworks, right-hander Art Mahaffey, now 12-6, was unable to finish. He was taken out in the eighth inning when the Pirates rallied for four runs.

John Boozer rescued Mahaffey but needed help himself when the Pirates erupted for four more runs in the ninth. Jack Baldschun replaced Boozer with a runner at third and two out and retired Dick Schofield on a game-ending fly ball.

The Phillies touched off the scoring in the second inning, striking for four runs on six hits off Bob Friend, 10-15, and ElRoy Face.

Ruben Amaro singled home the first run. Allen tripled in the next two and then scored on Callison's single.

Allen hit his homer in the sixth inning with Gonzalez on base. A run had scored earlier in the inning when pitcher John Gelnar fielded Gonzalez' grounder and threw the ball into left field trying to get Amaro going from second to third. Mahaffey singled home a run in the third.

The Pirates chased Mahaffey, who was in trouble several times in the game, in the eighth.

Bill Virdon walked, moved to third on Roberto Clemente's single and scored on Jerry Lynch's single. Mahaffey then gave way to Boozer, who gave up three more runs before retiring the side.

Singles by Virdon, Clemente, Willie Stargell and Smoky Burgess brought in two Pirate runs in the ninth before Bill Mazeroski tripled across two more, making the score 10-8. Baldschun then came on and ended the threat.

Hart Robbed, But Helps SF to Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rookie Jim Hart, robbed of an extra-base hit because of fan interference his first time up, slammed a key double and his 22nd home as the San Francisco Giants whipped Milwaukee 7-2 Saturday.

The victory kept the Giants seven games behind National League-leading Philadelphia.

Hart doubled in the Giants' first run in a three-run fourth inning uprising after Willie Mays had walked and Willie McCovey singled, then he and McCovey scored on a single by Orlando Cepeda. Hart hit a bases empty homer in the eighth off reliever Warren Spahn.

In the first inning, Jesus Alou's single, a triple by Mays and McCovey's grounder had produced two runs off Braves' starter Bob Sadowski when Hart lashed a long drive to the left field bleachers.

A fan reached over and touched the ball, and umpire Doug Harvey ruled Hart out because of interference.

Ron Herbel got the victory for a 9-8 record by keeping seven hits well scattered. He was touched for a run in the second on singles by Eddie Mathews, Ed Bailey and Joe Torre and another in the ninth on an error and Felipe Alou's double.

Dietzel Praises Army's Fitness

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Coach Paul Dietzel called his Army football squad "the best conditioned group of players I have seen in 17 years of college coaching" as the Cadets opened practice Saturday.

Only five of the 79 candidates failed to pass the opening day physical aptitude test. Last year nearly one-quarter of the players failed. The Army squad goes to nearby Camp Buckner Sunday for a week of heavy training prior to the start of classes Sept. 8.

Cards Get Fifth Win In Row From Bums, 4-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Skinner's pinch three-run homer and Bob Gibson's pitching carried the sizzling St. Louis Cardinals to their fifth straight victory, 4-1 over the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday.

Skinner was called on in the Cardinals' four-run second inning when Julian Javier was forced out of the game by an upset stomach. The homer off Howie Reed was Skinner's fourth of the season, but his first for the Cardinals since they obtained him from Cincinnati in mid-June.

Ken Boyer opened the big second inning with a double, stopped at third on Dick Groat's single and scored on a fielder's choice. Then Skinner unloaded.

The triumph was the Cardinals' 23rd in their last 33 games.

Gibson, bringing his record to 12-10, lost a bid for a shutout when Derrell Griffith homered with one out in the ninth. Gibson allowed seven hits.

Marines Capture Team Rifle Title

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP) — The United States Marine Corps won the national trophy team championship Saturday at the National Rifle Matches.

The six-man squad edged the Air Force for the title it last won in 1960. The two teams finished with a score of 1486 points out of a possible 1500, but the Marines poured 145 shots into the V-ring, a smaller circle within the bullseye used to break ties. The Air Force Blue team managed only 131 V-ring shots.

The Army's Europe Gold team placed third with a total score of 1480.

New Coach Will Greet Baltimore

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — The new coach of the Baltimore Bullets, Buddy Jeannette, will greet the team's 14 rookies and a few of the veterans Tuesday when the club opens its Ft. Meade training headquarters.

Jeannette, who recently replaced Bob Leonard as coach of the National Basketball Association entry, will send the aspiring young players through two drills a day, including a game-condition scrimmage each night.

The rookies will be battling to survive a player cut at the end of the week and join the full Bullet squad when it reports Sept. 8.

The Bullets' No. 1 college draft choice, All-America Gary Bradds of Ohio State, will report with the veterans. He is finishing up summer college.

Wasson, Palmer Workout

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Mixed reactions were the order of the day for rival coaches Bill Westbay of Palmer and Gib Funk of Wasson after their respective teams battled through separate intrasquad scrimmages Saturday morning.

Both local head men came away from the revealing sessions, which preceeded the opening games by just six days, citing inexperience as a major problem. Overall, however, the weeping wasn't drastic, especially at Funk's northside headquarters.

"Our kids seem to be awfully rough on defense," Funk said Saturday afternoon. "We didn't have any unit that could move the ball very well. Maybe it's just that we don't have any offense.

"However, they were hitting pretty hard, which is at least a fair sign."

The veteran Thunderbird coach went on to say that his staff was "generally pleased with the results for a first full-scale scrimmage. We had a number of early season problems, of course. Our timing was off for one thing. We frequently had 10 guys who did what they were supposed to and one who was somewhere else. We also had a number of fumbles and quite a few penalties."

Funk went on to say that one of the major problems was "in just getting used to each other. We have so many juniors who are green that it will just take time. At least this year we have enough players that if something happens to one or somebody isn't doing his jpb, we replace him without really losing anything. There's not too much difference between most of them."

During the Saturday session, Wasson opened with a first offensive unit that had Mike Martin or Joe Shipp at left end and team captain Charlie Steel on the right flank. Dave Kendrick and Yogi Crandcourt were the tackles, Keith Campbell and Mark Fleming the guards, and either Larry Gendreizig or Lou Garcia at center. Rod Wells was funning from quarterback with Jim Smith and Dewey Winters at halfbacks and Bob Oiler at fullback. Smith also works at quarterback and Budgie Hamilton alternates at both fullback and right-half.

Over at Palmer, Westbay was less than inspired over the first game-time contact work for his green squad. The Terror coach, who has been blessed with speedy backs during most of his coaching years, said there was a decided lack in that area this fall. "We're so slow you'd have to drive a stake to see us us move," be moaned Saturday.

"It's always tough to replace kids like the ones we lost from last year," Westbay said. "But usually you expect to have a few surprises. So far we really haven't, except for Larry Williams."

Williams is the lad tabbed to take over the quarterbacking duties for the Tribe this fall and he was at that post Saturday morning as Palmer worked through the scrimmage. With him in the backfield were Jesse Martinez and Dennis Bair at halfbacks, while Ben Bryant and Mike Tracey alternated at fullback.

In the line, the first unit had Claude Spears and Frank Wilson at enda, Gary Stockdale and either Rex Bauer or Ken Lancaster at tackles. John Van Druff and Harold Hampton at guards, and Ron Smith at center. All except Tracey, Martinez, and Bauer are lettermen and Bauer is the only junior.

Westbay went on to say that the scrimmage was "generally pretty poor. It's obvious we may have to make some changes in our offense this year to compensate for the lack of speed. The trouble is, I just don't know what we can change to.

"We have a long, long way to go'" the Palmer coach said in summary. "We'll have to see some improvement pretty quickly or it will be a long season."

Rookie Helps Orioles Shut Out White Sox With 3 RBIs

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rookie Sam Bowens knocked in three runs in support of Milt Pappas' six-hit pitching as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the second-place Chicago White Sox 5-0 Saturday night and increased their American League lead to 1½ games.

Pappas settled down after allowing singles to Tom McCraw and Don Buford on his first two pitches of the game and didn't allow a Chicago runner past second base the rest of the way.

The 27-year-old Oriole right-hander, who has won seven of eight decisions since June 16, increased his record to 12-5 while hurling his fifth shutout of the season.

After a double play erased the early Chicago threat, Pappas yielded a double by Ron Hansen in the fifth, singles by Buford in the sixth and ninth and a double by Gerry McNertney in the eighth.

Juan Pizarro, the winningest pitcher in the American League with 17 victories, started for the White Sox as they tried to take over the league lead.

Lead-off singles in the first by Jerry Adair and Luis Aparicio, plus a sacrifice bunt, had the left-hander in immediate trouble.

Brooks Robinson, who has driven in 11 runs against the White Sox this season, was then walked intentionally to load the bases. But the strategy of Chicago Manager Al Lopez backfired when Bowens cracked a sharp single to left, scoring two runs.

Springs Shows Well in Swim Meet

The Colorado Springs YMCA swimming team placed third last week in the Invitational Age Group Swimming Meet at the City Park pool in Pueblo.

The Springs swimmers averaged 6.3 points per swimmer, which put them third behind the wimming Pueblo YMCA team with 11.4 points per swimmer and the City Park Dolphins with 8.3 points per swimmer.

Winner of the meet, in which nine teams competed, was determined on the average number of points scored by each individual on the team.

On the basis of overall points scored, the Colorado Springs YMCA team notched 260, second to the 298 scored by the City Park Dolphins. The Pueblo YMCA team, winner on the percentage basis, was third in points with 51½.

Following the third place Springs YMCA team on the percentage basis were the Pueblo YMCA, 5.6 points; Air Force Academy, 5.3; Pueblo Country Club, 4.9; Minnequa, 1.9; with Stratmoor Hills and Mineral Palace scoring nothing.

Following the third place Pueblo YMCA on the overall points scored were the Air Force Academy, 229; Pueblo Mineral Palace, 150½; Peublo Country Club, 113; Strtmoor Hills, 102; Pueblo Y.W.C.A. 78; and Minnequa Club, 44.

Kathy Osterholt of the Springs team set a new meet and pool record with 1:33.3 in the 100 meter back stroke for 11-12 year old girls. She also won the 50 meter free style and was on the winning 200 meter medley relay team along with Leslie Isaac, Larrie Ficher and Debby Tolle.

The 9-10 year old girls swimmers were Kathy Hines, Leslie Dumas, Ricky Mathews and Christy Hanson. John Moon set a new meet and pool record record for 13-14 year-old boys of 2:50.0 in the 200 meter individual medley.

Leslie Isaac won her individual medley race in the fast time of 1:38.3 but was disqualified on a back turn touch. She won the 50 meter butterfly, however. Judy Miller won her 100 meter free style for 15-17 year olds, and Don Stainsky won the 100 meter back stroke for 15-16 year olds, and the 200 meter individual medley Bryce Fast won the 100 meter backstroke for 11-12 year olds with a meet mark of 1:36.6.

Some SAABs don't fly. But they're engineered as solidly as the ones that do.

Swedish Aircraft Company, Ltd. builds all kinds of SAABs. Some fly at Mach 2 and help defend Sweden. Others race the roads of Scandinavia, Europe and America; they get 28-38 mpg and win more rallies than any other car in the world. They are superbly engineered to traditional aircraft reliability and performance standards. SAAB automobiles have:

- 3-cylinder valveless engines (strange but amazingly efficient).
- front-wheel drive (superlative road traction).
- abundant safety features (reinforced heavy steel unitized body, padded dash and visors, new dual-braking system, etc.).

Olson Expects Competition To Be on More Even Level

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Larry Olsen, who perked up Manitou Springs' football program after the Mustangs had dropped 12 consecutive games, is preparing the 1964 football edition for what he calls "a more even league composed of schools with the same student enrollment."

Last season the Mustangs managed to snap a 12-game losing streak when they won two Pikes Peak League games to compile a 2-7 loop record. The Manitou eleven finished ahead of cellar dwellers Fountain.

With a small turnout of 37 gridders, including nine returning lettermen, Olsen expects the Mustangs to fare on a more equal par this season in the PPL chase in lieu of the four larger area schools — Cheyenne Mountain, Air Academy High, Widefield and Harrison — moving up to the Class AAA Will Rogers League.

Although Olsen said he didn't know much about the other seven teams in the PPL, he felt the Salida team would be one of the top challengers to capture the championship. Last season, Cheyenne wrapped up the PPL title undefeated and averaged 55 points per game while only yielding four points per game to the eight teams in the Class AA League.

This year's revised PPL includes Manitou, Fountain, Crowley County (Ordway), Fowler, Salida, Florence, Buena Vista and Leadville.

Olsen indicated this year's Mustang squad would be strongest in the backfield in some years and the weak point would be depth in both the line and backfield.

Included in the roster of returning veterans are John (the Jet) Moore, 165-pound halfback; Danny Wheeler, 165-pound fullback; and quarterback John Fletcher, 145-pound junior. Moore, who was outstanding in track this past spring, was the top ground gainer for the Manitou team last year. He will be the fastest on the squad and can turn the 100-yard dash in 10.2 seconds.

Olsen expects Fletcher to guide the Mustang attack and the Manitou mentor related that Fletcher's best asset is his ability to remain calm under pressing situations. In addition, Olsen rates Fletcher a good passer.

The other lettermen are: ends Greg Smouse, 154, and Denny Eason, 140; tackles Ken Yager, 175 and Fred Smouse, 157; guards Mike Pick, 165, and Buck Ravenstein, 145, who was switched from quarterback to the guard post this season, and guard Bob Nakai, 145.

Prospective gridders are halfgack Larry McIntyre, who has displayed potential for a 145-pound senior with no experience; Ron Smith, 155, rugged end; Dick Frase, 150-pound center; and sophomore Bruce Heidenreich, 150-pound center.

Twin Quin Pays $4,030

It was the Twin Quin, really living up to its name, that made top news at Colorado Springs' Rocky Mountain Kennel Club Friday night when the 1-7 combination in the 10th with the 3-6 combination in the 11th paid a new high of $4,030.60. It was a nervous, motherly type woman who took the lone path to the cashiers window and hesitatingly, as if in a dream, pushed the ticket through for payment. "I'd like the $30.60 in cash, please, but may I have the four thousand in a check?"

Virginia Schoolboy Dies of Grid Injuries

Vets Win Battle of Stadium

AIR FORCE ACADEMY — Two seasoned (former) Infantrymen have won a skirmish against old time foes — cold, hardship, and boredom — to win the battle of Falcon Stadium.

C.M. Sgt. Hal Blume and M Sgt. John Dill set their sights on being the first Air Force Academy personnel to purchase footbal season tickets.

Armed with lawn chairs, sleeping bags, "long johns," food, beverages, and lots of determination, the duo spent a full night under the stars to make sure they would be first in line when the ticket office opened.

During their 20-hour wait temperatures dipped to freezing.

Why? Sgt. Blume explained: "We just wanted the honor of purchasing the first tickets and to get the best possible seats so we can help Coach Ben Martin run the team."

Sgt. Dill commented: "Even though he doesn't listen to our grandstand quarterback advice, at least Ben knows we're behind him all the way."

Both men raved about the generosity of Academy personnel who visited them during their long wait.

"You'd be amazed just how many people braved the cold to bring hot coffee, cakes, sandwiches, etc., to us during the night."

How did the two World War II infantrymen pass the 20 hours? "We fought the war backwards and forwards twice and reminisced about the days before the Air Force became a separate service. Then we recalled the years when we served with generals of today who were then second lieutenants."

The vets — they have more than 48 years combined service — both made a vow that if they're here next year, they will once again be first in line for Falcon football season tickets.

Wrestlers To Hit Town

Professional wrestling starts in Colorado Springs Sept. 3 at the city auditorium. The first show will feature a double main event, each match going two out of three falls with a one-hour time limit.

In the first Dory Funk Jr. will face Dandy Dan Miller. In the second Ricky Romero, champion of Mexico, takes on the Shiek. Two other matches will round out the first night's card.

Tickets are $2 for reserved seats and $1.50 for general admission. Children's tickets are 75 cents. Tickets may be purchased at Blicks, 119 N. Tejon, or at Ring Military, 122½ E. Pikes Peak.

PACT SIGNED

GRAND JUNCTION (UPI)—The Atomic Energy Commission and Kemac Nuclear Fuels Corp. have signed a stretch-out contract for Kermac's uranium processing mill near Grants, N. M. The contract extends operation from Dec. 31, 1963 through Dec. 31, 1970.

Coro Rocky Highest Payer So Far in RMKC Contest

Greyhound fans will be talking for weeks to come about the Huron Kennel's Coro Rocky that broke from the eight hole last Wednesday, took the lead at the ⅛th marker and crossed the wire a length and a half ahead of Speed Beam to make the high win pay-off for the week-old 16th annual greyhound racing meet at Colorado Springs' Rocky Mountain Kennel Club.

Timed at 33.21, the long-shot paid $56.60, $24.00 and $11.00. It was Speed Beam at $8.80 and $6.00 for the place finish and the 1-8 quiniela combination paid $138.00.

The Twin Quin hit its high pay-off Friday night when one person collected $4,030.60 on the 1-5 with the 3-6 combination.

Amperex, the Joe Mamino greyhound that "broke-in" on the RMKC oval in 1962, made his first win in the new season Friday night as he orbited the Peak Course of 1.710 feet in 32.74 and paid $4.20, $3.80 and $3.20 across the board. Cecil Wilson's Fred French paid $5.00 and $3.60 to place with the Larry Hughes' greyhound Miss Whirl coming in for the show at $4.20.

The first weekly report of kennel standings at RMKC gives the lead for the first four days of the meet to the G. A. Alderson Kennel with 42 points out of 20 starts. Alderson's greyhounds have tallied 6 wins, 4 place finishes, 2 shows and a couple of fourths to gain the top berth. Larry Hughes second place rank was gained after 36 starts that totaled a 4-3-4-5 tally. Alderson and Lentz and Paul George Kennel share the third place billing with 34 points each.

Pay-offs at the Daily Double window have averaged $186.50 with a high of $453.20 and a low of $44.00. In the Quiniela department, a high of $142.00 and a low of $11.00 have made the average $47.50.

RMKC president Carl W. Joslyn has announced that the annual RMKC Charity Night, all-proceeds of the track going to charity, will be on September 23.

Springs Polo Team Will Take on Denver

FORT CARSON — Sunday promises excitement with the final polo game of the season scheduled to be played at 11 a.m., Aug. 30, at the outdoor field in Broadmoor.

The Colorado Springs Polo Club will match skills against the Plum Creek Polo Team from Denver.

Playing from Fort Carson will be SFC Dayton Hare and Hugh Trabant who comprise half of the four-man team.

Highlighting the game will be a trophy presentation to the winning team. The trophy is held for one year. The winners will also receive individual belt buckles for their efforts.

Experienced Harrison Pulls Belt Tight for '64 Campaign

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

With 12 years of coaching experience under his belt, Harrison's new football coach Bob Irving will have to curtail his appetite for a winning season in the forthcoming Will Rogers League campaign.

Irving has a small squad of footballers with only five returning veterans from last year's team which finished in the runner-up slot behind Cheyenne Mountain in the Class AA Pikes Peak League. Under the guidance of Terry Mackey, who has since departed for the head coaching post at Air Academy High, the Panthers compiled a respectable 7-1 won-loss record. They lost that single tally to the PPL champion, Cheyenne Mountain.

This season, Harrison will join the three area schools — Cheyenne, Widefield and Academy High—to form the Triple A Will Rogers League along with Canon City. The five-team loop faces tougher competition in the state playoffs because of the larger schools with enrollments near 3,000 students.

The winner of the Will Rogers League this football season will be forced to play the victor of the Southern League for a berth in the State Class AAA championships. The winner of that playoff game will meet the South Central League champion in the state quarter-finals.

Although Irving saw 45 gridders turn out for the varsity squad last week, including five returning lettermen, that number has dwindled to a mere 32.

In addition to losing the majority of its key linemen, Harrison will be without the services of Danny Gieck and Lonnie Mayo; the Panthers' one-two punch. Gieck was the finest passer in the PPL and Mayo gained over 1,500 yards in nine games from the halfback position.

Irving will count heavily on junior quarterback Bill Doud to carry the Panthers' split-T formation. Doud has displayed potential in workouts this week but the Panther signal caller didn't see action last year. Paul Collett and Larry Mast are the other two quarterback candidates.

Returning lettermen include:

BOB IRVING

halfbacks Harold Oldham, 155 and Jerry Williams, 160; fullback Dick Maki, who is the team's workhorse in blocking assignments; and ends Dick Crabtree and Eddie Hook, both 170 pounds.

Gilbert McShee, 205, should give the Panthers depth at fullback but Irving mentioned that McShee lacks experience. He will also double at defensive tackle.

Irving will be assisted by John Morris, line coach; Ransom Weber, and Norm Sullivan, "B" squad; Gene Moses and Dave Crabtree, 9th grade squad.

Government positions pay as high as $446.00 a month to start. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of owned schools of its kind and is the largest and oldest privately not connected with the Government.

why there are so many Scouts in the Rockies?

Here are six important reasons

1. Extra Power . . . The compact 93 h.p. COMMANCHE® engine works with all-wheel-drive to keep loads moving, even in roughest country.
2. Long Range . . . An optional extra 11 gal. fuel tank increases fuel storage capacity to 22 gals. This extra capcity plus 4-cylinder engine economy gives it long range, with fewer refill stops.
3. More Loadspace . . . 34.5 cu. ft.—that's almost double the loadspace offered in other 1/4 ton models. Wide Door Opening . . . Wide 39-inch door openings make it easy to get in and out.
4. More Seating Capacity . . . The standard seat runs full width, measures 55 inches across. Bucket seats and rear seat are optional.
5. International builds the SCOUT to meet Government specifications for commercial vehicles.
6. Optional over-drive which adds six forward speeds and two reverse to the Scout's power range giving startling performance and easy shifting up or down on the go, in any gear, at any speed.

Rookie Moves FB Giants to Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Rookie quarterback Gary Wood took over for the injured Y.A. Tittle, threw three touchdown passes and led the New York Giants to a 28-17 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Saturday in a National Football League exhibition game.

Tittle suffered a slightly twisted left knee early in the second period. Wood played the rest of the game.

Both the Giants and Eagles have 1-3 exhibition records.

Wood, considered small for an NFL quartbacker at 5-foot-11 and 188 pounds, connected for two touchdowns within a minute and 19 seconds late in the first half as the Giants overcame a 10-7 Eagle lead.

The first TD pass covered 55 yards to Del Shofner. The veteran end caught it ahead of Irv Cross at the Eagle 20 and sidestepped Don Burroughs at the 10.

On Philadelphia's first play from scrimmage after the kickoff, Giant linebacker Lou Slaby intercepted a Norm Snead pass and returned it 22 yards to the Eagle 14.

Senators Win Tilt On Bunt

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Don Lock was squeezed home with the winning run on Don Zimmer's bunt in the 10th inning, giving Washington a 5-4 triumph over Minnesota Saturday.

Minnesota tied it 4-4 on an unearned run in the seventh. Bernie Allen walked, was sacrificed to second and moved to third on Zimmer's bobble of Rich Rollins' slow-hit grounder. Tonny Oliva then singled Allen home.

Top Turnout Expected for Men's Meet

A record field is expected for the third Annual Men's Invitational Golf Tournament, The Camel Drivers, at the Kissing Camels Golf Club in Colorado Springs.

The tournament this year will be play for three days and will be a 54-hole event. The practice round for all entrants will be on Monday, August 31 followed by tournament play Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Tuesday's play will be Better Ball of Partners at Handicap.

Wednesdays play will be Additive Scores of Partners-less Full Total Handicaps and the final day of play will be Alternate Shots all the way from Tee through Green, Better Ball of Partners, less one-half combined Handicap.

This unique three day event has become one of the popular area tournaments in its short three year history and approximately 72 teams from throughout the United States are entered.

Last years Low Net Winners, the Thompson brothers from Englewood are again entered, but not as a team, so there will be no defending Low Net Team. Last years Low Gross Winners, Frank Chilson and Major General James Wilson are again entered as a team and will be expecting competition from such teams as Howard Creel and Dr. James Johnson of Colorado Springs and Jim English and J. N. Thompson of Englewood, Colorado.

The tournament will be climaxed by an Awards Dinner and Cocktail Party at the Garden of the Gods Club Thursday, Sept. 3.

Nichols Moves Into Carling Lead

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—PGA champion Bobby Nichols outshot a charging Arnold Palmer in a head-to-head birdie duel Saturday with a blistering 66 and forged into a two-stroke lead through the third round of the $200,000 Carling World Golf Championship.

While rookie George Archer, leader through the first two days, collapsed in a wave of bogeys, Nichols zoomed into the lead for the $35,000 first prize with a 54-hole score of 206, with Palmer breathing hard on his sun-tanned neck at 208.

They were the only players still under par after three days of wrestling with the Oakland hills course, a giant, 6,907-yard monster with a par 70.

It appeared to be a two-man struggle between these two powerful young hitters going into Sunday's climactic 18 holes.

More than a half-dozen others in the field of 78 survivors of the classy international original cast of 155 were in a position to take over should either of the front runners falter.

Closest to the two leaders was Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., a pro of less than six months, who fired a 70 in the threesome with Nichols and Palmer for 210.

Gary Player of South Africa was another shot back at 211, firing a brilliant 67 despite unsettling news that his 3-year-old son Mark, was seriously ill in Nassau.

Peter Butler, the Englishman who starred in soccer and cricket before taking up golf, had a chance to match Player but he bogied the final hole for a 212, where he was tied with Don January, who shot a 68.

Four players were knotted at 213. They were Bill Casper, who shot a 69 but was penalized two strokes for a 71 because his caddy inadvertently raked over his own footprints in a trap on the second hole; Terry Dill, of Muleshoe, Tex., 68; British Open champion Tony Lema, 70, and Pete Brown of Los Angeles, one of the Negro players, who rallied with a fine 69.

Archer, who unleashed a record 65 on the first day and held his lead with a 74 Friday, folded quickly on the third round, taking four 5s on the first five holes and staggered in with a 76 for 215.

CHEAP, BUT GOOD — Bobby Nichols saluted his bargain basement $4.95 putter after it helped him to the third-round lead Saturday in the Carling World Golf Championship at Birmingham, Mich. Nichols fired a 54-hole total of 206, two strokes in front of Arnold Palmer. Nichols sank a 40-foot putt on the fourth hole to help his lead

Eleventh-Inning Homer Gives Indians Eighth Win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fred Whitfield's towering leadoff homer in the 11th inning lifted Cleveland to their eighth straight triumph, 4-3 over Kansas City Saturday.

Whitfield hit the homer, his eighth, off reliever Wes Stock, who suffered his second setback in nine decisions. The hit sailed an estimated 450 feet over both fences in right field.

It marked the sixth time in the history of Kansas City's Municipal Stadium that a ball cleared the back wall in right.

The A's had tied the score in the sixth, scoring a run without a hit. Walks to Rocky Colavito, Bill Bryan and Wayne Causey plus a sacrifice fly by Ed Charles got the run across.

The A's scored their first two runs in the second inning when Colavito singled and Ken Harrelson homered.

Burton Lifts Chicago, 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Ellis Burton, who came up from the minors shortly before the game, singled across the winning run in the 10th inning, lifting the Chicago Cubs to a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

Burton's single to right-center field off Galen Cisco knocked in Jimmy Stewart, who had doubled with one out.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Interference by a fan cost Jim Ray Hart of the San Francisco Giants a possible extra base hit in the game with the Milwaukee Braves Saturday.

Umpire Doug Harvey, who had run into the outfield fro his position at second, called Hart out.

Harvey invoked rule 3.16 which states in part, ". . . If spectator interference clearly prevents a fielder from catching a fly ball, the umpire shall declare the batter out.'

Amateurs Qualify 2 Days For National Tournament

NEW YORK (AP) — Five members of last year's Walker Cup golf team, a couple of ex-champions and a handful of players who have earned international fame in the past are among more than 1,600 who will be shooting for places in the 1964 National Amateur Golf Championship Monday and Tuesday.

On the sidelines during this phase of the competition will be the 1963 champion, Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md., with the uncomfortable knowledge that he'll have to undergo a similar test before playing his first match in defense of the title.

Under the new format adopted by the United States Golf Association this year, Beman is the only player exempt from sectional qualifying The other 1,605 who entered play 36 holes and the successful 149 will join Beman in another 36-hole qualifying test at the tournament site, Cleveland's Canterbury club, Sept. 14 and 15. This will whittle the field down to 64 for match play.

In the past few years so many promising golfers have turned pro before reaching the top in amateur play that there isn't a standout favorite among the 1,600. The best-known players mostly are in their 40s or older and the bright youngsters look frightfully young and inexperienced.

The Walker Cuppers required no qualify include Billy Joe Patton and Charley Smith, both of whom will play Tuesday at Pinehurst, N. C.; Downing Gray, runner-up in the 1962 amateur; Bob Gardner and Dick Davies.

Patton and Beman also were members of the 1962 World Cup team. One of the rewards at Canterbury will be membership in the four-man 1964 World Cup team which will play for the Eisenhower Trophy at Rome Oct. 7-10.

The former champions are Charlie Coe, winner in 1949 and 1958, and Dick Chapman, who won in 1940. Others who hve achieved above average golf reputations include Bill Campbell, former Walker Cup team captain; Bill Hyndman, Dr. Ed Updegraff, Dale Morey, current Southern and North and South titleholder; Charles Harrison, Dave Smith, Ward Wettlaufer and Dic Yost.

Among the best of the younger players are Bill McDonald of Topeka, Kans., tiny, 20-year-old winner of this year's public links title, and John Miller of San Francisco, the national junior champion.

Other include Paul Desjardins of Miami, Mike Malarkey of Signal Mountain, Tenn., Jay Sigel of Philadelphia, Jimmy Jewell of Indiana University and three youngsters whose names should be recognized by pro golf followers, Doug Ford Jr., Craig Harmon and Johnny Farrell Jr.

Sectional qualifying rounds will be played Monday at Buffalo, N.Y., Indianapolis, Milwaukee and Seattle. Those at Chicago and Phoenix, Aris., will be spread over two days.

The Tuesday qualifying locations are Birmingham, Ala., Los Angeles, San Francisco, Denver, Wilmington, Del., Washington, D.C., Miami, Atlanta, Sea Island, Ga., Honolulu, Des Moines, New Orleans, Fitchburg, Mass., Detroit, Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, Butte, Mont., Lincoln, Neb., Albuquerque, N.M., Jericho and White Plains, NY., Pinehurst, N.C., Cincinnati, Cleveland, Tulsa, Okla., Portland, Ore., Pittsburgh, Memphis, Dallas, Houston, Midland, Tex., Richmond, Va., and Huntington, W.Va.

Cleveland, the host district for the tournament, has the largest entry total and the largest number of qualifiers, 114 and 10. Other big districts are New York, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis and Wilmington.

INTERCEPTION OF TITTLE PASS — Don Burroughs of the Philadelphia Eagles picked off a Y. A. Tittle pass intended for New York Giants end Del Shofner (dark jersey) in the second quarter of Saturday's NFL exhibition match at Princeton, N.J. An unidentified Eagle player came up to help on the play. Tittle was injured during the play. The Giants won, 28-17, for their first exhibition victory of the year.

Olson, Nearly Over Hill, Wants Light Heavy Fight

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Carl (Bobo) Olson knows he can't go on boxing forever, yet before he finally hangs up his gloves he wants to fight for the light heavyweight championship.

Chances of getting that wish looked good today for the 36-year-old former middleweight champion whose career seemed washed up eight years ago when his bid to regain the 160-pound title ended in a knockout at the hands of Sugar Ray Robinson.

Before a nationwide television audience Friday night, Bobo convincingly outpointed 24-year-old Wayne Thornton of Fresno, Calif., who had been ranked No. 2 contender by the World Boxing Association.

Olson, 177½, of San Francisco, beat his 178-pound foe to the punch repeatedly in the 10-rounder at Kezar Pavilion and even an eye cut suffered in the fourth round failed to hamper old Bobo.

Referee Frankie Carter scored the fight 6-3 and so did Jack Downey under California's system of awarding the winner of each round from one to five points. Judge Elmer Costa had 5-4 and The Associated Press 6-2.

Thornton tried to do more boxing than he did on March 27 when Olson beat him the first time they met. It didn't work.

"I don't know what happened to me," the Irishman observed quietly. "I can beat everyone else, but I can't beat him. I don't know what Olson's got . . . I wish I knew.

Olson knows he'll have to get his title shot soon. He says, "I begin to feel like an old man after fighting like this. Thornton's strong and he hits harder than it looks. Here am I, a guy with nine kids — I can't go on fighting forever."

Bettor Gets Lots Of Twin Quin Loot

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) A lone bettor won $46,814.60 in the twin-double Saturday at Timonium Race track — the largest payoff in Maryland racing history.

Bob Sloan, the mutuels manager, said the winner was from a small town between Baltimore and Washington.

"He wants no publicity," Sloan said. "We can't reveal his name. His neighbors would hound him to death."

The winner accepted his payoff in $100 bills after rejecting at least three "ten per centers" — track hangers-on who offer to accept responsibility for part of the winning ticket on Internal Revenue Service tax forms in exchange for 10 per cent of the payoff.

Homer Wins It For Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Deron Johnson's seventh inning homer snapped a 7-7 tie, giving Cincinnati an 8-7 victory over Houston Saturday and a sweep of a doubleheader. The Reds won the opener 2-1 on Steve Boros' run-producing single in the 11th inning.

The colts had tied the nightcap with three runs in their half of the seventh Walt Bond doubled home one run, Bob Aspromonte singled in another and Bond scored on a grounder.

Johnson then came up with two out in the seventh and slammed his 19th homer over the center field wall.

The Reds had built an early 7-1 lead with Frank Robinson tripling home two runs in a four-run third inning rally and driving in another run with a single in a three-run fifth. Gordy Coleman slugged a run-scoring triple for the Reds in the fifth.

The Reds scored the decisive run in the 11th inning of the opener after Robinson opened the inning with a double and took third on a wild pitch. A pair of walks preceeded Boros' game-winning hit.

Boros also drove in Cincinnati's first run in the second inning with a single after Leo Cardenas doubled.

The Colts tied the score in the third on singles by Al Spangler, Nellie Fox and Bond.

The sweep moved the second-place Reds to within six games of National League leading Philadelphia.

Fog, No Wind Force Stoppage Of Cup Trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A heavy fog and lack of wind forced cancellation Saturday of trial races both for candidates for challenger and defender of the America's Cup.

Neither the New York Yacht Club's selection committee nor that of the Royal Thames Yacht Club has come to a decision yet on which of the four yachts remaining in the two trial competitions will race for the famed trophy next month.

The defender role lies between Constellation and American Eagle. Most observers belived the committee will choose Constellation, winner of five in a row over American Eagle.

The challenger will be either Sovereign or Kurrewa V, with Sovereign apparently in the lead with her 3-0 record over the latter.

Californians Nab Olympic Swim Trials in New York

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Californians Gary Ilman, Sharon Stouder and Dick Roth won the first three finals in the U.S. Olympic swimming trials Saturday but Mike Austin, another Californian, turned in the most spectacular performance of them all.

Austin, 21-year-old Yale graduate from Los Altos, earned a trip to Tokyo by taking fourth place in the men's 100-meter freestyle final, won by the husky Ilman.

It was Austin's time in the qualifying heats that raised the hopes of the coaches of the talent-deep American squad.

The 6-foot-2, 182-pounder was clocked in 53.7 in his heat, the fastest time by anyone this year and one-tenth of a second slower than the long standing world mark of 53.6 set up by Brazil's Manuel Dos Santos of Brazil in a salt water pool in Rio de Janeiro Sept. 20, 1961.

It eclipsed the listed American mark of 54 flat by Steve Clark and Dick McDonough and tied by Don Schollander.

Ilman, a 20-year-old husky from San Jose, Calif., closed with a burst of power to win the 100 final in 53.8 by a shade over Schollander, his 18-year-old teammate on the Santa Clara S.C. squad.

Schollander, who recently swam the fastest 200 and 400 meters ever, was third in 53.9. Clark, a Yale senior from Los Altos, gained the fourth Olympic berth with his time of 54.4.

Miss Stouder and Roth bettered listed American records in the women's 100-meter freestyle and men's 400-meter individual medley, but both have faster times to their credit.

The 15-year-old blonde from the City of Commerce S.C. of California barely staved off a challenge by Kathy Ellis and Jeanne Ballock. Miss Stouder won by touch in 1:00.5 with Miss Ellis, of Indianapolis, and Miss Hallock, also of City of Commerce, second and third in identical times of 1:00.6.

The time bettered the listed American standard of 1:01.3 by Chris Von Saltza four years ago but was one-tenth of a second slower than Miss Stouder's pending American record.

The three girls gained berths on the Tokyo team.

Roth, of the Santa Clara squad; Roy Saari, of El Segundo, Calif., and Carl Robie of the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia finished one-two-three in the medley, gaining the three places of the Olympic team.

The tall, 17-year-old Roth, who has a pending world record of 4:48.6, came from behind on the final freestyle leg and won by about a yard over Saari in 4:50.6. Saari was timed in 4:51.5 and Robie in 4:51.9.

The winning time bettered the listed U.S. record of 4:51.0 set by Ted Stickles of Indianapolis, who was fifth Saturday in 4:53.7.

The Sunday program calls for heats and finals in the men's 200-meter breaststroke and 400-meter freestyle and the women's 400-meter individual medley.

Donna de Varona of Santa Clara, shut out in the 100 Saturday, was expected to clinch her Olympic berth in the medley. She holds the world record.

Aussies Seeded First in Federation Cup Tourney

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The United States is the defending champion but Australia's powerful squad is first-seeded in the women's world tennis team championship starting Wednesday.

Play for the Federation Cup, called the women's Davis Cup, will continue through Saturday at the Germantown Cricket Club.

Defending for the United States will be Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., Nancy Richey of Dallas and former Wimbledon champion Karen Hantze Susman of San Antonio, Tex.

Miss Moffitt and Miss Richey are to play the first two singles, and Miss Moffitt is expected to team with Mrs. Susman in doubles.

The United States is seeded second, Britain third and Germany fourth.

America's team has a bye through the first round and will open play in the second round against Ireland, led by Geraldine Houlihan.

Australia, which lost in last year's inaugural competition in an upset to the United States, has Margaret Smith and Lesley Turner returning for another try at the cup, along with Robyn Ebbern. Miss Smith has won all the major women's tennis championships — Wimbledon, U.S., Australian, French and Italian.

Australia is slated to meet Denmark in its first match, while Britain opposes Norway, Germany faces Italy, Canada takes on Sweden and Argentina meets Belgium.

Also in the first round, France is pitted against Switzerland, Czechoslovakia against Mexico and South Africa against Japan.

Ralston Injured In Meet

SOUTHAMPTON,, N. Y. (AP) — Dennis Ralston, the United States' second ranked player and a key factor in next month's Davis Cup Challenge Round, reinjured his tender right ankle and lost to Gene Scott in the Meadow Club international tennis tournament Saturday.

Ralston, from Bakersfield, Calif., injured the ankle in a fall during the third set of his 6-4, 8-10, 9-7, 6-3,. loss to Scott, from St. James, N.Y. He was in obvious pain and moved very little in the final set.

Ralston defaulted to Chuck McKinley of San Antonio in the finals of the Newport Casino tournament two weeks ago after injuring the ankle in the semifinals.

He teamed with McKinley to win the national doubles at Brookline, Mass., last week and had announced he planned to go all out Saturday in a test of the ankle.

He and McKinley are the chief U.S. hopes in defense of the Davis Cup in Cleveland next month.

Earlier, sixth-seeded Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico reached the final round of the Meadow Club tourney with a 6-4, 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Bill Lenoir of Tucson, Ariz.

Roger Mauro Rambler Gains Softball Finals

Roger Mauro Rambler battled its way into the finals of the Colorado State Open Softball tournament Saturday night by defeating Spencer's of Englewood, 8-1, in the semifinals at Memorial Park.

The finalist will play the winner of the losers bracket final game tonight. Spencer's of Englewood will play one of four teams — Bernardo's, Lorig's, Navajo Hogan or Bollock Mortuary.

Bernard's and Lorig's play 10 a.m. today on field No. 3. Navajo Hogan and Bollock's are scheduled for 10 a.m. on No. 4. The winners will then meet at 2 p.m. to decide who plays Spencer's of Englewood at 4:30 p.m.

The winner of the 4:30 p.m. game plays Roger Mauro at 7:30 p.m. for the state championship. If a second game is necessary in the double elimination tournament, it will start right after the first game.

Other Saturday scores were Bollock 5, Spencer's of Littleton 1; Spencer's of Englewood 7, Navajo Hogan 0; Lorig's 15, Budweiser 5; Roger Mauro 10, Budweiser 0; Spencer's of Englewood 5, Howard Sporting Goods 1; Lorig's 3, D&D Cleaners 2; Bernardo's 14, Bethune Merchants 0; Howard Sporting Goods 7, Bethune Merchants 4; Roger Mauro 4, Bernardo's 0; Bollock Mortuary 26, Howard Sporting Goods 9.

Dallas Fans Stay Away in Droves

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas of the Pacific Coast League hit rock bottom in attendance Saturday when only 82 fans — 77 of them paid — turned out to see the Rangers drop their third game in a row to Indianapolis 9-7.

The heat and the Dallas record — 51 victories against 88 defeats and last place in the Eastern Division — combined to cut the crowd from its usual 350 or 400. There were only 384 Friday night when Dallas dropped a doubleheader to Indianapolis.

Yanks Sweep Pair From Red Sox

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Pepitone drove in seven runs with two homers in the first game and added a homer in the nightcap as the New York Yankees swept Boston 10-2 and 6-1 in a twi-night doubleheader Saturday.

Pepitone slammed his second career grand slam off starter Earl Wilson in the first inning of the first game and came back with a three-run blast off Pete Charton in the eighth.

Mickey Mantle smashed his 28th homer, a two-run blast, in the sixth inning of the opener. He also achieved a dubious distinction when he struck out in the third inning of the second game. The strikeout was the 1,330th of Mantle's career, tying Babe Ruth's major league record for a lifetime.

Maris singled prior to each of the three first-game homers. In the nightcap, he singled across a run in the fifth and knocked in two more with a single in the seventh in support of Whitey Ford's 14th victory against five defeats.

Ford pitched the first seven innings, scattering eight hits while blanking the Red Sox. Ralph Terry finished up but lost the shutout in the eighth on Carl Yastrzemski's single, Mantle's bobble and Dick Stuart's third hit, a double.

Jim Bouton, 15-11, gave up only four hits in the opener, one of them Yastrzemski's two-run homer in the seventh. Stuart got the first hit off Bouton, a leadoff double in the fifth.

Bouton, in an unusual performance, didn't strike out anyone in going the distance. He didn't walk anyone, either.

Sacrifice By Clinton Ends Streak

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lou Clinton's sacrifice climaxed a two-run rally in the seventh inning Saturday night as the Los Angeles Angels snapped Detroit's six-game winning streak, 3-2.

Van Cliburn at Broadmoor Tonight Only at 8:30

Van Cliburn, one of those rare musical geniuses who emerage perhaps once in a generation to stand head and shoulders above all other artists, will present one of his eventful piano concerts at the Broadmoor International Theatre tonight only at 8:30.

This superb keyboard artist has received all the accolades critics in this country and abroad can bestow. As the whole world knows, Van Cliburn returned from Moscow in 1958 as winner of the Tchaikowsky Competition and a hero to Americans. Prior to this he had won the Levintritt and other distinguished awards at home and was highly regarded by the American music world. The Russian award, however, catapulted him to international fame.

Reviewers have written: "He plays in the grand manner! Big, surging warmth, enkindling imagination, ranging technique and cresting wealth of tone!" "His big hands seem to encompass the entire keyboard and effortlessly shake out notes . . . an extremely gifted pianist."

Tickets for the concert may be obtained at the Broadmoor International Theatre boxoffic 634-7711 or 634-2422, Colorado Springs.

I

Intermezzi, Opus 118, Nos. 1 and 2 .... Johannes Brahms
Ballade in G Minor, Opus 118, No. 5 .... Johannes Brahms
Sonata in F Minor, Opus 57 (Appassionata)

MOVIE EXECUTIVE DIES

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — H. O. Davis, 87, movie executive, automobile builder and one-time journalist, died Friday. Davis, who retired in 1939, was editor of the Ladies Home Journal in the 1920s. He once built automobiles for R. W. Sears, one of the founders of Sears, Roebuck & Co. Later he was general manager of Universal Pictures and Triangle Studios, which became Metro-Goldwyn- Mayer.

Bea Vera Opens At Broadmoor Monday Night

Bea Vera and her Men of Music will open an engagement in the Broadmoor Tavern Monday night. Miss Vera directs her outstanding quartet through musical arrangements designed to please all ages.

Miss Vera and her orchestra are a top name band, well known in exclusive clubs and smart hotels throughout the country where they are booked for frequent repeat engagements.

This is the first time Broadmoor patrons have had an opportunity to hear this quartet of expert entertainers. Bea Vera is at the piano and her Men of Music make it with tenor sax, clarinet, accordion and drums. Three fine solo voices enhance the imaginative musical arrangements and add to listening enjoyment.

The group plays daily for luncheon and nightly except Sunday for dinner and dancing in The Tavern.

TUNNEL STUDIED

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Italian engineers are studying plans for a new automobile tunnel through the Alps under the Brenner Pass. Cost for the 10-mile-long project was estimated at $48 million.

Variety of Stamps Offered for Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department will give Christmas mailers this year a choice of four red and green 5-cent postage stamps. It is the first time in philatelic history that a four-in-one issue had been offered the public, the department added.

A 100-stamp sheet, the department said, will contain 25 stamps of each design — a sprig of holly, mistletoe, pine cones and poinsetta.

SCHOOL REQUIREMENT LOWERED

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—High school graduates can now apply for jobs as state game wardens. Two years of college formerly was a requirement.

The Montana Fish and Game Commission approved the change after Orville Lewis, chief of law enforcement for the Fish and Game Department, cited a study of prospective wardens.

"The extra two years of schooling now required add little to a man's value as a warden," Lewis said.

Spinning Wheel Adds to Legend

OSLO, Norway (AP(— A Norwegian archeologist says a tiny spinning wheel dicovered in Newfoundland is proof that Norse explorer Leif Ericson discovered America five centuries before Columbus.

The archeologist, Anne-Stine Ingstad, dug up the wheel Aug. 14. The wheel, about an inch wide, and made of soapstone, arrived here this week in a cigarette box.

Men at Carson Urged to Pick Night Courses

The men of Ft. Carson are urged to give serious consideration now to selection of any night college courses they choose to take during the coming semester.

Director James Tolstrup of the Education Center reports two college programs available in Colorado Springs. For either college the Army will pay three-fourths of the tuition costs for eligible men.

University of Colorado classes are held in the Jackson House, 1105 N. Nevada Ave. Classes begin Sept. 14 but Carson men must apply before Sept. 4 to qualify for the 75 percent tuition assistance.

Southern Colorado State College fall quarter courses are taught in St. Mary's High School 27 W. Bijou St. starting Sept. 21. Deadline for military application is Sept. 16.

Complete details are available at the Education Center, Blgd. 2217, where students must enroll to benefit from the tuition assistance. Those who have completed high school or have passed the high school general education development test are eligible, as are college graduates.

Those interested in the mathematics, English or psychology courses should come early to take required placement tests, Tolstrup stated.

Courses offered through the University of Colorado include anthropology, economics, English language and literature, fine arts, physical science, geology, history, mathematics, philosophy, physics political science, psychology, sociology accounting, business, finance, marketing, management, statistics, education, computers and programming, music, German, Italian, Spanish and Russian.

Southern Colorado State College offers aircraft power plants biology, business, cinemotography, economics, education, English, history, mathematics, music, political science, psychology, sociology and speech.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

BILLY, 10, HAS BIG CAREER BEHIND, AHEAD OF HIM

HOLLYWOOD — A Hollywood bachelor who invests his money wisely has the jump on playboys who go in for wacky cars, weird blondes and the Watusi. I know an actor who's worked for four years, owns a 35-car trailer park in Oxnard, has his own boat, two riding horses and is in blue prints for his first apartment — all on movie sal-

Billy Mumy is 10 now; he's the red-haired freckle-faced genius of "Dear Brigitte" (formerly called "Erasmus with Freckles"), and co-star billing with Jimmy Stewart. As Erasmus an 8-year-old, with a crush on Bardot, he has an ideal showcase for the talents that made him rich. He's done over 40 TV shows and a half a dozen films, could be working 365 days a year if his parents allowed it. He's signed to play Frank Sinatra's son in "Community Property," has an Ozzie and Harriet, and a Freedom of the Press lined up for the coming season, and turned down half a dozen offers while making the film. Billy had begun his vacation when he was paged for a Dr. Kildare segment. His mother turned it down, said: "Billy must have his vacation and I'm moving into a new house; you'd have to give him triple salary and wait three weeks from next Wednesday to get him." They said: "Okay, it's a deal!"

As a free lance Billy doesn't come under the Jackie Coogan law, which applies only to kids under studio contract, so his earnings aren't controlled in court. But he's fortunate: his parents are well off, and do not need any part of his earnings, which are all invested for him. His father, Charles Mumy, owns a cattle ranch at Bishop, Calif. His mother, the former Muriel Guild, was a secretary at 20th Century-Fox for 11 years, and never planned to be a movie mother. But when Billy was three he decided to become an actor. "I was hurt in a fall and had to stay in bed for a while, and used to watch a TV show with nothing but kids. I wanted to be in it, and they said if I did everything the doctor told me to do, I could. But I couldn't get into the show then because all the players had to be over four. I went back right after my fourth birthday and got a job."

He's slim, lightning quick and very intense. He attracted Gloria Stewart's attention when he refused to be promoted out of her Sunday school class for three years and finally said he'd quit if they didn't let him stay. She suggested him for Erasmus, the kid genius with a brain for figures faster than a computer. When Jimmy Stewart and Henry Koster saw him they recognized him as the boy in Disney's "Wonderful World of Color." He had a location trip to Paris where he made scenes with Brigitte Bardot. "She's real nice, real neat," was his verdict, "but Shirley Jones is still my favorite." He was recognized in Paris sidewalk cafes and signed autographs, and in Boston between planes when he ordered a glass of milk he had to sign his name ten times while he drank it.

He memorizes at one reading, can recall dialogue he did a month earlier. In private life Billy Mumy is treasurer of the Canfield elementary school and a cub scout. He adores the Beatles and Elvis Presley, has no use for girl singers.

PUBLISHER DIES

MIAMI (AP) — Lee Olwell, 86, publisher of the old New York Evening Journal in the 1930s, died Friday in the Miami Heart Institute. A native of Raymond, Wis., he recently had divided his time between residences in Miami and New York City. Olwell began his newspaper career on the Chicago Inter-Ocean in 1905 and later worked in advertising, public relations and sales.

MARY This is it. After tomorrow we're through. There will be no more beautious buffet table in the Broadmoor Main Dining Room for lunch. So I'll call you and partake in the Penrose Room or the Tavern, or the Golden Bee. Of course, you'll have to get a telephone and stop this silly newspaper correspondence. John. adv.

BONN — The production of aluminum cable is expected to increase in Germany.

NEW DELHI — The Indian government will establish several new cement factories.

Small Quake Marks Denver Seismograph

DENVER (UPI) —A small earthquake centered in the Derby area just northeast of Denver was recorded at 7:19 a.m. Thursday.

Dr. Jerry Eaton of the US. Geological Survey estimated its strength at a little higher than 2 on the Richter scale. A reading of 1.5 was reported by another seismologist, the Rev. Joseph V. Downey of Regis College.

CU Graduates Planning South American Tour

BOULDER—Because of a road map of South American and a hobby of monitoring radio broadcasts, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Godwin of Boulder, who were graduated from the University of Colorado Saturday, are planning an eight-month jeep tour of South America, beginning Sept. 15.

Godwin, who calls the plan an adventure-culture trip, said one evening he and his wife were looking at a map of South America and were surprised to find roads marked on it that went all around the continent.

"We didn't even know there were roads down there," he said, "but since there are, we want to find out where they go."

Godwin says they plan to visit all countries in South America ercept the Guianas and the Falkland Islands. However, they are particularly interested in Chile because they are corresponding with 15 or 20 people there.

Godwin contacted these people by monitoring radio broadcasts and then writing to the station managers in Chile, Argentina and Brazil.

In Chile, the manager broadcasted Godwin's name and address, and said he wanted to correspond with people. There were several responses. Godwin is also corresponding with some people in Argentina and one man in Brazil.

The language will be no problem to the Godwins—Larry's major at CU was Spanish, and his wife, Barbara, whose major was psychology, is studying Spanish. However, they are preparing for the Portuguese speaking Brazilians by taking along a Portuguese grammar book.

The road around South America is complete all the way except between Panama and Columbia, where the Godwins will take a ship. The Godwins are preparing for emergencies by taking along $60 worth of spare parts for their jeep.

"We are not the type for camping out," Godwin said, "so we plan to stay at local inns and hotels and eat in local restaurants and cafes."

When the trip is completed, they will have traveled 28,884 miles. They will have visited all the major cities in South America; stopped at Macu Picchu, the ancient Inca city in the high Andes; been through Central America; and covered the central and western parts of Mexico.

When they return to the United States, the Godwins plan to get their master's degrees. He plans to teach Spanish on the university level, and she wants to go into counseling.

JOB ALLERGY

ST. LYTHAM, England (UPI) —Bernard Unsworth, 46, said Friday he is quitting his bakery job after 25 years because he has developed an allergy to flour which makes him cry.

SUGGESTION PAYS OFF — George A. Menzer, 901 E. Fillmore St., receives a cash award and congratulations from Maj. Gen. D. B. Johnson, deputy commanding general, at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs. The award was given for a work simplification suggestion submitted by Menzer in 1963, while he was a member of the Army on duty with the Personnel Management Division of the Adjutant General Section. The suggestion was to use existing mechanical means to replace manual methods in the preparation and compiling of certain personnel reports, thereby improving the accuracy and speed of personnel accounting procedures. The idea was adopted and put to use throughout the command. Menzer, a native of Colorado Springs, was discharged from the Army in June of this year. He is a graduate of Colorado Springs (now Palmer) High School and attended Colorado College for two years. He is presently employed by Turkey Creek ranch. (U.S. Army Photo.)

Southern States Opening Previously White Schools

ATLANTA (AP) — Southern states, applying their interpretation of the Supreme Court's deliberate speed rate for school integration, are opening additional prevously white school to Negroes.

Registration of Negroes for the first time proceeded in a number of cities and counties during the week. In most instances the change is the result of court action. Negroes contend the rate still amounts to only token integration.

Threatened withdrawal of federal funds - a new lever brought into play by the Civil Rights Act, could be responsible for integration gains in some areas. Federal authorities indicated recently that voluntary compliance would be sought before federal assistance funds are cut.

In Mississippi, rural Leake County opened its white school doors to Negro first graders Friday for the first time but none appeared. The county, along with Biloxi and Jackson are under court orders to desegregate first grades under a stairstep plan.

Biloxi registered 17 Negroes at white schools and Jackson 43.

In Montgomery, Ala., cradle of the Confederacy where the modern Negro revolution began, the board of education, acting on a court order, assigned Negroes to white schools. Twenty-nine had applied for transfer but the board, acting under the Alabama placement Law, admitted only eight.

Elsewhere in Alabama, schools will be desegregated in Birmingham, Mobile, Huntsville and Gadsden and in the counties of Mobile, Madison and Macon.

Atlanta, where a grade-a-year plan was started in 1961, completes integration of high schools this year. White schools admitted 144 Negroes last year and more than 800 are expected to be in the enrollment of 109,000 for the September term.

A federal court recently turned down a Negro plea for desegregation of all Atlanta schools immediately. Failure of Negroes to gain acceptance at an elementary school in Atlanta, Friday is expected to bring new court action.

Tennessee began desegregating schools as far back as 1957 and several cities and counties are integrating classes for the first time this year. J. Howard Warf, education commissioner, recently notified the 153 school systems they would lose all federal funds if racial barriers are not dropped.

In Louisiana, desegregation reaches the fourth grade in New Orleans this fall and adds kindergartens. Baton Rouge integrates the 11th grade. A rural Greensburg high school enrolled three Negroes in the 12th grade last week.

Men of 94th Ordinance Live With Deadly Danger

A tall metal fence surrounds a Ft. Carson building that houses nine men. Teams of two or three of these nine men leave the building about 300 times each year in search of danger.

The eight enlisted men and one officer who answer the call of danger 24 hours each day of the year make up Ft. Carson's 94th Ordnance Detachment—where the men cannot afford to be careless.

The detachment is capable of detecting, identifying, rendering safe, recovering, evaluating and disposing of unexploded items. These include guided missiles, special weapons and any material that may be rendered unsafe through damage or deterioration.

The 94th Ordnance has a joint responsibility with 41st Ordnance Detachment to furnish technical assistance of non-military explosive ordnance disposal agents within its area of responsibility. This includes the states of Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota west of the Missouri River.

Activated only four years ago at Twin Cities Arsenal, Minn., the unit was transferred to Ft. Carson in October 1961 and attached to Special Troops. However, operational control is at Fifth Army Headquarters, Chicago.

Since being reactivated, 94th Ordnance achieved top honors as the best Explosive Ordnance Detachment in Fifth Army in 1963. In 1961, the unit received the rating of excellent at Ft. Sheridan, and in 1962 at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., it scored a higher rating than any squad had ever earned.

"People feel explosives are not dangerous," Lt. Ronald Horner, commander, offered. "But they are extremely dangerous. There is more dynamite in the area than any other other explosive. And when it deteriorates, it is even more dangerous.

"Many people find blasting caps and are not frightened by them. But many fingers and hands have been lost because of such misconceptions."

In addition to checking Carson ranges for dud-explosives, 94th Ordnance also answers civilian calls on potentially dangerous war souvenirs and explosive materials. "Because most civilian and military people are ignorant of such dangers," said Horner, "it is important that they learn of our existence. They should know that our unit is here and can take care of such dangers"

Spec. 6 Stephan P. Shirley, a long-time ordnance man and an 11 year Army veteran, concurs with Horner, stating, "Civilians are not aware of the great hazards in explosives. We must impress upon them the dangers in this area."

Turning to his attitude toward his job, Shirley commented, "I and most of my fellow workers are happy to perform these duties. I don't think there is a man in the field who would quit if the extra pay were taken away."

Schooling and training do not remove fear of explosions, Shirley pointed out. Instead, it gives the man a respect for the field.

"Our main worry is what we can do to prevent danger and injury to others," he said. "We look out for our own safety, of course. But we feel others come first."

CLEAR CUT CASE

TOKYO (UPI) — Postal authorities admitted Friday a clear cut case of laxity in the Tokyo Shinjuku post office. They said a 20-year-old youth told the clerk he was a postman and was handed 230 registered letters for delivery. The youth stole an estimated $2.770 in cash in the letters.

HELSINKI — Finland has new anti-trust laws.

Is your company getting these
"Plus-values" from your bank?
It is if you bank with the FIRST NATIONAL

When you bank with the FIRST NATIONAL, you get a lot of extras. For example –

+ Business and personal connections in all parts of the country. Often, a letter or telephone call from a First National officer gets information or help that might otherwise take weeks.

+ Size to serve. Being the largest bank in the region, the First National has the greatest loan capacity — and if necessary can arrange for even more through connections with largest banks in the nation.

+ Fast, accurate processing of local and out-of-town items because of IBM equipment.

+ Helpful business experience and know-how. The First National understands the needs of business, large and small, from years of wide experience.

+ Plus all the dozens of benefits you get from a bank that is interested in serving business and knows how to do it.

"FIRST NATIONAL" is a good name to have on your checks, here or anywhere

MRS. RICHARD HIXON AYERS
—Nee Gay Harriett Boas

Ayers-Boas Vows Exchanged In St. Peter's, Weston, Mass.

St. Peter's Church in Weston, Mass. was the scene of the wedding of Miss Gay Harriett Boas of Colorado Springs and Weston, and Richard Hixon Ayers, also of Weston, at 4:30 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 29. The Rev. Philip Krug performed the ceremony, in a setting of summer flowers placed on the altar and at the end of the nave before the choir pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frank R. Busch of 1006 Morning Star Dr., Colorado Springs and Mr. Robert W. Boas of Westview Rd., Bedford, Mass., and 55 Arrowhead Rd., Weston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Ayers of 114 Merriam St., Weston.

Mr. Boas escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her gown of white silk satin was fashioned with circlet neckline, long tapered sleeves, princess silhouette and gently flared skirt which flowed into a chapel train. She wore a knee length ivory mantilla of Spanish heirloom lace and her flowers were gardenias and stephanotis with ivy, arranged in a cascade.

Miss Mary Anne Lorentzer of Worcester, Mass., was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Nichola Mitchell of St. Louis, Mrs. August Jaccaci of Providence, R. I., Mrs. William Wood of Chestnut Hill, Pa., Miss Laura Wolfe of Bedford, N. H., Miss Merritt Strieder, Chestnut Hill, Miss Nancy Ayers of Weston and Mrs. Erik Granholm of Chelmsford, Mass. Miss Ayers and Mrs. Granholm are sisters of the bridegroom. All of the attendants wore floor length gowns of pink parfait linen with low circlet necklines, short sleeves and empire waistlines. Their flowers were red sweetheart roses with ivy and they wore arrangements of red roses in their hair.

Peter B. von Mertens of Weston attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Paul Daly of Newton, Mass., Brendon Morrison of Weston, John Ayers, brother of the bridegroom, Erik Granholm, Chelmsford, Mass., Paul and Randolph Eddy, Chestnut Hill, and Richard Gates of Weston.

The bride's mother wore for her daughter's wedding a dress of robin's egg-blue linen, styled with boat neckline, cap sleeves and straight skirt. Her accessories matched her gown. The bridegroom's mother wore a pale blue silk sheath with three-quarter length sleeves and matching accessories.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's father, 55 Arrowhead Rd., Weston.

After a honeymoon in Bermuda, the couple will live in the Boston area. For her traveling ensemble the bride chose a floral linen dress with red piping and matching accessories, and straw-colored shoes and handbag.

The bride attended Beaver Country Day School and was graduated from the Randell School and from Bennett College. She also studied at Lausanne Switzerland, for one year, and has been teaching at the Chestnut Hill School in Massachusetts. Mr. Ayers was graduated from Weston High School and from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is studying toward his Master's degree at MIT and plans to work in the area next year.

Y-Wives Club Will Open Fall Program

The Security Y-Wives Club of the YWCA will "kick off" their new fall program with a free coffee for all ladies of the Fountain Valley area. The coffee will be held on Wednesday from 10 to 11 a.m. in the Security fire station basement.

Classes to be offered are: Knitting, Oil Painting, Bridge, Sewing and Exercise. Prospective members are invited to come for coffee and meet their neighbors and teachers. For further information, call the YWCA office, 634-5515.

Fresh, membrane-free orange sections make a delightful partner to honeydew or cantaloupe balls to serve as a dessert or a first course. If there's fruit sherbet in the freezer, you may want to add a small ball of this refreshing ice to the orange and melon serving.

MRS. JOHN EDWARD SIMPSON
—Nee Brenda Joy Beedy

Brenda Joy Beedy Becomes Bride of Capt. J. E. Simpson

The marriage of Miss Brenda Joy Beedy and Capt. John Edward Simpson was solemnized at 7 p.m., Aug. 1, in Grace Episcopal Church. The Rev. John C. Mott was assisted by the Rev. James A. Mills in officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Adelaide Beedy, of Colorado Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Simpson of North Merrick, Long Island, N.Y.

Floral arrangements of white gladioli and yellow carnations were placed on the altar, which was lighted by white tapers in candelabra. Dr. Julius Baird played nuptial selections by Bach, Handel, and Telemann. He played Henry Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary in D Major" for the processional to the chancel steps and Purcell's "Trumpet Tune in C" as the recessional selection.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her brother, Brian Hays Beedy. She chose a floor length gown of imported silk sheer which was designed with an empire waist and an A-line skirt fashioned with unpressed Italian pleats and enhanced at the bottom with a wide applique border of alencon lace and seed pearls. The bodice of the gown had a scoop neckline and long fitted sleeves which came to a point at the wrist. A French Watteau train was held by a tailored bow at the shoulder line of the gown and fell into a sweeping square line at chapel length. The train complemented the gown with its border of Alencon lace. Her triple-tiered silk illusion veil cascaded in misty layers from a white silk rose studded with seed pearls. She carried a single yellow rose on a white prayer book.

Mrs. Charles A. Flutcher, III, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Kay Magruder and Miss Paula Herwick, both of Colorado Springs. All wore white A-line, floor-length gowns of sheer organza over French taffeta with scoop necklines, elbow-length sleeves, and tailored bow at the back of the neckline with streamers that came to the hemline of the gowns. They wore matching shoes and bow hats with short veils of white illusion and carried bouquets of yellow roses.

Lt. George Handy was best man. The ushers included Lt. William Guthrie and Lt. Thomas Dwyer. All of the bridegroom's attendants were attired in full military dress uniforms.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Ft. Carson Officers' Club where the three-tier square wedding cake was cut with a military sabre. Miss Maureen Divine presided at the guest book. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Edward Touhey and Miss Bonnie Wongstrom.

The bride's traveling costume was a pale pink self-embroidered linen suit with French pink hat, shoes, and purse. She wore a white orchid corsage. After a wedding trip in northern Colorado, the couple will move to Ft. Benning, Ga., where Capt. Simpson will attend advanced Officers Training School before being stationed in Germany.

BRIDE-ELECT — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rehmann of 701 S. 25th St. announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne Rose, to John Joseph Coniff, son of Mrs. Virginia Coniff of Colorado Springs, and the late Mr. Coniff. Miss Rehmann was graduated from Palmer High School, class of '64, and Mr. Coniff, class of '61. She is employed by Furr's Cafeteria and he by Don's Cycles Shop. The wedding is planned for next July.

Ever use bacon fat instead of butter for brushing over corn on the cob? Before you try this, be sure that your family really enjoys bacon flavor when added in such a way. Make sure, too, that the bacon fat you use is white and drained from bacon that has been cooked over very low heat.

Lawrence J. Beach Weds Miss Carol Ann Myers

The marriage of Miss Carol Ann Myers and Lawrence J. Beach took place at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 23, at the First Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, the Rev. Edward J. Ness officiating.

Baskets of white gladioli with lilac carnations were placed on the altar, and nuptial selection by Lee White at the organ were "Always," "I Love You Truly," and the traditional wedding march.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Myers of 530 Winnepeg Dr. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beach of Dearborn, Mich.

Mr. Myers escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her gown of lace in a rose design was fashioned with bouffant skirt and fitted bodice, with petal neckline. The neckline and ruffles on the cathedral train were etched in seed pearls and sequins, and her butterfly veil of silk illusion was caught to a pearl-studded crown. She carried sterling silver roses surrounded by white carnations.

Brenda Dettmar as maid of honor wore a gown of lilac chiffon over taffeta, styled with flowing panels accented with a single rose. Sylvia Manzanares, Terry Whitmore, Christine Bierig and Marilyn Bishop as bridesmaids wore similar gowns in nile-green chiffon. Lisa Hedman as flower girl wore lilac chiffon and carried a basket of rose petals.

Eddie Kushka was best man, and ushers were Larry Myers, Bob Veuthey, Larry Smith and Bob Alameida. Candlelighters were David Myers and Ward Reed.

Receiving the guests at the Moors, the bride's mother wore a kelly-green chiffon dress with pink accessories. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend.

Mrs. Nita Veuthey, wearing beige silk with red accessories, was in charge of the guest register. Mrs. Hannah Whitmore, wearing white antique satin with red accessories, served the cake.

The couple lives temporarily at 826 N. Corona St., and plan a delayed honeymoon to Michigan at a later date. The bride's going-away costume was a blue ensemble with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink flowers.

MRS. WILLIAM FREDERICK SIMPSON
—Nee Carmen Hoffman Clerc

* * * * * *

William F. Simpson Weds Carmen Hoffman Clerc

Arrangements of white gladioli, carnations and mums, and many tall white tapers on the altar of the First Christian Church, formed the background for the wedding of Miss Carmen Hoffman Clerc and William Frederick Simpson at 4 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 22. The Rev. Warren Hile performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Clerc of Giesen, Germany, was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her uncle, Myron Rakestraw of York, Neb.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Simpson Jr. of 1903 El Parque, Colorado Springs.

Nuptial music included solos, "Because," and "No Other Love."

The bride's gown of shirred silk chiffon was styled with scoop neckline and puffed sleeves banded with imported Alencon lace. The bell skirt was banded in tiers of lace ruffles which terminated in a chapel train. Her flowers were white rosebuds with stephanotis on satin braid streamers. Her flyaway shoulder veil of imported illusion was held by a soft rose of material matching her gown.

Mrs. Malcolm Nicoll as matron of honor wore a beige dress with white lace bodice trimmed with tiny rosebud appliques. She wore a matching bow headdress and her flowers were blue baby carnations. Deborah West was in charge of the guest register.

Paul W. Schneidecker II was best man and ushers were Malcolm E. Nicoll, Scott H. Simpson, and Richard C. Simpson, brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception at the El Paso Club followed the ceremony.

After a honeymoon trip to Scottsdale, Ariz., the newlyweds will live in Darmstadt, Germany, and Colorado Springs. The bridegroom, a graduate of Fountain Valley School, is an Airman Second Class, in the U.S. Air Force and is stationed at Darmstadt. He is the grandson of Mrs. Frederick W. Simpson of Colorado Springs and the late Mr. Simpson, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hartner of Denver.

The bride attended schools in both Germany and the United States.

Mrs. Gilland Hostess To Kit Carson Circle

Kit Carson Circle, Ladies of Grand Army of the Republic, will have a covered dish luncheon at noon Friday in the home of Mrs. Margaret Gilland, 2105 S. Corona St.

The business meeting will follow.

If cheddar cheese is to be added to a "made" dish or to a casserole topping, it's perfectly all right to freezer-store the cheese. Freezing may make the cheddar crumbly, but for use in cooking this texture change won't matter.

Flexibility Marks New Designs for Schools

In its place stand steel and glass edifices.

Chapman, former president of the American Society of Industrial Designers, has devoted almost half of his 30-year career to the field of school interior design. His latest assignment has been the interior of the experimental school which will be featured during the New York World's Fair's second year.

In the days of the little red school house, he explained, children were taught as a group. Today, the emphasis is on the individual student.

"This new philosophy of teaching depends on its mobile and viable character," he said. "Flexibility is the theme. Everything about the school must be flexible — from the furniture, to the walls and even to the building itself.

"You can't do with with eggcrate architecture. Only with steel can you get this type of flexibility."

The designer, president of the firm of Dave Chapman, Goldsmith and Yamasaki, Inc., said the flexibility of architecture and structure is complemented by the extreme versatility of architecture and structure of school furniture.

Light, strong and movable, such furniture takes full design advantage of the variety of steels available. Chairs and desks are made of tubular steel. Cabinets are vinyl coated steel. And even the slate blackboard has been replaced by colored chalk boards made of porcelain enameled steel.

Add cooked beets to a salad at the last moment so they won't color the other vegetables or other food additions.

Presbyterian Women to Have Lunch at Church

The Women's Association for Christian Work of the First Presbyterian Church will meet for luncheon at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday in the dining room of the church. The board meeting is set for 11 a.m.

Hostess groups will be the Charity Menaul and Lucy Starling Circles.

Mrs. Jerry Donley will conduct the devotional service and Mrs. Arthur Ecklund and Mrs. Lucy Berridge will report on the Purdue convention. Mrs. James K. Johnson will speak on current events.

Special music will be furnished by Dale Soucek.

LEISURE LEGALIZED

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — A Clearwater municipal judge has struck a blow for woman suffrage.

Edmund Adolphus Gibson, who moved to Clearwater recently from Barbados, came before Judge Owen Allbritton on a charge of assaulting his wife. He said he struck her when he came home from work and found that his wife had gone fishing.

"In America," ruled Judge Allbritton, "a wife doesn't have to work if she doesn't want to. You can't charge a wife with nonsupport in this country, although maybe you could in Barbados. She has a right to sit around and do nothing all day or go fishing if she wishes."

He gave Gibson a suspended seven-day jail term.

French Haute Couture Showing to Be Staged by Broadmoor, Junior League

The Broadmoor Hotel and the Junior League of Colorado Springs will present an exclusive showing of the fabulous original designs from the French Haute Couture on Wednesday, Sept. 23. Ten top Paris models will display some 70 creations from the 1965 collection. Among the salons represented will be Pierre Cardin, Carven, Ferreras, Jacques Heim, Hermes, Jacque Griffe, Madeleine De Rauch, Maggy Rouff, Nina Ricci, Jean Patou, Philippe Venet and Guy Laroche.

Detailed plans are being made to assure that this will be one of the outstanding social events ever held in Colorado Springs. Air France will provide part of the elaborate French decor. The French government will donate four different kinds of French champagne for the champagne-tasting reception in the Pompeiian Room at 6 p.m., and at 7 a gourmet dinner, a la French cuisine, including apertif, and brandy, will be served to some 250 patrons. Tickets are $25.00 per person with reservations being handled by Mrs. Winston Whitney.

Proceeds will go to the Junior League's Community Trust Fund for support of such projects as the libraries at the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind. Braille volumes and tape recordings are presently being ordered and catalogued for the blind students and picture files and additional library books being ordered for the deaf students. This project is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Jordan Bayless.

Twice before, in 1959 and 1960, the Haute Couture has been brought to Colorado Springs by the Broadmoor Hotel and sponsored by the Junior League. Both events were heralded as "outstanding" ... "spectacular" ... "magnificent." In 1959, the show was arranged as part of the "Rush to the Rockies" Centennial Year. The fashion show was the largest ever presented by the French Haute Couture and the first time in the world that twenty Hautes Couturiers joined in showing a Paris collection. A champagne luncheon was served in the hotel ballroom followed by the show itself which took place at the Lake Terrace Pool. It is interesting to note that five years ago the Paris fashions forecast what we are wearing today; skirt lengths for sport and street wear were short — some just at the knee, others slightly below. Evening gowns were long and elaborate. Fur hats were "in."

In 1960, passports to the "Voyage a Paris" Haute Couture party entitled patrons to board the French liner, France, and sip apertifs while watching the Parisian models display sportswear and beach ensembles at poolside. The voyagers then visited the banks of the Seine (Lake Terrace) to watch a spectacular fireworks display. The main dining room was transformed into the Cafe Grande Marais, where gourmet dinner with champagne and cognac were served.

The guests packed the ballroom after dinner for the second half of the Haute Couture showing which featuerd late afternoon, cocktail and evening gowns. Appearing in the collection were brocade evening gowns and coats, jeweled capes and for sportswear, fur-lined jackets.

This year's "Chambre Syndicale de la Haute Couture Parisienne" promises to be every bit as exciting as the 1959 and '66 showings. Many more particulars are to be announced in the near future, but one thing is certain — Sept. 23 will be a unique and memorable evening for those who attend this international event.

Slice hard-cooked eggs crosswise so you have thin cuts; place each on a round of melba toast. And a dot of mayonnaise and a caper-rolled anchovy. Serve this delicious canape with tomato juice or some other before-dinner drink.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Chislip of Pikeview Village announce the engagement of their daughter, Betheen, to Pfc. Willis W. Gilliland of Ft. Carson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis A. Gilliland of Ottawa, Kan.

Ruth Ashton Is Bride of Reuben Hill

Miss Ruth Mary Ashton and Reuben Dwight Hill were married at 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 2, in Evangelical Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William Leonard and the Rev. Lorne C. Sanny officiating.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ashton, Nutley, N.J. The bridegroom is the son of Reuben Dwight Hill Sr. of Seattle, Wash.

Miss Pat Nelson was maid of honor. She wore a light aqua sheath with a chiffon overskirt, matching shoes and veil. She carried a bouquet of white pom pons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Georgette Stevens and Miss Beverly Pudwell, both of Berkeley, Calif. They wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor.

Following a Wisconsin honeymoon, the couple will reside in Blacksburg, Va. The bride's traveling costume was an aqua suit with three-quarter length sleeves, white accessories and a yellow rose corsage.

Personalines

A wedding of interest here took place in Las Vegas, Nev. on Monday, Aug. 24, when Mr. Del Lichtenberg, formerly of Colorado Springs, now of Bozeman, Mont., married Mrs. Borghild Hall of New York City. Mr. Lichentenberg frequently visits Colorado Springs. The couple plans to travel during the winter months, and return to Bozeman for summers.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Bayless of 40 Friendship Ln., have been their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. (Jerry) Bayless Jr. and children, Mike and Lorie, of Phoenix, Ariz.

They have returned to Phoenix, where Mr. Bayless is in charge of Arizona and Utah commercial mortgages and loans for the Jefferson Standard Insurance Co.

Mrs. Francis Slater of San Gabriel, Calif., is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Frank Doepke and Mrs. Bernice Porter. Several parties are being planned in her honor.

Mrs. Slater has been visiting in Amarillo, Dallas, Ft. Worth and other parts of Texas en route to Colorado Springs.

Dr. and Mrs. William Hurst of Portland, Ore., announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Elizabeth, to Arthur Lane Dana, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dana of 114 E. Uintah St.

Miss Hurst is a sophomore at Colorado College. Mr. Dana is a graduate student in Physics at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass. A September wedding is planned.

Mrs. Inez Hunt has returned from Greenup, Ill., where she spent a week visiting her aunt, Mrs. Harry Peirson and cousin, Miss Dorothy Pierson.

While there, Mrs. Hunt, a well known poet, writer and lecturer, interviewed relatives of the late Cy Warman, and early "Poet of the Rockies."

A resident of Colorado Springs for many years, Mr. Warman was also known for his books on early railroad history. His best known books are "Songs of Cy Warman," "Frontier Story," and "Snow on the Headlights." His poems include his famous "Creed," so often quoted. One poem, "Sweet Marie," brought him $30,000. Mrs. Hunt brought back an original manuscript of one of his poems, and a letter signed by Warman.

Mrs. Hunt spent some time in St. Louis visiting the National Expansion Memorial, now being constructed. The project includes restoration the old court house where the famous Dred-Scott case was conducted, and an old cathedral on the fairway.

Miss Dorothy Roberts is among a large number of recent high school graduates attending summer advisement and orientation clinics at Oklahoma State University, where she will be a student this fall.

Certificates of achievement have been awarded to several Colorado Springs women who have been attending a three-day institute on nursing home care, held in Denver Aug. 19 through 21.

Those who attended are John W. Heard of Colonial Columns Nursing Center; Mrs. Olga Pratt, registered nurse at Kair-Moor Inc., Mrs. Mildred Savage and Mrs. Janet Harloff, registered nurse at Pikes Peak Manor; Mrs. Paterica Kerr, RN at Norton Nursing Home, and Mrs. Louella Heard, RN at the Miller Nursing Home Inc.

Norman Cornick, choreographer for the Colorado Springs Choral Society's forthcoming production of "Finian's Rainbow", announced that he will hold auditions for the parts of the dancers in the show on Tuesday, Sept. 1. All dancers are urged to attend this open audition which will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Colorado College dance studio in Bossitt Hall. For additional information call Mr. Cornick, at 47-2233, ext. 334.

"Finian's Rainbow" will be presented on Nov. , 6, and 7 at the Fine Arts Center under the direction of Capt. Thomas J. Smith and David orter, musical director. This is the first of four programs to be presented by the Chorale group during the 1964-65 season.

News has been received by Jeanne - Marie (Jay Dockery, 510 E. Jefferson St that she will receive a 50 per cent tuition scholarship from Grand Canyon College, a Southern Baptist college in Phoenix. Jay, a talented young artist, has spent most of the summer at the Glorieta Southern Baptist Assembly, N.M., where she has attended classes in Bible, Music and Art, has done some painting, and helped to edit the staff newspaper.

On a recent visit to historic old town of Santa Fe she enjoyed Mexican food served al fresco, visited the curio shops and a Catholic church which is said to be the oldest Catholic church in the United States. She has three roommates: one, a summer missionary, interested in the Orient, a girl from Texas, and one from Mississippi. She says, "We hear about the Orient from Helen, Texas from Julia, and the Mississippi problem from Card, and what makes it bad, Colorado doesn't even have a statesong!"

Jay had intended to major in Art, but since the college doesn't offer a major in Art, she plans to major in Journalism or Government, and minor in Art. She is interested in Indian Art, and did research in this field while preparing her Senior speech at Palmer High School. She is a native of Colorado Springs, attending Steele school, North Junior High, Horace Mann Junior High, Wasson and Palmer High, where she graduated.

Martin C. Kinna, son of Maj. and Mrs. Martin E. Kinna of Colorado Springs, a student at Holy Cross Abbey in Canon City, has been named by his school as an outstanding leader and delegate to the 13th annual national student council leadership conference at Estes Park.

Past Matrons Will Honor Past Presidents

The Past Matrons Club of the Pikes Peak region will hold its first fall meeting at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Masonic Temple.

Past presidents of the club will be honored with Mrs. Leah Thorum, president, presiding.

There will be a covered dish luncheon with meat, rolls and beverage furnished by the members. Those in charge are: Mrs. Carl Luehring, Mrs. V. M. King, Mrs. E.G. Lipconb, Mrs. A. Long, Mrs. L. H McAdams, Mrs. H. L. Pote, Mrs. W. G. Padley and Mrs. G.F. Roberts.

MRS. PAUL STERLING MCCOLLUM
—Nee Barbara Ann Ledwell

* * * * * *

McCollum-Ledwell Nuptials Held in Lehmberg Chapel

Miss Barbara Ann Ledwell became the bride of Paul Sterling McCollum at 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 29, in Lehmberg Chapel of the First Methodist Church. The Rev. Wayne Williams performed the ceremony, and nuptial music included "How Do I Love Thee," "Wedding Prayer," and "Yours Is My Heart Alone," played by Mrs. Mary Ellen Fish at the organ.

Tall candelabra lined the aisle, to the altar which was decorated with arrangements of large white gladioli and pom pons, and lighted by candles.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady L. Ledwell of 2110 Condor Dr., was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sterling A. McCollum of 9800 Aztec Rd., Albuquerque.

The bride's empire sheath of peau de soie was designed with long sleeves, and bodice trimmed with French lace appliques which extended down the front of the gown and on the detachable chapel train. Her butterfly veil was elbow length, made of English silk illusion, caught to a pillbox of French lace, and trimmed with pearls and a touch of satin. Her flowers were Tropicana roses with a shower of Zorina roses and ivy.

Miss Gail Webb was maid of honor and Miss Kay Ledwell was bridesmaid. Both wore floor length dresses of yellow chiffon over taffeta, trimmed at the waistline by a rose of the same material. Her veil of double illusion flowed from a circlet pillbox of pressed velvet leaves and their flowers were tangerine carnations with ivy.

Devone West attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were David Ledwell and Tony Putnam.

The bride's mother wore for her daughter's wedding a sheath of emerald green peau de soie, with overskirt, matching shoes and purse, white kid gloves and corsage of yellow goldilock sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Devone West and Mrs. Gary McIntosh served at the reception which was held in the church parlor, and Mrs Frank Kirby presided at the guest book.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico and Texas, the couple will live at 2201 Tenth St., Lubbock, Tex. The bride's traveling costume was a pink sheath and jacket, with shirred chiffon bodice. Her accessories were in black silk and her corsage was of deep garnet roses.

The bride was graduated from Hardin-Simmons University, class of '63, and the bridegroom from St. Benedicts College, Atchison, Kan., also class of '63. Both will return to Texas Tech at Lubbock to complete work on their Master's degrees in psychology.

Mrs. Poe Hostess To Garden Club

The Blue Spruce Garden Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles Poe, 949 N. Walnut St., at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Roll call will be answered with "One of my Garden 'Goofs'."

A program on "The Garden's Lace" will be presented by the hostess. (clematis and other vines).

Election of officers will be held.

MRS. RONALD LEE EARSON
—Nee Sandra Lynn Palmer

* * * * * *

Sandra Lynn Palmer Is Bride of Ronald Lee Eason

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Eason are at home at 705 N. Custer St., following their marriage at 3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 22, in Holy Shepherd Lutheran Church Lakewood, the Rev. R. L. Schlack officiating.

Mrs. Eason, the former Sandra Lynn Palmer, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Palmer, Lakewood. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Eason, 945 Osage St., Manitou Springs.

The couple repeated their vows in a setting of yellow chrysanthemums, white carnations and bronze button mums. Yellow carnations and white bows marked each pew. Traditional wedding music included the bridal march from "Lohengrin," "O Jesu, Joy of Loving Hearts," and "Wedding Prayer"

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal wedding gown of white taffeta peau with a portrait neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, a fitted bodice jeweled with crystal beads and seed pearls, and a detachable chapel train. Her veil of French silk illusion was attached to a circlet of crystal beads and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow rose buds.

Miss Sharron Palmer was maid of honor. She wore a full length gown of gold velvet and yellow crepe styled with an empire waistline. Her headdress was a pearl tiara covered with a circle of gold net, and she carried a bouquet of yellow carnations, bronze button mums and gold ribbon.

Miss Susan Sawyer from Walnut Grove, Minn., and Miss Linda Reid were bridesmaids. They were gowned like the maid of honor and carried similar bouquets.

Bill Hubble of Colorado Springs was best man. Groomsmen were Dennis Eason and C. Thomas King, both from the Springs. Jack Maxfield, Lindsay Johnson, from Arvada, and Fred Maxfield were ushers.

A reception was held in the church. Assisting were Margaret Brim, Karen Reid, Sandy Merill and Diane Kirchner.

Guests from other cities were Mrs. Claire Eason from Scranton, Iowa; Mrs. Mildred Sifrit from Jefferson, Iowa.

The bride attended Colorado State University. The bridegroom attended Pueblo Junior College and Colorado State College and is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

SEPTEMBER WEDDING PLANNED — Lt. Col. and Mrs. Richard L. Burns of Dugway Proving Grounds, Utah, formerly of Colorado Springs, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Ann, to Harry A. De Lashmutt III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. De Lashmutt Jr. of 2634 Lark Dr. The wedding will take place Sept. 19 at Bethany Lutheran Church. Both young people are graduates of Wasson High School. Miss Burns in the class of '63 and Mr. De Lashmutt, class of '61. She is a graduate of the Helen Key Beauty School, and he attended Colorado State University.

Fall Schedule Announced by Eagles Auxiliary

The Eagles Auxiliary will convene at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Eagles Hall, 109 W. Colorado Ave.

September birthdays will be honored with refreshments.

"Family Night" is planned for Monday at 6:30 p.m. Aerie and Auxiliary members are invited to bring their families to a covered dish dinner. Entertainment will follow.

An officers meeting is scheduled Wednesday, Sept. 9, at 7:30 p.m. Aerie officers will join the group at 8 p.m.

On Saturday, Sept. 12, at 6:30 p.m., a dinner will be served by the Auxiliary with the usual nominal charge. Everyone is welcome. A dance will follow at 9 p.m.

There will be a rummage sale in the near future. Members are asked to gather up all available materials and if unable to deliver them to Eagles Hall, they will be picked up by members.

The Eagle 8's square dance club is now meeting every 2nd and 4th Tuesday of the month. Beginning classes meet each Thursday. Spencer Yates is caller.

The Auxiliary won first place with the float entered in the Grand National Eagles Convention recently held in Denver. The theme was "People Helping People," and depicted the club's cancer pad sewing project. Those in charge were Lorena Trojanovich, Hazel Kusma and Margaret Warner. The club extends thanks to all who helped on the float in any way.

The chocolate is best melted over boiling water. Stir until the chocolate is thoroughly melted. When the chocolate is partially firm, stand animal crackers upright all over it. Cool and cut into bars. Small Children will be delighted with them.

MRS. STEVEN RANDALL COX

When there is snow on the ground, it's a good idea to wash your pet dog's feet after each outdoor walk to protect them from snow-melting chemicals. A baking soda solution is good for this purpose.

To remedy a sticking skillet, heat a little unsalted shortening in it very slowly. Allow to cool. Pour out the shortening and let the skillet stand until needed for cooking. Wipe it out with a paper towel before using.

Steven Randall Cox Weds Miss Shirley Jean Bowen

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Bowen of Denver announce the marriage of their daughter, Shirley Jean Bowen to Steven Randall Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Cox of Fountain.

The ceremony was performed in Mountain View Community Church, Denver, on Friday, Aug. 7. The Rev. Bert E. Van-Soest officiated at the double ring rites.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza over taffeta fashioned with a watteau neckline, and traditional long sleeves. Lace appliques and bead embroidery enhanced the skirt which flowed into a chapel length train. Her bouffant veil cascaded from a crown of pearl and iridescent sequins. She carried a white orchid and stephanotis on a white Bible.

Honor attendants were Noreen Huston and Cecil Williams. Other attendants were Sharon Wood, Alberta Alexander, Robert Bowen, brother of the bride, and Robert Befus.

A reception at the church followed the ceremony. The couple will reside in Denver following a wedding trip to Aspen.

Woman's Club Board To Meet at Club House

The board of directors, Women's Club of Colorado Springs, will hold its first fall meeting at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the club house, 20 Mesa Rd.

All members of the board are requested to attend. Old business and plans for the new year will be discussed.

A quick and easy way to mend worn pockets in men's and boys' clothing is to cut off the worn bottom part of the pocket and sew across the bottom a couple of times on a sewing machine. This makes a shorter pocket, but a strong one that will probably last as long as the already partially - worn garment.

Always shrink narrow cotton seam tape before using it on a garment other than washable cottons. To shrink the tape, let it stand in warm water for 10 minutes. Squeeze out, then lay it flat on an ironing board and press with a pressing cloth and a hot iron until it is dry.

UCW to Conduct Leadership Training Day

The first fall meeting of the United Church Women of Colorado Springs will be Leadership Training Day held at the First Christian Church on Friday.

The meeting will open at 10 a.m. and at 10:05 a.m. Mrs. Alvin Yoder of Denver, state Christian world relations chairman, will speak on her summer at the U.N. Church Center in New York.

Luncheon will be served at noon for 75 cents.

At 1:45 p.m. Mrs. Howard Pine of Castle Rock, state Christian social relations chairman, will speak. Following will be a question box on general United Church Women programs. The meeting will be concluded at 3:00 p.m. A nursery will be available.

According to Mrs. Harold Gates, president, United Church Women have had a busy summer as a result of the May Fellowship meeting. A six weeks course on the history of our Constitution and Civil Rights was taught by the Rev. Frank Argelander. Friendship coffees were held nearly every week, with women of many races participating. Trips to the zoo for the little ones at Chadburn Mission Bible School and the children of People's Methodist Church were most successful. Plans are being made to have a roster of women able to help children who are falling behind in school. An interracial family picnic was held, and United Church Women knocked on doors to be sure people were registered to vote.

Prayers for peace are held on the 16th of each month, that isn't a Sunday at the First Christian Church Chapel at 10 a.m. All interested women are invited to participate in this program.

When handing down a dress from a larger child to a smaller one in your family, change its appearance some. One simple change is to put on a different collar of contrasting material. If you use new material, be sure to shrink it before putting it on the old dress.

Sidney Elizabeth Bowler Is Bride of Thomas E. Smith

The marriage of Miss Sidney Elizabeth Bowler and Thomas Edward Smith was solemnized recently in First Christian Church, the Rev. Warren Hile officiating. Baskets of yellow and white gladioli, white daisies and candelabra were placed on the altar.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Vincent G. Bowler, 1034 N. Custer Ave. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Smith, 516 W. Uintah St.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown with a fitted Chantilly lace bodice, scoop neckline outlined in seed pearls, long sleeves pointed at the wrists, and a bell-shaped skirt of batiste. The detachable chapel length train was appliqued with lace flowers and her elbow length illusion veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried white rose buds on a small white heirloom Bible.

Mrs. Donald D. Enger, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow full length gown styled with a camisole bodice, fitted over-blouse of matching lace, and bell shaped skirt. A short circular illusion veil was held in place by a double yellow bow. She carried one long stemmed yellow rose.

Kathleen Parker and Janice Brittain were bridesmaids. Both wore blue gowns fashioned identically to that of the matron of honor and each carried a long stemmed yellow rose.

Thomas Kane served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Virgil Pittman and Joseph Chantelois.

A reception was held in the church. Mrs. Jean Iberg registered the guests, and other assistants were Mrs. Lesley Forgey, Mrs. Thomas Forgey and Sondra Enger, the bride's niece.

The bride's mother wore a two piece dress of Capri blue and white with matching blue hat and white gloves. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother chose a pink afternoon dress with matching hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white rosebuds.

Guests from out of town included Mrs. Fred Cole and Barbara from Sargent, Neb.; Mrs. Claude Snyder and Claudia from South Pasadena, Calif.

The couple will be at home at 1708 N. Cooper St., following a wedding trip to Northern Colorado. The bride's traveling costume was a white dress with a red, white and blue striped belt, blue hat, white shoes and gloves.

Karen Wilkins Becomes Bride of Kenneth Meyer

Candelabra and baskets arrangements of blue carnations and white gladioli graced the altar of First Southern Baptist Church for the wedding Sunday, Aug. 16, of Miss Karen A. Wilkins and Kenneth D. Meyer.

The Rev. R. D. Yancey performed the 3 p.m. ceremony during which "My God and I," "The Lord's Prayer," "Because," "I Love You Truly" were sung.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth P. Wilkins, 819 N. Custer St. and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Meyer, 620 E. Fontanero St.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was escorted to the altar by Charles Peet. She wore a gown of white taffeta styled with long sleeves and chapel train. Seed pearls enhanced the bodice and her veil was finger-tip length. She carried a single white rose with blue streamers on a white Bible.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peet, Patty, Susan and Eddie from Hubbard, Iowa; Mrs. Nellie Peet, and Mrs. Galen Murfield from Stanwood Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Meyer from Fort Collins.

Quick Review Of Safety Tips Aids Bike Riders

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Youngsters planning to roll back to school on bicycles need to bone up on two-wheeler safety rules.

That's the word from the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) here which conducts a nationwide program of bicycle safety. Here are some bike riding tips from the VFW:

Ride on the right. Keep as far to the right as possible. Don't ride on the left facing traffic. If riding with a group, keep in single file.

Stay off limited access, high-speed expressways. These highways were designed for motor vehicles only.

Obey all traffic signals and signs. Bicycle riders are bound by stop signs and traffic signals just as motorists are.

For gloomy days or night riding, your bicycle should have a front headlight and a rear refelctor. An important supplement to this equipment is reflective tape — red in back and white in front — which is applied to bicycles free by the VFW.

Stay off the sidewalks with full-sized bikes.

Use the proper hand signals for turns and stops. Otherwise keep both hands on the handlebars.

Never hitch on to other vehicles. It's dangerous, and against the law.

Two passengers are fine on a bicycle built for two, but if you have a single-seater, never carry another passenger on the handlebars, cross bars or rear fender.

Sailing downhill is fun, especially after a long uphill pull, but watch the speed. On a rough or sippery road, you may have to walk your bike down to avoid a spill.

The VFW's nationwide program of bicycle safety is conducted throughout the country in conjunction with local police and other authorities.

It is aimed specifically at children in the five-to-14 age category. Seventy per cent of all bicycle deaths occur in this age group.

Reflective tape, applied by the VFW to nearly five million bicycles to date, is visible at night from as far as 1,500 feet.

The VFW posts also are conducting free inspection programs — checking the equipment and condition of the bike, evaluating the rider's ability and offering safety lectures and movies wherever possible.

Any groups wishing to join in the bike safety program can do so by contacting their local VFW post.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Curb Him!

DEAR ABBY: It is bad enough to live in a neighborhood where there are several dogs and cats, but my husband is just as bad. When one of these dogs starts to bark, my husband barks back and sets up a chain of barking that disturbs the whole block. If a cat meows, my husband meows back at them, too. Then the dogs start up and you never heard such a racket. My husband thinks he is being funny, but last night I thought the top of my head was going to explode. He is just like a big kid. He says, "Well, THEY started it." Have you got any advice for me? —HEAD COMING OFF

DEAR HEAD: If the dogs bark at night, report their owners to your police department. If they bark during the day, report them to the S.P.C.A. If they still bark, muzzle your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Is it considered good taste to send a wedding invitation to relatives who live a great distance from where the wedding will take place, knowing perfectly well that they will not attend the wedding? Please put this in the paper as I would like to settle a difference of opinion. —"PLANNING TO WED"

DEAR "PLANNING": The "planner" should know her own relatives and anticipate THEIR reactions. Some relatives would interpret the invitation as a "notice" that a gift was expected. And if they sent no gift, they would appear cheap. Other relatives would feel "hurt" if they knew a family wedding were taking place and they received no invitation even though they couldn't attend. Almost every bride has both kinds of relatives. The trick is to be able to tell which is which.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a daughter who tells her own mother she'll gladly pay to keep her at the finest senior citizens' home (or anywhere else the mother wants to live), but her PSYCHIATRIST advised her against letting her mother continue to live with her? Well, that's the kind of slap in the face I got this morning. I could write a book about how I sacrificed my whole life so this ungrateful child could have the best clothes and get the best education. She married a rich man and has everything she wants now. I lost my husband a year ago and have lived with my daughter ever since. We've had a few disagreements, but nothing serious. She started seeing a psychiatrist and, if you ask me, I think he is only mixing her up, but she thinks he's God. Maybe I should ask the psychiatrist what my daughter has against me. I think she's crazy. What should I do? —CAST-ASIDE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Move out quietly, quickly and without questions. Perhaps if you were to talk to your daughter's doctor you would gain a better understanding of her problem. Since your "whole life" was sacrificed for your daughter, sacrifice a little more and be patient.

Larry Eugene Seese Weds Sherry Kathryn Benefield

The marriage of Miss Sherry Kathryn Benefield and Larry Eugene Seese was solemnized at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 22, in Stratmoor Hills Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Benefield, 610 Lynn Ave. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Seese, 2412 Byers St.

Baskets of white gladioli and white mums adorned the altar. Jane Hauptly sang "Oh Promise Mr" and "Walk Hand in Hand."

Escorted to the altar by Gary Carlstrom, her cousin, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of white lace over taffeta fashioned with a scalloped square neckline, and long lace sleeves. A front panel of tulle enhanced the full skirt and her short silk illusion veil fell from a crown of seed pearls and lace. She carried a white orchid and carnations on a white Bible.

Mrs. Marti Strey was matron of honor. Her brocade gown was mint green and she wore white shoes and gloves. White roses on a headband held her short green veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations with flowing green streamers.

Bridesmaids were Connie Carlstrom and Debbie Seese. Both wore gowns fashioned like that of the matron of honor and carried bouquets of white carnations and green ribbons.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church. Assisting were Mrs. Joanne Greenwalt who cut the cake; Mrs. Dorothy Carlstrom poured coffee; Barbara Lachowsky attended the guest book; Karen Baskett and Betty Velvick also assisted.

Guests from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Donnelly and Margie Jean, Mrs. William Samuels from Pueblo; Mr. and Mrs. James Greenwalt, Randy, David, Mrs. A. W. Goodman, from Lakewood; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Blanton, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Carlstrom, Mrs. Victor Carlstrom, Bob Carlstrom, all from Walden; Mr. and Mrs. James Seese from Alamosa.

The bridegroom attended Southern Colorado State College and Colorado State Barber College. He graduated from Harrison High School in 1961. The bride is also a graduate of Harrison High School and is presantly employed by Associate Consumer Finance Co.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will reside at 323 N. Sheridan St. The bride's traveling costume was a beige suit with red accessories.

Kauffman-Shannon Nuptials Held in Lehmberg Chapel

The wedding of Miss Shirley Kay Shannon and Stephen M. Kauffman took place at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 16, in Lehmberg Chapel of the First Methodist Church. The Rev. Ben F. Lehmberg officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Nuptial music included "Ave Maria," "The Lord's Prayer," and "I Love Thee," sung by Miss Eileene Philpot.

The altar was lighted by tall white tapers in candelabra entwined with huckleberry foliage; and baskets of white gladioli, mums and pale green pom pons tied with green satin bows formed the setting for the wedding rites. Mint-green pom pons and lemon leaves tied with white satin ribbon marked the family pews. A memory candle was also placed on the altar, and was used in a short ceremony following the nuptial vows.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Shannon of 2526 N. Meade Ave., was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. George Marcovich of 2706 Templeton Gap Rd., and Frank Kauffman of Wood Avenue.

The bride's gown of taffeta was floor length with fitted bodice trimmed with inserts of Venice lace, scoop neckline and long sleeves. Lace inserts were also used on the skirt which extended into a chapel train, and her bouffant veil of silk illusion was held by a pearl - embroidered pillbox. She wore pearl earrings which were a gift from the bridegroom, and her flowers were phalaenopsis orchids, feathered white carnations and stephanotis with English ivy, arranged in a cascade.

Miss Portia Melton as maid of honor wore a dress of dulcette satin in shades of mandarin and emerald green, with long modified empire sheath skirt and detachable train.

Bridesmaids were Miss Dona Dixon and Miss Carol Leasure, who sore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor. All of the attendants' costumes were gifts from the bride, and all carried cascade arrangements of pale green pom pon mums, on dainty fans of Chantilly. They wore Juliet caps of mint green pom pons on frames of white skeleton leaves.

Patty Whittier as flower girl wore a short mandarin - green dress with emerald green bow at the back, and carried a small white arm basket of mint-green pom pons and white roses, and rose petals which were strewn in the path of the bride. She wore a circle of leaves in her hair.

Jerry Marcovich was ring bearer.

Arthur Estes was best man and ushers were Richard Shelton, Ashton Randall. All wore white dinner jackets, black ties and cummerbunds, and white carnation boutonnieres. The bridegroom wore a boutonniere of stephanotis.

The bride's mother, wearing a gold costume, with semi-fitted jacket of brocade, received the guests at the reception held in the church parlor. Her accessories matched her dress, which was trimmed with rhinestone buttons, and her corsage was of lavender glamelias. The bridegroom's mother wore a sheath of beige silk with matching accessories. Her corsage was of peach glamelias.

Linda Davenport was in charge of the guest book. Lanie Niland and Lila Dever presided at the gift table, and serving were Mrs. Lillian Shelton, Sue Burnett and Jan Curry. Mrs. Jerry Helm played piano selections during the reception. All wore corsages of white gladioli, as did the soloist.

Mint green pom pons encircled the cake and punch bowl, and a five-branch candelabra centered the table.

After a wedding trip to California, the couple will live at 2005 N. El Paso St. The bride's traveling ensemble was a suit of white Belgium linen, with double breasted jacket and three quarter length sleeves, and brown blouse. Her accessories matched her costume.

Both young people are graduates of Wasson High School. The bride is employed by Colorado Interstate Gas Co. and the bridegroom by Sigman Mile-High Meat Co.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Ladd of Tucson; Wilam Shannon of Scottsdale; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shannon of Murphysboro, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Strang and Larry of Rawlings, Wyo.; Harry Shannon, Phyllis and Harlan, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Loran Hann, all of Boulder; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Neb, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Scott, Larry Scott, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Scott, Ft. Lupton; and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith of Louisville, Colo.

WEEK-LONG STANDS PLANNED

NEW YORK (AP) — The mobile unit of New York's free Shakespeare Festival is already planning an extended tour for next summer because of the popularity of its current test run.

Joseph Papp, founder of the project, said that week - long stands would be made at various sites throughout the city, chosen from among the 39 visited for only one or two performances this season.

The company is doing "A "Midsummer Night's Dream" and a twin-bill in Spanish brief plays by Federico Garcia Lorca in low-income neighborhoods. Three Shakespeare dramas are also given by another cast in the company's open-air theater in Central Park.

Television wherever you are with a tiny transistor job, little larger than pack of king size cigarettes, weighing less than six pounds, with a screen measuring only four inches. Operating on nine self-contained batteries, or from regular house current, rechargeable battery pack, car or boat battery, the set gives a sharp, clear if small picture.

(Sony, 580 Fifth Avenue, New York 10036).

Tired of crowded golf courses? You can set up a course in your own backyard with a new lawn golf game. Basically a chipping or pitching game played with a five iron, the set includes vinyl plastic cups which can be pressed into the grass without making a hole, flagsticks and flags for each hole and plastic balls. Three and five-hole versions are availabl and additional units are sold separately for those wanting to complete either nine or 18 holes.

Pope Watching Trouble Spots

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI is watching such world trouble spots as Cyprus, Viet Nam. Vatican sources said today. Vatican sources said today. They said they felt he would not hesitate to intervene diplomatically if the situation deteriorates.

The sources said the Pope made this obvious in his first encyclical, Ecclesiam Suam—His Church—and in his peace message earlier this week. They also cited his diplomatic notes to Ankara, Athens and Nicosia Aug. 15 when the Cyprus crisis was particularly tense.

But they said there was no evidence at present of any papal plans for diplomatic action.

Do you recognize the following voice? "I was playing personalities. You don't know East as I do. I've been battling against him for years and know all his tricks. He never fails to false card with touching honors; so when he plays the jack you know almost to a certainty he hasn't the queen. Only this time he fooled me for the first time in years." There's one in every circle. The current version is South, declarer in today's hand.

The final contract was four spades and, though upon examination of both hands it appears that there is no sound play for the contract, there is no criticism of North and South on that score. Their values would normally be sufficient to produce some reasonable play for game, but they were the victims of duplication in that the queen and jack of diamonds and the jack of hearts proved entirely valueless.

The defenders took two diamond tricks and shifted to a heart. Declarer first cashed the king of spades, upon which East followed with the jack. At this point declarer engaged in a bit of master-minding. East, a notorious false carder, had played the jack. Surely he hadn't the queen! So declarer returned to his hand with a heart and finessed the ten of spades against West. When East took in the trick, declarer had lost his battle, since a club must be given up in any event.

Now, it's perfectly all right to play personalities, but it amounts to beating one's head against a jagged wall to fly into the face of nature and arithmetic. If the condition which declarer visualized, namely, a singleton jack in East's hand, actually existed, declarer was fighting windmills, for the contract could not be fulfilled. West would then have Q-8-6-3 and could not be denied a trump trick. Only if the queen-jack were alone could the hand be won.

Souh should have forgotten East's habits and played for the one remaining hope.

Sewell-Pope Nuptials Held In Carson Hospital Chapel

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton A. Pope, formerly of Colorado Springs, now of St. Paul, is employed by the American Red Cross as a case aide at the U.S. Army Hospital at Ft. Carson. She was graduated from Texas Woman's University where she was president of the Adelphiam Literary-Social Club and was treasurer of the student council during her senior year.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sewell of Houston, Tex., is stationed at the Presidio at Monterey, Calif. He was graduated with honors from the University of Texas where he was a member of Phi Kappa Psi social fraternity, and the Silver Spurs, men's honorary. He was commander of the Army ROTC Cadets in 1960-61.

Motley-Nordstrom Nuptials Held in Ivywild Church

Miss Jeanne Rae Nordstrom and Robert Floyd Motley were united in marriage at 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 15 in the Ivywild Presbyterian Church, Dr. Harold Teed officiating.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond O. Nordstrom, of 26 W. Navajo St., was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd V. Motley of Leavenworth, Kan.

Tall candelabra, potted ferns and arrangements of white gladioli and mums formed the setting for the ceremony. Mrs. Wallace Towner at the organ played traditional selections and accompanied Jim Raney who sang.

The bride's princess style gown of white silk organza over taffeta, was trimmed with embroidered appliques at the neckline and waist. Her bouffant veil of illusion was caught to a circlet trimmed with appliqued roses matching those on her gown. She wore pearl earrings which were a gift from the bridegroom and her flowers were white roses with English ivy, arranged in a cascade.

Miss Nancy Nordstrom attended her sister as maid of honor and Miss Barbara Motley, sister of the bridegroom was bridesmaid. Both wore street length dresses of white silk organza over taffeta and their flowers were white roses with ivy.

Miss Esther Nordstrom was ring bearer, wearing a frock of white embroidered organdy. Kenneth Nordstrom lighted the candles, and was also a junior usher.

Mr. Floyd Motley was best man for his son, and ushers were Donald Simecka, Eldon Moore and Lester Palmer.

Mrs. Paul Pickard, Mrs. Lyda Johnson, Mrs. Hugh Robinson, Mrs. Robert Lynch and Mrs. Glen Rose assisted at the reception which was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

After a honeymoon at the Maroon Bells in Aspen, the newlyweds have gone to Kansas City, Kan. to make their home. The bride's traveling costume was a turquoise shantung suit with white accessories and her corsage was of white roses.

Among the guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. McChesney of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Don Schreffler of Topeka, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence George, Emporia, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Medina of Alamosa, and from other parts of Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Barnes, Mrs. James Raney, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Malcolm, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schmitt and Mrs. Bonnie Simonson.

Both young people were graduated from the College of Emporia, Kan., and the bride will attend Kansas University graduate school on a scholarship for Education of the Deaf. The bridegroom is a student at the KU Medical School.

Weber-Seeholzer Nuptials Held at Catholic Chapel

Miss Luise Heidi Seeholzer and Lt. Lynn Roy Weber were united in marriage at 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, in the Air Force Academy's Catholic Chapel. Chaplain Calkin performed the ceremony in a setting of baskets of white gladioli. E. Rogers, soloist, sang "Ave Maria" and other wedding selections.

Acting for the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Seeholzer, who live in Europe and were unable to attend the wedding, were Maj. and Mrs. Solomon Weinberg, 538 Catalina Drive. Mrs. Weinberg is the bride's sister.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Weber, Los Angeles, Calif.

Miss Stefanie Little was maid of honor, and Miss Helen Kidder was bridesmaid. Both wore street length dresses of powder blue chiffon with matching pillboxes, shoes and white gloves. They carried bouquets of white gladioli with blue ribbons.

Lt. William Ordway served as best man. Groomsman was Lt. James Kellogg. Lt. Pat Riley and Lt. John Borling ushered.

A reception was held at the Academy's Officer's Club. Miss Janet Weber, the bridegroom's sister, was in charge of the guest book. She wore a white sheath, blue hat, white accessories and a white gladioli corsage.

For her wedding trip to Las Vegas and Southern California, the bride selected a yellow linen sheath with white accessories. The couple will reside at Laughlin Air Force Base, Del Rio, Tex.

The bride attended schools in Europe and has been employed at Kaufman's credit office since coming to the Springs.

The bridegroom graduated from the Air Force Academy, Class of '63. Guests from other cities were: Maj. and Mrs. C. R. Kasper from Kansas; Lt. and Mrs. J. Kellogg from Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Weber, Janet and Pam, the bridegroom's family from Los Angeles.

A tissue-paper sewing pattern of the undergarments worn with the beautiful, flowing Indian sari is being sold at the Indian Pavilion of the World's Fair. It's in response to the demand of fair visitors interested in purchasing the handwoven saris but wondering how to fashion the undergarments. The underpinnings, a bolero - type blouse and long petticoat, are not ready-made, even in India, but are hand sewn to match each sari.

Authentic India madras, star in the summer's sportswear picture, is carrying on to brighten up fall and winter wardrobes. For fall dress and suits, the fabric is specially lined; made water-repellent for rain coats, umbrellas and windbreakers; backed with heavy pile or corduroy for ski parkas; quilted into a bright lining for leather jackets and walking coats; or used just as is in blouses, ascots, dickies, hairbands and big bows.

The newest for little girls: the blouse slip. The carter creation is a knit jumper with a three-quarter sleeve blouse that continues on to become a petticoat. The ruffle of the petticoat sticks out at the hem of the jumper. The waist of the jumper is elasticized so the little miss doesn't have to fuss with a belt—or worry about losing it.

Costume pins and pearls are going steady this season in the Coro's vendome jewelry collection. To accomplish this merger, the manufacturer has devised an ingenious necklace clasp design that accommodates the point of the pin so it lies in flattened flattery flush on the costume.

Garduno-Duran Vows Read In Sacred Heart Church

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph I. Duran, 614 E. St. Vrain St., and Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Abeyta, 15 S. El Paso Ave.

Vows were recited in Sacred Heart Catholic Church at 9 a.m. Saturday, with the Rev. John Gibbons officiating. Ed Albert sang "Ave Maria." Pale and deep pink carnations were placed on the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a full length gown designed with a Chantilly lace bodice, bell-shaped skirt of peau de soie, and short train. Chantilly lace and bows of peau de soie added a decorative touch to the gown's skirt. Her jewelry was a white pearl on a gold chain, and she carried a bouquet of pale and deep pink carnations.

Miss Ophelia Lente was maid of honor. Her princess style dress was aqua satin with contrasting deep aqua panels on each side of the skirt. Her moon-shaped bouquet was of pink carnations.

A small family reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother wore a deep blue floral print sheath with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a mint green sheath with white accessories. Both were white orchid corsages. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of pink and white carnations.

Guests from out of town included Capt. and Mrs. Eugene Edwards from Columbus, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. C. Garduno and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Garduno and family, Miss Isabel Garduno, Miss Cecilia Baca, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Trujillo, all from Trinidad; Mr. and Mrs. W. Martinez and Mrs. John Ruybal from Denver.

The couple will make their home in Colorado Springs.

Cook's Tour

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stack spaghetti and meat balls right up there alongside hamburgers, hot dogs and pizza as favorite dishes with the teen-age set.

A man who feeds 900 high school students daily says that on spaghetti and meat ball days "they clean up the food fast."

James Moore has been chef at the High School of Commerce for 14 years and figures what goes in the way of meal preferences among his boys and girls should be pretty general.

David Wynn, program director for the Boys Clubs of America, agrees spaghetti and meat balls are "very popular." But he also listed pizza and sloppy Joe sandwiches, made simply by frying hamburger meat loosely in a pan, browning and adding tomato sauce. Let simmer and serve on cut, slightly steamed hamburger buns.

Chef Moore said the favorite recipe with his troop is "spaghetti 'n meat balls with boss tomato sauce." "Boss" is a teenager term for anything that rates highly with them, Moore explained.

"Whether this recipe is prepared in quanitity as I do or small portions, the trick is to mix the ground beef with a little ground pork," said Moore. "Also have it fine ground. I find that mixing in pork or veal counteracts the hardness of beef, makes the whole dish tastier."

Vincent S. La Rosa, a gourmet cook and president of the family-managed pasta firm, offered these suggestions in addition. In cooking spaghetti, wait until the water is boiling before adding it. Stir occasionally. For those who want a lighter, more delicate taste to sauce, he said, go easy on the tomato paste, skip the spicy seasonings and the green pepper.

Hill-Funnell Wedding Held At St. Paul's, Lubbock

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Roberta Funnell and Walter Kent Hill of Thomasville, Ga. was solemnized at high noon Saturday, Aug. 22 at St. Paul's-on-the-Plains Episcopal Church of Lubbock, Tex. The Rev. Ralph E. Macy, chaplain of Texas Tech College and the Rev. Thomas W. Summers, great uncle of the bride, and rector of St. John The Divine Church in Houston, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson Funnell of 806 E. Willamette Ave. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Connard Arthur Hill of Thomasville, Ga., and the late Mr. Hill of Mulberry, Fla.

Altar flowers were spider mums, and nuptial music played by Dr. Judson Maynard at the organ included Purcell's "Trumpet Tune" for the processional and Charles Widor's "Tocatta." He also accompanied Mrs. Clara Poythress of Colorado Springs who sang "O Perfect Love."

Mr. Funnell escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her floor length princess gown of Alencon over taffeta was styled with bracelet sleeves, Sabrina neckline and softly pleated skirt that flowed into a chapel train. Lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and sequins trimmed the neckline; sleeves and waistline, and her elbow length veil of French silk illusion was held by a snowflake spray of pearls. She wore a tiny gold wedding bell, a gift from the bridegroom, and a pearl necklace which was a gift from her great aunt, Miss Gertrude Sumners of Kyoto, Japan. Her flowers were white butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Bonnie Apple of Lubbock, was maid of honor, wearing a princess style dress in street length, of pale pink silk organza over unpolished satin, with pink satin accessories. Bridesmaids were Miss Trudy Funnell, sister of the bride and Miss Beatrice Young of Lubbock. They wore gowns and accessories identical to those of the maid of honor, in rose pink. All carried nosegays of pink roses, carnations and violets. Marianna Goebel, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a similar dress in pale pink and carrying a basket of pink roses, carnations and violets.

Charles Thomas Hill, brother of the bridegroom form Albany, Ga., was best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Russell Funnell Jr., brother of the bride, and Lee Yarbrough of Thomasville, Ga. Roy Funnell, brother of the bride, and John Macy of Lubbock were acolytes.

The bride's mother wore an aqua suit with lace trimmed bodice, aqua pillbox and white accessories, and her corsage was a pink orchid. The bridegroom's mother chose a pale yellow sheath with gold and beige flowered hat and matching accessories, and her corsage was a green orchid.

All of the assistants at the reception held in the Episcopal Student Center, wore summer dresses in pastel shades. They were: Mrs. Rodney Goebel, aunt of the bride; from Lubbock; Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe of Abilene and Mrs. Jack Tunnell, Cross Plains, Tex., all aunts of the bride; Mrs. Charles Thomas Hill, Albany, Ga., Jane Ann Batson, Irving, Tex., Marilyn Doelp. Big Springs, Tex., and junior assistants were Betsy Goebel, and the Misses Anne and Marian Macy.

After a wedding trip to South Texas and the Gulf Coast, the couple will live at 2603½ 21st St., Lubbock. The bride wore for traveling a Chanel suit of aqua linen with white lace blouse and white accessories, and her corsage was a white orchid.

The bride was graduated from Palmer High School and is a senior at Texas Tech College, Lubbock. The bridegroom, a graduate of Thomasville High School and of Oberlin College, Ohio, studied organ for a year, under a Fullbright scholarship, at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark. He holds a Master's degree in church music from the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y. and is working on his doctrinal thesis and serving as a music instructor at Texas Tech.

The bridegroom's mother gave the rehearsal dinner the night before the wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Goebel.

Guests from other cities included the bride's family from Colorado Springs and other relatives and friends previously mentioned in the wedding party and ceremony. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. John Poythress of Colorado Springs. Cecelia Rosenwald of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe, Phil, Claire and Sharon Bledsoe of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Tunnell, Carolyn, Julie and Jack Jr. of Cross Plains; the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas W. Sumners, Houston; Mrs. J. J. Slaughter and granddaughter, Sharon Swenson, Mrs. Blanche Prendergast, Dallas; Mrs. Charles A. Sumners, Austin; and Mrs. F. A. Goebel, Abernathy, Tex.

A LINE THAT SINKS

Some call it a "lead line" and use it when trolling for bluefish and striped bass.

Mrs. Coleman reports that such a line brought up 2 33-lb. Atlantic salmon in Scotland's River Tweed last fall. Pete Anderson of Peebles, Scotland was the lucky angler and the fish were the only salmon caught that day.

Marsha Moore Becomes Bride of Ralph Crawford

Bethany Baptist Church was the scene of the recent marriage of Miss Marsha Moore and Airman 2.C. Ralph Crawford. The Rev. C. L. Moser officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar lighted by candelabra and decorated with baskets of aqua carnations and white gladioli. At the close of the ceremony the couple took a small candle, symbolizing their two lives were now one.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Moore, 1519 W. Boulder St. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Crawford of Burney Calif.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of silk organza with sweeping skirt, long tapered sleeves and lace bodice. Wide panels of lace encircled the skirt, embellished with iridescent sequins. Her fingertip veil flowed from a pearl and sequin crown and she carried a tapered bouquet of stephanotis and ivy centered by one large orchid. Her necklace was a tiny bell of silver and pearl, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Betty Sperry, organist, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Robert Gordon who sang "Each For The Other" and the prayer, "One Hand, One Heart." Mrs. John Ventimiglia, the bride's aunt, sang "For You Alone."

Mrs. Don Moore, the bride's sister-in-law, was matron of honor. Miss Joan Rowton was maid of honor and Mrs. Kenneth Mulligan was bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of aqua satin fashioned with scoop necklines, bell skirts and elbow length sleeves. Their hats were large brims of tulle trimmed with aqua rosebuds. They each carried colonial bouquets of white carnations tied with aqua streamers.

Holly Ventimiglia, the bride's cousin, was flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of aqua satin fashioned like that of the attendants, a brimmed hat of tulle and carried a white basket of rose petals. Scott Stevenson, also the bride's cousin, was ring bearer.

Willard J. D. McPherson Jr. served as best man. Don Moore, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Mulligan were groomsmen. Paul Saucerman, Larry Hicks and Don Lacy ushered.

Candlelighters were Jeff Stevenson and Mark Ventimiglia.

Mrs. Willard J. D. McPherson Jr. attended the guest book. Mrs. Robert Bailey Jr. and Mrs. Don Lacy were at the gift table.

At the reception in the church recreation hall, Mrs. Carl Nelson and Mrs. Robert Rowton served the four tier wedding cake from a table covered with aqua net. The cake was flanked by silver candelabra and aqua tapers. Mrs. Chuck Cowell and Mrs. Dick Yates served the punch. Mrs. Frank Henson and Mrs. Bill Frederic assisted.

The bride's mother chose an aqua floral print dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's parents were unable to attend.

The bride's going away ensemble was a gold Japanese silk suit with gold accessories and the white orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Following a motor trip to Fort Collins and Rocky Mountain National Park the couple are at home at 815 N. Custer St.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Don Moore and Kathy from Fort Collins; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore, Susan and Janice, and Miss Dianne Moore, from Denver.

Edmund Ryan Marries Miss Carol McConnaughhay

Miss Carol McConnaughhay and Edmund Ryan were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony at 7:30 Saturday Aug. 1 at the Fountain Methodist Church, the Rev. Robert Ellis officiating.

The altar floral arrangement was of white carnations and yellow gladioli. Miss Phyllis Bystrom, organist, played wedding selections and accompanied Mrs. Wm. Shiner who sang "I Love You Truly," and as the bride and bridegroom were kneeling at the altar she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McConnaughhay of Fountain. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lyle T. Ryan of Fountain and Mr. Lyle T. Ryan of Colorado Springs. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white peau de soie with a front panel of appliqued roses and seed pearls and the back caught by a bow at the waist which gave the effect of a bustle. She wore a strand of pearls, and white accessories. Her short veil was caught to a crown tipped with pearl drops and sequins and her flowers were yellow and white carnations tied with yellow streamers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Norma McConnaughhay, sister-in-law of the bride, from Ellsworth AFB, S. D. She wore a blue street length dress with empire waist line, a short veil, white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations tied with yellow streamers.

The flower girl was Suzanne McConnaughhay, niece of the bride, who was dressed in a yellow and white frock and hat and carried a white basket of yellow rose petals.

Best man was Jim Lamphear of Colorado Springs and the ushers were Charles McConnaughhay, brother of the bride of Ellsworth AFB and Lionel Ryan, brother of the bridegroom of Fountain.

The bridegroom's mother wore a beige knit dress with white accessories and a feathered white carnation corsage.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church parlor. Miss Carolyn Glaze was in charge of the guest book and Miss Kathy Ward and Miss Phyllis Bystrom of the gift table. The bride's table was beautifully decorated in yellow and white, and lighted by yellow candles. The cake was cut and served by Miss Kay Rutledge and Miss Laura Nugent; the punch was served by Miss Marlene Schallock and Miss Alberta Edgar.

For their wedding trip the couple spent two weeks at Cascade. The bride wore a grey suit with a black and white blouse and white accessories, and a corsage of yellow and white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Fountain-Ft. Caron High School, class of 1964. The bridegroom attended school at Fountain and is serving with the U. S. Navy. He returned to Pearl Harbor on Aug. 24.

Guests from other cities were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reinfreid, Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Metcalf, Mrs. E. W. Metcalf, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rarick and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wilson all of Colorado Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Cox, Jr. of Philadelphia, Penn.

WHY SCORES SOAR

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — With four holes to play Open champion Ken Venturi held a four-stroke lead in the 13th ICO golf tournament. But he three-putted the last two holes and eked out a one-stroke victory over four others. He shot a final round par 71 for a 273 total.

"Spike marks were so bad on the 17th green it looked like they made the Tarzan movie there," said Venturi. "And on the 18th I played safe for the left rough but my ball hit a fan in the shoulder and I wound up in the trap with an almost unplayable lie."

Venturi went three strokes over par on the last two holes with a 4 and a 6. He was the first to admit he "backed into a victory."

MARY MARTIN AS MUSICAL 'AUNTIE MAME'

A musical version of the click comedy of 1956 is being prepared by its orginal adapters, Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. The score is being done by Jerry ("Hello, Dolly!") Herman.

The show is slated for debut in the fall of '65. Miss Martin's singing assignment will be in the title role that was done in non-melody format by Rosalind Russell, Constance Bennett, Sylvia Sydney and Beatrice Lillie on Broadway.

French Perfumer Sniffs Sweet Smell of Success

By LeROY POPE
United Press International

NEW YORK — All the merchandising skill in the world won't sell a perfume unless the fragrance is unique and in some subtle way deeply satisfying to the soul.

This is the word from Suzanne Thierry, the French woman who created a fragrance which in the last 10 years has been climbing among the leaders of fine and expensive perfumes—the $30 an ounce kind—on the world market.

The perfume is Ondine, the first important Parisian fragrance to be "discovered" by a woman since Gabrielle Chanel brought out her famous "No. 5" about 30 years ago.

Most "noses," as the French call the creators of new scents, belong to men.

During a visit to the United States, Mlle. Thierry said she couldn't figure why. "But it is the same with the wine and brandy tasters of France—they are all males. I never heard of a lady wine taster in the trade."

Mlle. Theirry, a native of Orleans, the city of Joan of Arc, studied chemistry in college but she is not a professional chemist. She got into perfume manufacturing from the retail side. Soon after World War II she opened a small perfume shop near the opera in Paris—"there are no shops of that kind in the United States," she said.

"I wanted to create a new perfume, partly that is the way to make money, and partly because I was fascinated with the idea," she said.

So she bought a supply of oils, hired a chemist as a consultant and went to work. It took several years and assorted combinations from 5,000 different oils before she found a frarance that satisfied her.

The formula for the perfume is a company secret, but Mlle. Thierry said it had 49 oils, two of which are rose and jasmine.

When she decided to market it in the United States, she sought — and received advice from Edouard Cournand, the head of Lanvin, New York, who is regarded as a wizard of the perfume business.

She put it first in one Fifth Avenue quality store. And as she gradually expanded sales, set up an American distribution subsidiary with headquarters in Miami Beach, again with Cournand's advice.

Now, she said, she has 300-plus outlets in America and has established the perfume in the European market.

Mlle. Thierry said that in her many trips to the United States she has concluded that American women tend to buy too many different scents.

"They keep bottles which have been opened and end up with a 'cocktail' of smells," she said.

She offered these suggestions to American women:

— Use more perfume. In France, the average woman uses about one ounce a year.

—Use the same scent in toilet water and cologne as you use in perfume. Never mix scents.

—Use an atomizer to apply. Application with the fingers is like handling food too much. The acids and oils in the skin hurt the fragrance.

TO WED IN DECEMBER — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grundeitz, 806 E. Cache La Poudre St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Loeda Faye, to James F. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis, 528 W. Bijou St. Miss Grundeitz is a graduate of Alta Vista High School and Blair Business College. She is a senior at Southwestern College, Winfield, Kan. Mr. Davis is a graduate of Colorado Springs High School and Wichita Technical Institute. A December wedding is planned.

Ruth Lease Is Bride of Howard Dutzi

A candlelight ceremony performed by the Rev. Christian Thearle united in marriage Miss Ruth L. Lease and Howard C. Dutzi at 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, in First Lutheran Church. Floral arrangements of chrysanthemums were placed on the altar. Wedding selections were sung by Mrs. Orville Suhre, accompanied by William Hulka, oganist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Lease, Oregon, Wis., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig O. Dutzi, Elmwood Park, Ill.

Mr. Lease escorted his daughter to the altar. She wore a street length gown of white silk organza over taffeta. A wide silk bow held her illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. John Hurtig of Pueblo was matron of honor. Her street length gown of white silk organza was embroidered with yellow and she wore a matching yellow head piece. Her crescent bouquet was of yellow carnations.

Robert G. Dutzi attended his brother as best man. Ushers were William Triche of Colorado Springs; Paul Fiedler of Englewood; Donald Stewart of Northglenn.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a navy blue linen dress and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected an ice blue dress with matching accessories.

Assistants at the reception were Judy Hertneky, Wynn Weidner, Alma Lynn Grose and Dianne Rooth, all of Colorado Springs.

The couple is at home at 2628 Meadowlark Lane, following a honeymoon in Mexico.

The bride received a B. S. degree from Wisconsin State College and an M. S. degree from the University of Wisconsin.

The bridegroom holds B.S. and M. S. degrees from the University of Illinois.

BACTERIA EAT AROUND METAL

VANCOUVER (AP) — Dr. P. C. Tussell and a team of five University of British Columbia scientists are working on the problem of getting mineral eating bacteria to extract metal from lowgrade ore.

He explains that the bacteria — thiobacillus ferro - oxidans— change metal sulphides to sulphate form by the addition of oxygen. In the sulphate form the metal can be washed from the ore with water.

The bacteria will eat a very low grade of ore which would otherwise be uneconomical to use, he says. And they can extract tin, iron, molybdenum and silver as well as copper and nickel.

"These bacteria have been working for us for centuries with out our knowing it. The sulphates came out dissolved in mine water and the companies extracted the metal. Now that we know it's the bacteria we can put them to work more efficiently."

The scientists hope to come up with a system in which the bacteria can be sprinkled over a pile of ore at the mine site and save shipping the ore to the semlter. This would enable mines to operate economically in remote areas.

Need 118,000 Zippers? Surplus Office Has Them

If you've been searching frantically for 118,086 zippers, Walter R. Grancher, chief of the Brooklny, N.Y., Defense Surplus Sales Office (DSSO) is your man.

He also can outfit your marching and chowder society with a 37-passenger bus, 870 wool Eisenhower jackets, and 677 pairs of wool Army trousers for the Labor Day outing.

Zippers, bus, jackets and pants all are among 320 items of military surplus that the DSSO, a field sales office of the Defense Logistics Services Center (DLSC) in Battle Creek, Mich., will auction off beginning at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 3 in New York City's Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel.

Grancher said the military surplus gear originally cost the government an estimated total of more than $1,850,000. He added that officials have screened all the items thoroughly to make sure that no federal agency can use them..

Other surplus items the DSSO will auction off include two locomotive cranes; warehouse tractors; forklift trucks; 71 machine tools — like a $48,248 boring and turning machine and 23 milling machines; 41 vehicles — among them the bus, five 4-door sedans, and two station wagons; and 44 items of clothing and individual equipment — like one item comprising the wool pants; another, the jackets; and 15 others, the zippers.

The DSSO also will sell 36 ultra - high - frequency air - to - ground radio receivers (six at a time), 110 items comprising thousands of vehicle spare parts, and 41 items — like a trailer mounted machine shop and three crane shovels — that can be used by road builders and general contractors.

The Brooklyn office is one of 18 DLSC sales offices, located throughout the country, that sell surplus supplies for the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. The Battle Creek headquarters, a major field organization of the De- has primary responsibility for managing the Defense Department's entire surplus sales program, under the policy direction of DSA.

Grancher said the vehicle spares include 625 rear axles and 1,027 front axles for jeeps, a transmission assembly for an M48A1 medium tank, and 17 engines for 2½ ton trucks. The portable machine shop, originally worth some $16,300, is equipped with a quick change lathe, valve refacer, drill stand, anvil, vise, surface plate, shelves, and benches.

Clothing and individual equipment items, in addition to the zippers and wool pants and jackets, inolude 11,211 cotton shirts, 8,525 pairs of cotton pants, overcoats, field jackets, parkas, overcoat liners, oxfords, combat boots, blankets, duffel bags, sleeping bag cases, pistol and cartridge belts, canteen covers, and field packs.

The sale items are in storage and can be inspected between now and Sept. 3 at New York City's Ft. Tilden; at the Brooklyn Army Terminal, at the Bayonne, N.J., Naval Supply Center; at Ft. Dix and McGuire Air Force Base, both near Wrightstown, N.J.; at the Seneca Army Depot in Romulus, N.Y.: at the Schenectady, N.Y., Army Depot; at Griffiss Air Force Base in Rome, N.Y.; at the Watervliet, N.Y., Arsenal; at the Philadelphia, Penn., Naval Shipyard; at the Davisville Naval Construction Battalion Center near Warwick, R.I.; at the Springfield, Mass., Armory; and at the Boston, Mass., Naval Shipyard.

Would-be bueyrs can get additional information and free sale catalogs giving the full description and exact storage location of each item from Grancher at Dept. A, Defense Surplus Sales Office, Post Office Drawer No. 1, Bush Terminal Station, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11232, telephone ST 8-5000 Ext. 5875.

Chemical Corps Arms System To Be Displayed

Enemies would have to develop either many new tactics or a newer weapons system if faced with the equipment that will be displayed by the Chemical Corps from Edgewood Arsenal, in Fort Carson's Peak Service Club from 5-10 p.m. Monday.

Lt. Gary Powell and staff from Edgewood Arsenal will be in charge of the 12 panels of displays and answering questions.

Incendaries, which can be used under field conditions to set fire to buildings, industrial installations, ammunition, fuel dumps and equipment, will be included.

A power packed M55 chemical rocket launcher, capable of launching 45 rounds in a matter of a few seconds; M23 Land Mines, capable of carrying a nerve agent; burning, smoke & white phosphorus grenades; and riot control weapons will also be on display.

Available for inspection will be protective equipment, such as the filtering system used in tanks, field protective mask and an automatic alarm system, that sounds when a casualty-producing chemical agent is detected.

Several models will be antimated with moving parts and lights.

Major J.E. Stenger, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized), urges service men, their families and post civilians, to see this informative display.

Small fry like cream cheese that has been beaten with a drop or two of red food coloring. They can use the "pink cheese" as a spread for bread or crackers.

Sheriff's officers are searching the river for Smith's body.

Brownell Will Be Manager for Sen. Keating

NEW YORK (AP)— Herbert Brownell Jr., former attorney general and Republican national chairman, will manage the re-election campaign of Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, the New York Times said today.

The Times said also that former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has been enlisted to make the nominating speech for Keating at the Republican state committee meeting here next Monday.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kenneday is expected to get the Democratic nomination to oppose Keating at the party's state convention here the following day.

Brownell has been out of politics since he resigned as President Eisenhower's attorney general in 1957, and has concentrated on the practice of law with a New York City Firm. Brownell, 60, managed one of Dewey's successful campaigns for governor, in 1942, and his unsuccessful campaigns for president in 1944 and 1948. He also was a major figure in winning the presidential nomination for Eisenhower over the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio in 1952.

School Testing To Continue Monday, Tuesday

Tests necessary for enrollment in the Colorado Springs junior and senior high schools will be continued Monday and Tuesday. It is necessary to report on only one of these days.

All junior and senior high school pupils who have never been enrolled in the public schools of the city, or who have been away a year or more, must take these examinations. Pupils will report at 8 a. m. to Palmer or Wasson High School. They will be allowed an hour for lunch, and are to return to the high school at 1 p.m. to complete the work. Junior high pupils should be through by 2:30 p.m.

It is not necessary to bring report cards or birth certificates to the test.

These tests furnish information about each pupil which helps his counselors in guiding him into the right courses. Enrollment will be greatly facilitated if these tests are taken in advance since no pupil is rgistered until their completion

It is quite likely that pupils who wait until the first day of school to take these tests will not be enrolled before September 11, at the earliest.

Pupils who plan to attend North, South, and West Junior High Schools and Palmer High School will be tested at Palmer. Wasson High School will be the center for pupils attending East, Washington Irving, and Horace Mann Junior High Schools and Wasson.

The main entrance to Palmer High School at N. Nevada and E. Platte should be used; the office entrance to Wasson on Afton Way.

Pupils should make arrangements about lunch since neither school will be serving at that time. Pupils at Palmer High school may bring their lunch and eat in Acacia Park or purchase it from one of the commercial establishments. A place will be provided at Wasson for those who bring their lunch.

Services for THOMAS BRUCE Held Saturday

Funeral services for Thomas J. Bruce, of Fountain, who died Wednesday at a local hospital, were held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Swan Drawing Room. The Rev. C. W. McAninch and the Rev. John Kreiser officiated. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mr. Bruce had been a resident of the Pikes Peak Region since 1920. He sold ranches and farms for the Padgett Realty Co. for five years. He was director of first aid for the Red Cross for two years. He moved from Denver in 1920 and farmed in the Hanover, Greenland and Drennan communities for many years. He was safety director for Ft. Carson during World War II and the Korean War.

Mr. Bruce was born in Putnam County, Mo. Sept. 25, 1897. He was married in Denver, Jan. 13, 1917, and his wife, Mrs. Virginia E. Bruce, of Fountain, survives him. He is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. Eileen Crawford, of Palmer Lake, and Mrs. Monelle Netzinger, Dayton, Ohio; a son, Clayton Bruce, Colorado Springs; two sisters, Mrs. Sylvia Williams, Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Evaline Corp, Touchet, Wash., six grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Carson Launches All-Out Drive Against Death

Operation Lifesaver will be launched Monday, Aug. 31, at Ft. Carson, in the first phase of an all-out effort to reduce traffic accident potential and curb the increasing traffic casualty tolls.

From Monday through Friday, all privately-owned vehicles on the Carson reservation will be required to go through one of 32 check points for a thorough safety check.

Simultaneously, a command information program will be conducted, stressing traffic safety and the provisions of Ft. Carson Regulation 210-4.

All personnel at Ft. Carson, regardless of whether they have a car registered on post, will be required to read these regulations.

Subsequent phases of Operation Life-saver will include rigid enforcement of traffic regulations, to include vehicle registraiton and continued command emphasis on traffic safety.

Commanders have been instructed to have the maximum number of vehicles inspected on Monday. Inspection stations will continue to operate in unit areas Tuesday and Wednesday until all vehicles scheduled have been inspected.

Cars which pass inspection will be given a new sticker. Pass or leave privileges will be withheld until required corrective action has been completed.

The inspectors will check for station inspection stickers, valid operators permit and current state registration.

They will look for cut, damaged or excessively worn tires; cracked, broken or discolored windshield; torn or protruding metal; broken or defective exhaust system; proper lights, directional signals, horn, windshield wipers and brakes.

Operation Lifesaver is intended to make all personnel of Carson, retired as well as active military, dependents and civilian personnel, commercial drivers and visitors, more conscious of the constant need to be safety-minded and safety-equipped.

Civic officials expressed their appreciation to Fort Carson for generating greater interest in highway safety.

In a letter to Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, commander of Carson and 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized), Colorado Springs Mayor Harry Hoth commented:

"I notice by the papers that you are requiring your personnel to have Colorado or other state safety stickers on their cars. I know the Army is safety-conscious and I am glad to see this further step to improve safety.

"We are not proud of the traffic fatality record in this state. Anything that is done to improve traffic safety is certainly to be commended."

Capt. Gardner Takes Command Of Supply Unit

Former personal affairs and personnel services officer for the 4600th Air Base Wing's Consolidated Base Personnel Office, Capt. Robert H. Gardner, took command of the 4600th Supply Sq., last Monday morning. He replaces Capt. Harold H. Willhite, who moved to a position in the Base Equipment Management Office which is a funcion of the Supply Unit.

Captain Gardner served for a year at Ent AFB in his previous two jobs before being assigned as squadron commander of the Supply outfit located at Peterson Field.

Before assuming duties at Ent, the captain served for two years at Lowther Air Station, Canada. He was the personnel officer at the Pine Tree Line site.

Since entering the Air Force in 1958 as a second lieutenant, Capt. Gardner has also had tours at Hamilton AFB Calif., and Winnemucca Air Station, Nev.

He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma with a B.A. degree and a major in Personnel Management. He received his commission, through Oklahoma's ROTC program, in June 1958.

His wife is the former Patricia Lee Amaral of Petaluma, Calif. The Gardners have two girls; Debbie, 3, and Becky, 2, and live at 118 Arlen Drive.

Col. DeChow Returns Here For Retirement

Col. George H. DeChow, U.S. Army, a recent retiree who is making his home in Colorado Springs, recently arrived here from Ankara, Turkey.

Col. DeChow retired from the Regular Army effective July 1, with over 24 years service. He was accompanied here by his wife, Marijane Greene DeChow, formerly of Washington, D. C., and their two children, Linda, 16, and George, age 13. Col. DeChow was stationed at Ft. Carson in 1956 and commanded the 3rd Battalion of the 13th Infantry of the 8th Division at that time. He "gyroscoped" with the Division to Europe in the fall of 1956.

While in Colorado Springs, he and Mrs. DeChow made a decision that this would be their retirement home. He joined the Valley Hi Country Club of which he is a member and purchased a lot from Jerry Wagner by mail from Europe in 1958. Col. DeChow and his family have now returned to build a home in Colorado Springs and establish their residence here.

He attended the University of Wisconsin from 1936 to 1940 and entered the Service as a 2nd lieutenant from the ROTC Program of the Universtiy of Wisconsin in June of 1940. He received a Presidential Appointment to the Regular Army in February of 1942.

He served with the 82nd Division and the IV Corps with distinction in Africa and Italy in World War II and was decorated for his combat actions in the Po Valley Campaign in Italy. He commanded the 3rd Battalion of the 27th Infantry Regiment (Wolfhounds) in the early days of the heavy fighting in Korea and received two Silver Stars while obtaining his six battle stars representing the first six campaigns of the Korean War.

He has served on the Department of the Army General Staff, on the staff of the Continental Army Command, among others.

In Turkey, Colonel DeChow was Chief of the U. S. Army Element Operations and Training Division and was intimately connected with the day-to-day operations which are now making headlines in the newspapers in Colorado.

During his staff assignments, Colonel DeChow has been awarded the Legion of Merit, the Commendation Ribbon and several Certificates of Achievement for his outstanding service.

He has plans to form a Business management consultants firm in Colorado Springs.

Colonel DeChow is a member of the Valley Hi Country Club, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pikes Peak Chapter 4051, the Colorado Springs Chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army, and of the Retired Officers Association of Colorado Springs.

Civitans Launch Annual Drive For Hope House

Hugh Stewart, president of the Colorado Springs Civitan Club last week launched the annual fruit cake sale that the organization conducts. The proceeds from this sale go to Hope House, local rehabilitation Center for mentally retarded and physically handicapped children.

"We are appealing to the people of our community to put Hope House on their Christmas list," said Stewart.

This year's sale will be divided into two parts. Until Oct. 1 advance orders will be taken by Civitans individually Christmas wrapped and prepared for distribution during the Christmas holidays. The cake may be ordered in one, two, three and five-pound packages at the price of $1.25 per pound. Orders may be placed by calling 635-5289, Woody Ritz.

The second phase of the cake sale will be handled as in the past through direct sale by Civitan members and many merchants who have been helpful to Hope House. This sale will start Nov. 15.

The Civitans invite parents to look at their own children and then go out to Hope House and gaze at children whose only hope is Hope House.

BEES ON HIS BALCONY

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Michele Cibelli, 32, called police. When they arrived he showed them what was wrong: several thousand bees had built hives on the balcony outside his bedroom window. Aside from the buzzing, they also were stinging, Cibelli complained.

Police studied the situation and gave up. They sent for bee culture experts to rid Cibelli of his problem.

ARC Offers First Aid To Bus Drivers

Following a ruling that all El Paso County school bus drivers must carry a current Red Cross first aid card, the Pikes Peak Chapter of the National Red Cross offers first aid instruction for drivers who lack such a card.

This year 19 drivers, men and women, have completed the course. The course, 10 hours long, was accomplished in two days, for the convenience of drivers who came from distant points from the city. The instructor was E. N. McIlrath, executive director of the Red Cross. Those who have completed the course are:

Edgar Armentrout and George Morrow, of Green Mountain Falls; Carl Brauer and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murr, of Peyton; Donald Breese, Palmer Lake; Wayne Griffith, Fountain Valley School; Ethel Handle, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nutt and Mr. and Mrs. Rod Storey, all of Calhan; Joseph Trujillo, Fountain; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Masters and Ruby Lowney, Mr. and Mrs. William Reble and Glen Schribner, all of Colorado Springs.

Stamp Scheduled

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican will issue a special stamp Sept. 22 to mark the 100th anniversary of the founding of the International Red Cross. The stamps will show the Good Samaritan and be in three denominations — 10 lire (1.6 cents), 30 lire (5 cents) and 300 life (50 cents).

John Fetler, Book Editor

THE GOD OF THE MACHINE—By Isabel Paterson — Caxton — $4.95 — This book was first published in 1943, and now Caxton has republished it in a definitive edition. As Caxton explains about this famous volume: "This new edition of Mrs. Paterson's closely argued book, as enlightening as it is sensible, will be eagerly welcomed by her earlier readers who have long wished to see it in print again. Recent students of the history of the American Republic and of the conditions essential to the freedom of man will find in this powerful work of original thought a text which is basic to their study. The burden of this classic of analysis of the American system is that "Americans did not inherit their great industries ready-made. Why and how were they able to create and maintain the long circuit high energy system for beneficent ends and bring a true dynamic economy into existence out of a continental wilderness, within a little over a century, where there has been no such example or type of production known before "is analyzed by Mrs. Paterson. Her argument is that since it developed in the American political system, which was also new in principle, there is an intrinsic connection. The book, therefore, is a study of the flow of energy and the nature of government as mechanism, analyzing the relations involved. Mrs. Paterson's analysis aims at an exact terminology, a "fundamental philosophy of capitalism, for they begin with the relation to man to the universe. Here is why the American way did work, and why collectivism does not and cannot work." The idea of the book is that economy works best in a state of natural freedom, but Mrs Paterson's big freedom makes possibly for the energy circuits of human endeavour to operate most effectively.

WHO IS AYN RAND — By Nathaniel and Barbara Branden — Paperback Library, Inc. — 60 Cents — These 191 small-print pages contain an analysis of the novels of Ayn Rand, and a biographical essay of Ayn Rand. Mr. Branden is co-editor with Ayn Rand of The Objectivist Newsletter, and Mrs. Branden is managing editor. The two are closely connected with Ayn Rand's work. They disclose that interest in Ayn Rand's individualist philosophy is spreading particularly among the campuses of American colleges and universities. Ayn Rand's "objectivism" is an opposition "to the prevailing dogmas of mysticism, altruism and collectivism. Objectivism is a philosophy of reason, self-interest, individualism and capitalism." The book is a fascinating study not only of Ayn Rand's novels, such as Fountainhead and Atlas Shrugged, and of the ideas expressed in them, but of Ayn Rand's methods of writing, as well as of her colorful career ever since she was born in St. Petersburg, Russia. The burden of the book is expressed in Ayn Rand's own words: "The world crisis of today is a moral crisis — and nothing less than a moral revolution can resolve it; a moral revolution to sanction and complete the achievement of the American Revolution. . . The New Intellectuals must assume the task of building a new culture on a new moral foundation. . ."

AWARDED MEDAL — Lt. Col. Burton J. Ross has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for duty as chief of the Construction Programs Branch, G-4 (Logistics) Section at Army Air Defense Command headquarters, an assignment he has just completed. The medal was presented by Maj. Gen. D. B. Johnson, ARADCOM'S deputy commander. Col. Ross has been here since early 1960. He is now being assigned to Korea.

WHAT IS CONSERVATISM—Edited by Frank S. Meyer — Holt, Rinehart, Winston — $4.95 — The gist of the book is given in the introduction: "American conservatives are united in opposition to the growth of government power — of what is known as the welfare state — and to the centralization of that power in the Federal executive; they are opposed to the characteristic leveling egalitarianism of the time, an egalitarianism they see expressed on every level, political, social economics, intellectual, of our national life; they reject what they consider the presently established national policy of appeasement and retreat before Communism, and they stand for firm resistance to its advance and for determined counterattack as the only guarantee of the survival of the American Republic and of our institutions generally." In this book, twelve of the country's leading conservatives speak out candidly on the topic which is fast becoming one of the nation's most vital issues, with the upcoming Presidential campaign. The two main divergent expressions of conservatism — — traditionalism (stressing the concept of freedom; are analyzed and evaluated by the authors. Frank Meyer of the National Review proposes how these differences may be resolved. Russell Kirk and Willmoore Kendall champion the traditionalists; Wilhelem Ropke, F. A. Hayek and M. Stanton Evans give the reply in the name of freedom. An insight into problems of contemporary civilization is given by Father Stanley Parry, while Stephen J. Tonsor and Garry Wills propose a position that embraces both the traditionalist and libertarian emphases. The economy, military policy, and specific problems among conservatives are examined by John Chamberlain, Stefan T. Possony and William F. Buckley, Jr.

THE CONSERVATIVE AMERICAN — By Clarence Manion — Devin-Adair — $4.75 — For more than 25 years Manion was professor of constitutional law at the University of Notre Dame, and for more than 11 years he was Dean of the College of Law at Notre Dame. Currently he is a member of a law firm in South Bend, Indiana. He has been honored five times by Freedoms Foundation, for his speeches and writings on Americanism. In this book he has described the current Conservative uprising, and traces it back to its dim, but nevertheless definite originas, and then forwards to its present situation which he describes as explosive. The book is a blend of history and political philosophy. He says the Conservative American is dedicated to national independence and Constitutional government. He warns against "the shrinking authority of the states and the growing complex of federal regulations that have all served to congeal the determination of the Conservatives to fight for the chance in future elections." He says he wants to win the cold war against communism as a moral end in itself and as a prerequisite to the ultimate reestablishment of constitutional government and national independence. He ends the book with a plea by Barry Goldwater that "we should declare the world Communist movement an outlaw in the community of civilized nations."

THE EQUIVOCAL MEN — By Holmes Alexander — Western Islands — $4 — "I don't know who Calvin Borton is." Thus complained a literary agent after reading the first chapter of The Equivocal Men. The author replies: "Well, neither do I. Borton is a composite character, a repository of certain attitudes and ideas which, I assure you, are prevalent around Washington."

The young Washington reporter Phil Obermeister, who covers the local and global news beats which are the setting for this controversial volume, is as real as any American as can be found, the author says. After a brief stint as research man for liberal pundit Cal Borton, Obermeister free-lances his way around the world and through many of the historic news events of this century. He discovers what many have only guessed at — the real soul and meaning of the Washington world known by some as the Establishment.

NONE DARE CALL IT TREASON — By John A. Stormer — Liberty Bell Press — 75 Cents — Stormer is chairman of the Missouri Federation of Young Republicans and a member of the Republican State Committee of Missouri. He devotes his full time to conservative and anti-communist activities. But he warns that his book will not be popular with some Republicans "for it is not a partisan diatribe." He calls it a careful compilation of facts from hundreds of Congressional investigations of communism and dozens of authorative books on the communist-socialist conspiracy to enslave America, offering a dissection "of the failures of the Eisenhower Administration just as effectively as it details the blunders of Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy and Johnson," and "documenting the concurrent decay in America's schools, churches and press which has conditioned the American people to accept twenty years of retreat in the face of the communist enemy." Stormer declares that "the Cold War is real war. It has already claimed more lives, enslaved more people, and cost more money than any hot war in history. Yet, most Americans refuse to admit that we are at war. That is why we are rapidly losing — why America has yet to win its first real victory in 18 years of cold war."

A CHOICE NOT AN ECHO — By Phyllis Schlafly — Pere Marquette Press — 75 cents — This slim paperback, whose first edition was 600,000 copies, and is now in its second edition, is a sum-up of issues and methods of the 1964 presidential campaign, "including the hidden issues within the Republican Party." In addition, it gives inside accounts of Republican conventions since 1936, discussing such questions as: Who really picks your presidential candidates, how are political conventions stolen, who are the secret king-makers, how do the hidden persuaders and propaganda gimmicks influence politics, and will the Republicans win in 1964. Miss Schlafly is president of the Illinois Federation of Republican Women, and was a delegate at teh recent GOP convention.

THE FEARFUL MASTER — By G. Edward Griffin—Western Islands—$5 — The author, who has done research on various political issues for the Hearst Corporation, is currently engaged in film production, research and public relations in California. He takes the title from a comment by George Washington about the nature of government: "Government is not reason; it is not eloquence; it is force. Like fire, it is a dangerous servant and a fearful master." The implication is that the United Nations is an established, or a developing "fearful master," and Griffin cites his case by analyzing United Nations policies in Katanga, "Communist control of the United Nations," psychological warfare of the U. N. to "capture the American Mind," and "the present reality, an imminent danger." He described Trygve Lie as a "dedicated socialist and labor lawyer;" Dag Hammarskjold "openly sympathetic toward world communism," and U Thant, "who proposed U. N. control posts in the Caribbean and in the United States to prevent an American invasion" of Cuba. The point of the book comes at the end, where Griffin says: "To make sure that we do not get caught up in the middle of the endless squabbles between the countries of Europe, Asia and Africa, we must put an end to the insane practice of trying to entwine our economic and political affairs with those of the rest of the world. . . as for peace in the world, until all nations follow the concept of limited government it is unlikely that universal peace will ever be attained. . As long as we maintain our military preparedness, the world's petty despots will leave us alone."

Humphrey to Speak in Denver

DENVER (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, will speak Sept. 12 at two fund-raising affairs in Denver.

He will appear first at a $10-a-plate luncheon sponsored by the Colorado Labor Council's Committee on Political Education.

Later, Humphrey is to speak at a $10-a-plate box supper sponsored by Democrats in the Denver City Auditorium Arena.

Herrick Roth, president of the Colorado Labor Council and a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, said both appearances have been confirmed with party leaders.

SUCCESSION

HALF-A-TON HEART

ROME, Italy (AP)—The blue whale, largest animal in the world, has a lot more heart than brain, the food and agriculture organization reports. The whale's brain weighs 15 pounds, only about five times that of a man. The heart weighs more than half a ton.

The blue whale grows to a weight of 130 tons or more. That's as heavy as 30 elephants.

CRIME DECREASE

BELGRADE (AP)—Crime is going down in Yugoslavia, according to France Hocevar, federal state prosecutor. He said that in 1939 there were 2.2 cases of theft per 1,000 inhabitants while last year the number dropped to 1.6 cases per 1,000. The number of murders is now one-third less than before the war. Hocevar said.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — That was a real wild dream that O. Knox Kling of Des Moines had the other night.

In the dream, a man was making objectionable remarks to Mrs. Kling in a restaurant. Kling objected, the man swung at him, Kling ducked, and landed a solid left.

Then Kling awoke. His left hand hurt, and then he realized he had banged it into a night stand. An X-ray the next day showed a fracture of a knuckle on the left hand. Kling had to have a cast, and a brace extending almost to the elbow.

How to stop being a Ghostess by KitchenAid.

You know what a ghostess is: that's a hostess who disappears right after the meal. And leaves her guests with that awkward choice—pitch in with the dishes, or try to ignore those stacks of soiled tableware.

But change the scene just slightly…add a KitchenAid automatic dishwasher…and see the hostess be a part of the party! Now she has time for gracious entertaining and living.

Why a KitchenAid? Because a KitchenAid belongs in this scene. Because the product itself is unequaled.

Ask friends that have one…or better yet, come in and ask us. We'll explain how a KitchenAid, by Hobart, washes and dries better…we'll show you the exclusive revolving power wash arm, the separate electric blower-dryer unit—no other make has either one! And don't forget to ask about KitchenAid's new decorator color line.

LICENSE FEES

The license fees you pay help provide your good hunting this year, and guarantee good hunting for all true sportsmen in future years. License fees for Colorado residents are $10 for elk, $7.50 for deer, $5 for second deer, and $5 for bear. License fees for non-residents are $50 for elk, $40 for deer, $7.50 for second deer and $10 for bear. Resident means a U. S. citizen with a fixed and permanent home in Colorado for not less than 6 months immediately preceding the date of the application for license.

REGIONAL GAME & FISH MANAGERS, OFFICES

Northeast: Eugene Cook, 317 West Prospect, Fort Collins.
Southeast: Carl Welsh, 2126 N. Weber St., Colorado Springs.
Northwest: Robert Evans, 215 Petroleum Bldg., Grand Junction.
Southwest: C. E. Till, So. on U.S. No. 550, Montrose.

If you have a favorite deer hunting area, you will find it in one of the numbered sections (large circles) of the map above. The code shows the dates of the regular season, the type of hunt for each area, and area descriptions by game management units (small circles). More detailed information is given in the special colored map being prepared by the Information Section, GF & P, which will soon be available at any licensing agency, or will be sent to you if you file a request — a post card will do — with the Colo. Game Fish & Parks Depart., 6060 Broadway, Denver.

If there is any question about any detail of limits, licensing, areas, and so forth, your request to the department will be given immediate and helpful attention.

Minimum age for big game hunting is 18, except that childern 14 to 18 may hunt if accompanied at all times by a licensed adult. Such children must have appropriate licenses, and are subject to the same regulations and bag limits as adults.

HUNTING HOURS AND WEAPONS

Hunting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. It is illegal to shoot from any highway, hunt with a vehicle, or hunt on private property without the owner's permission. Hunting big game with dogs is illegal except for bear during the special bear season. Be sure to check regulations as to legality of weapons: M-1 carbines, full-automatic rifles, shotguns (except 20 gauge or larger firing single slug) rifles holding more than 6 rounds, steel or hard-pointed bullets, or bullets of less than 70 grains weight, cross-bows, mechanical bows or bows incapable of casting a hunting arrow at least 130 yards, are illegal for hunting big game in Colorado.

All bonus deer — all deer taken other than your first — require a Second Deer license.

MAJOR DEER SEASON

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

BY ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

HIGHWAY USE TAX: Highway vehicle owners or operators liable for the Federal Highway Use Tax on highway motor vehicles used in July must file returns by Aug. 31, 1964. Form 2290 should be used for this purpose. Those liable for this tax were explained in detail in my preceding columns, however, for additional information at this time ask the local office for Document No. 349.

CHECK LIST OF CHANGES ADDED BY THE 1964 TAX LAW: The major changes resulting from The Revenue Act of 1964 as they effect you in filing your 1964 returns are listed below and will be concluded in my next week's column. Save it for future reference.

(1) The standard deduction is now the larger of either (1) 10 per cent of the adjusted gross income of (2) a new minimum standard deduction.

(2) Employes moving to a new job location may generally deduct the expenses of moving.

(3) Deduction ceiling lifted from 20 per cent to 30 per cent for some charitable contributions. This covers contributions to governmental bodies, publicly supported charities and cultural organizations.

(4) Individual charitable contributions in excess of deductible amounts for one year can be carried over for five years.

(5) Medicines and drugs for persons 65 or over are now deductible as medical expenses without the 1 per cent reduction.

(6) Dividends received exclusion for individuals has been doubled. The 4 per cent divident received credit for individuals has been halved for 1964 and will be discontinued thereafter.

(7) Casualty losses on nonbusiness property are deductible only to the extent each loss exceeds $100.

(8) The amount of sick pay exclusion has been cut down for many employes. Whether an employe can exclude sick pay, the amount of any exclusion depends upon the amount he receives, the length of his absence from work and the cause of his absence.

(9) Profit on the sale of depreciable real estate held less than 10 years may be partly or wholly taxed as ordinary income.

(10) Capital losses can be limited to a five-year carryover.

(11) Individuals who receive heavy income in one year in comparison with the average income of the four previous years can treat the amount in excess of 133 1-3 per cent of the base income as though earned over five years.

(12) A taxpayer 65 or over can exclude a limited amount of gain from the sale of his personal residence. This exclusion which is entirely at taxpayer's election, applies to sales after Dec. 31, 1963.

POLARIS GOOD TILL '80S

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Navy believes the present Polaris submarine missle will be an effective weapon system until the early 1980s.

Advance systems under study include missiles powered by nuclear energy or exotic fuels; deep diving submarines which could hug the ocean floor, and deployment of large remote-control missiles in submerged tubes anchored in the sea.

Radioactivity Levels in State Milk Are Low

DENVER — Radioactivity levels in Colorado's milk supplies are lower than in many oher sections of the nation and pose no public health problem, a Colorado State Department of Public Health report has indicated.

The report covered the second quarter of 1964 (April, May, and June) during which 26 samples of milk collected throughout the state were analyzed for radioactive content.

No radioactive iodine was detected during the period.

The cesium 137 average of 98 picocuries for the second quarter was 11 per cent lower than in the previous quarter. (A picocurie is one-millionth of one-millionth of the radiation given off by one gram of radium.) The cesium level, however, was 20 per cent higher than for the second quarter of 1963 and 140 per cent higher than for the corresponding period of 1962.

Dr. Richard J. Reece, director of the Department's Occupational and Radiological Health Division, said the increase was expected.

"Cesium has a long life high in the atmosphere and falls out slowly over a period of years," he explained. "The cesium we are finding now probably came from the widespread nuclear testing done in 1961 and 1962."

Dr. Reece emphasized that the levels of radioactive materials found in Colorado milk never have exceeded the recommendations made by the Federal Radiation Council and constitute no danger to public health.

He attributed Colorado's lower levels of radioactivity to the comparatively dry climate (most fall-out occurs in rain) and to the natural barrier formed by the Rocky Mountains (radioactive elements appear to bypass the mountains).

Dr. Reece pointed out that the State Health Department is continually assessing the radioactivity situation on a week-to-week basis. In addition to milk, it samples food and water and determines the radioactive content of 20 Health Department employes who have volunteered to be test subjects.

Irene Musick To Direct Art At Girls School

The Colorado Springs School for Girls will have as its Art Director this winter Irene Musick, wife of Archie Musick who is Head of the Art Department at Cheyenne Mountain High School.

Mrs. Musick is a specialist in ceramics and pottery, having won numerous awards for her own work. In 1947 she received the purchase prize of the National Ceramics Exhibition in Syracuse, N. Y., and in 1947-52 the Purchase prize of the Annual Exhibit of Artists and Craftsmen at the Cleveland Museum of Art.

She has won purchase prizes at the Flint Art Institute, Flint, Mich., Springfield Art Museum, Springfield, Mo., and the Crafts Exhibit Prize at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center. A number of private collectors in Colorado Springs and elsewhere own works by Mrs. Musick.

Teaching as well as producing art has been a longtime interest with Mrs. Musick. In addition to junior and senior high school teaching, Mrs. Musick wa for several years head of the ceramics department at the University of Missouri.

Her own study of art was conducted at the Cleveland Museum of Art, Western Reserve University and Cranbrook Art Academy.

In addition to teaching art to the students at the Colorado Springs for Girls this winter, Mrs. Musick will offer an evening class in pottery for adults in the school studio. This course, open to men and women, will begin early in October and meet two nights a week for six weeks. Inquiries concerning it may be made at the school 636-1135.

The Colorado Srpings School for Girls, which is entering its third year and will graduate its first class in June of 1965 opens on September 14th with an enrollment of 55 girls. Five sturdents from Denver will be on the student roster and one from Boulder. In addition to the local girls enrolled, five daughters of military personnel will attend the school. The variety of educational backgrounds in the student body lends vitality to the program.

Believing in a well rounded college preparation, the school includes in its curriculum art, music and physical education for every girl along with her academic classes.

Naval Officer To Address CS Lions Club

Cmdr. Allen M. Smith, USN, North American Air Defense Command, will speak to the Lions Club of Colorado Springs on the Space Detection and Tracking System.

Cmdr. Smith will speak on the newest addition to the NORAD warning facilities at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Acacia Hotel.

The new tracking system employs an extensive network of radar installations, high frequency radio sensors and cameras to photograph space objects 20,000 miles away. The system was developed to detect, track identify and catalogue all man-made objects orbiting the earth.

The NORAD officer is a native of Warren, Pa. He began his Naval career in 1937 and since then has had varied command and staff assignments at sea. During World War II he served aboard patrol bombers in the Pacific. Prior to coming to NORAD he was second in command of Patrol Squadron 40 in the Phillippines.

Guests as well as members are invited to the Lions meeting.

Nikita Blasts Red China Again

BANSKA BYSTRICA, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Premier Khrushchev condemned today Chinese dogma that only war will achieve world communism and said, "we cannot imagine that Communist society could be built on the debris of civilizations."

Khrushchev lashed the Red Chinese for sowing doubt and distrust in the socialist countries and said "they will not live to see the day" when they can split the Communist movement.

The Soviet premier, in Czechoslovakia for political talks with President Antonin Novotny and Premier Josef Lenart, addressed a mass rally commemorating the 20th anniversary of a World War II anti-fascist uprising.

"We communists do not want to achieve the victory of the socialist system in any country by means of a war among nations," Khrushchev declared. "The forces of peace and socialism are so strong that the imperialists must reckon with the existing conditions.

Ex-Radio Man Named to Post

DENVER (UPI) — Operation Respect, association of Colorado sportsman and landowners, has appointed Arch Andrews of Broomfield its executive secretary, it was announced Friday.

Andrews, formerly news director of KGMC, has been in broadcasting for the past 16 years. Before being appointed executive secretary, he was public relations adviser to Operation Respect's board of directors.

Andrews said the organization also was initiating a new service for hunters and fishermen, a list of checkpoints around the state where they get information on private lands open to them in the immediate area. The organization is devoted to improving relations between land owners and sportsmen.

Wood to Follow Mrs. Scoggin In CC Position

Richard E. Wood, director of admission at Colorado College for three years, has been named college registrar. He will continue as director of admission.

As registrar, Wood succeeds Mrs. Ruth Scoggin, registrar for the past 13 years. She will retire following second semester registration in January of 1965.

Wood joined the staff at Colorado College in 1959 as executive director of the college's capital campaign and assistant to the vice president for development. He was named director of admission in September of 1961.

Prior to his appointment at Colorado College, Wood was assistant director for development at the University of Denver. He started his career in college administration as assistant director of admission and registrar at the Pratt Institute in New York. He later became alumni secretary at Pratt.

Wood holds a master of arts degree from Columbia University, and a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy from Dickinson College.

He is a member of the Association of College Admission Counselors, Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers, and the board of directors of Friends of the Security Library.

Mrs. Scoggin joined the staff at Colorado College in 1945 and became registrar in 1951.

She previously has been with the U. S. War Department in Washington, D. C., Ft. Carson and the Exchange National Bank in Colorado Springs.

After attending the Garden City (Kan.) Junior College, she was employed by the Garden City Chamber of Commerce.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—The horse, once king of the Texas range is moving from the ranges and farms to the cities, says livestock specialist Ed Uvacek of Texas A&M University.

Today's horses in Texas are found predominantly around the big population centers of the state, with the exception of a few large cattle ranches which still use horses for working cattle.

Credit in Fine Arts Offered At CU Center

For the first time fine arts credit courses are scheduled among the 100 or more courses listed in the 1964-65 catalog of the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado.

Donald King, administrator of the center, said that five credit courses in basic drawing, basic sculpture, and art education will be offered during the fall and spring semesters.

Classes will meet at the new Arts-Crafts Studio, East Swan Road, Black Forest, and will be taught by Albert G. Wynne.

King said that courses in the Fine Arts Department of the College of Arts and Sciences had not been offered previously at the center because there were no facilities for a studio in the Jackson House, San Rafael and Nevada, where most of the CU Colorado Springs classes are held.

Information about these and other courses scheduled for the fall term, which gets under way the week of Sept. 14, may be obtained at the center, 1105 N. Nevada Ave.

East Germans Kill Another Fleeing Man

BERLIN (AP) — A 19-year-old East German youth died today in a hail of bullets from East German border guards as he tried to flee to West Berlin. A companion, 23, reached the West.

West Berlin police said the two young men started to crawl through barbed wire on the East German side of the Teltow Canal about 2 A.M. but they were spotted by the guards.

The older escapee forced his way through the wire, and although badly cut made it across to the other side. Police fished the exhausted man out of the water.

CAUSE OF CRIMES

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Criminals flourish in the United States because of an apathetic public and a neglected legal profession, according to a Michigan State University professor.

Frank D. Day, a former police administrator, wrote in a new book that the public must be re-educated as to its responsibility and lawyers must take more interest in criminal law. "Most lawyers today deal with criminal law only as a service to long - established clients."

New Brand of Geography Taught in Today's Schools

By LYNN POOLE

Most adults formed their impression of geography in elementary school, where they were required to memorize the five longest rivers of the world, the ten chief natural resources of the United States, and the names and proper spellings of the world's capitals.

The purpose of it all was to give students an orientation to the basic composition of the world, much as civics gives them an orientation to the composition of American government. But because geography covered so little ground at the elementary level, most students lost interest in the subject.

It is a different story today. As much as there is a new math or a new physics, there is a new geography. The subject can still serve the same purpose for elementary students; at its higher levels, however, it is far more adventurous.

Dr. M. Gordon Wolman, professor of geography and chairman of the department of geography at The John Hopkins University, is an articulate proponent of the new geography.

"For a long time," he says, "the study of geography lapsed because it was concerned with teaching rather than research. Besides having students memorize the names of elements and places, there was the study of what some called 'jute, hemp and flax.' There is nothing wrong with that, but memorizing products and places gives a totally inaccurate impression of what the subject of geography is really about."

According to Dr. Wolman, geographical studies focus on four distinct, though interrelated areas. There are traditional areas which in recent years have developed new tools and methods for research; the last area is a coordinate of the whole array of disciplines in the social and physical sciences, and is not so clearly defined.

A first and early focus of geographical research was on the physical nature of the earth. Today an aspect of geophysics, these studies include the fields of geology, oceanography, meteorology, climatology, and the host of other disciplines that comprise the earth sciences. Unlike the other areas of geography, these studies concern themselves solely with the physical characteristics of the earth and atmosphere, with no regard to man.

A second focus of geographical research is on the characteristics of a particular region. In regional studies, the geographer concentrates on the cultural background of the peoples, the languages, and the history of the area as well as the physical characteristics of the environment. The emphasis in these studies is on the nature of a place, and the mixture of elements that may give it a unique flavor.

A third focus of geographical research is on "land-man" relations, and attempts to understand the effect of physical environment on human activity. It has been proposed by some geographers that all human activity is governed entirely by the characteristics of the environment in which it is situated—a theory which has been called environmental determinism.

"The most we can say in support of environmental determinism is that there are constraints placed on a civilization by its location in a particular natural environment, says Dr. Woman. "Many elements other than environment enter into the character and industry of a society, however. The study of land-man relations simply attempts to describe the connection that exists between human activities and the physical forces that influence or shape them.

The last, and according to Dr. Wolman, a highly significant focus of geographical research is the study of spatial relations. The central question this study seeks to answer is this: "What are the spatial elements that interact on a place or an activity to make it as it is?"

The spatial elements, as calculated by a computer, may number in the hundreds of thousands, and may consider every factor from the location of water, mineral resources and industry to the availability of highways, communications, and airports.

An especially important subject in this area is the study of the economics of location. This is employed by businessmen in plotting the location of new apartments and supermarkets, by urban planners in determining ideal locations for dams, the best locations for parks and highways, and by international planners in determining ideal industries and communications media in the newly developing countries.

The former lack of interest in geography may be attributed to a view that places and space were fixed, and that relations between spatial elements were relatively static and slow to change. In the twentieth century, with its rapid means of travel and communication, and its new methods for adapting to the physical elements, spatial relations have been uprooted. It is the responsibility of the geographer to understand these changes, and to shape future changes in a way that will make them most effective for man.

Minnesota Guard Team Wins Ricks Weapons Trophy

The 1964 Air National Guard's Ricks Trophy Weapons meet at Tyndall AFB, Fla., went down the wire Aug. 27 before the sharp-shooting of Maj. Albert J. Amatuzio on the final mission of the day pushed his Minnesota Air Guard team into first place and the championship.

The 119th Fighter Group from Fargo, N. D. had led going into the final hour of the meet, but saw the lead tumble when the score was posted after Minnesota's 148th Fighter Group from Duluth fired.

Final scores follow: Minnesota 7,360, North Dakota 7,000, Maine 5,980, Vermont 5,900, Wisconsin 5,870, Iowa 5,820, Montana 5,170, Oregon 5,120, and Washington 4,780.

The meet winning shot also won the Ricks Trophy for Maj. Amatuzio and his radar observer, Capt. John Arotta. While the championship of the weapons meet is decided by the overall team effort, the Ricks Trophy annually goes to the team member or aircraft crew which amasses the highest number of points.

Maj. Amatuzio and Captain Arotta had a total score of 3,050, the highest of the meet. In second place for aircrew scoring was Capt. Richard Hemanson and Capt. Bruce Kassow of the North Dakota team. Their score was 2,900 points.

In addition to the winning aircrew, flying the second aircraft for the Minnesota team was Capt. John Skomars and Capt. Johan Petterson. Their total points was 2,700. The remaining points for the winning team came from the ground support people who tallied 1,610 points in the weapons loading phase of the meet.

The Ricks Trophy meet was sponsored by the Air Defense Command. ANG fighter-interceptors are an active part of the ADC team.

New YMCA Schedules For 64-65 Available

New 1964-1965 schedules of activities are now available at the YMCA. They show a complete listing of times for swimming pool and gym activities for youths, adults and families.

Special activities, such as young boys, basketball leagues, Indian Guides, Hi-Y Clubs and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs, along with complete information on weekend camping at Catamount Family Ranch, are also shown on these schelules.

Copies are available to everyone whether they are members or not and those wishing schedules mailed to them should call 633-4643.

The YMCA swimming pool will be closed all this week and will reopen for the fall season on Tuesday, Sept. 8.

Manitou Praises Pancake-Making Mess Steward

Compliments for the "most outstanding" job in years were garnered by Sfc. Edwin M. King, C Company mess steward, 2d Battalion, 61st Infantry at Ft. Carson.

The Manitou Springs Chamber of Commerce, in formal letters of appreciation, thanked King and his crew of nine cooks for their contributions in the annual Manitou Springs Pancake Day earlier this month.

Using field ranges, King and his men prepared 4,500 pancakes, 300 pounds of sausage and 200 gallons of coffee for the estimated 650 attending the "all-you-can-eat" affair.

"We really enjoyed it," King commented. "We like meeting the public. They were all fine people."

CU Professors Discuss Plans For Excavation

BOULDER—Three representatives of the University of Colorado are in Northern Italy this week discussing plans for another season of archaeological digging in the Republic of Sudan.

Attending the meeting of 22 persons are Prof. Gordon Hewes of the CU department of Anthropology, Dr. Joe Ben Wheat of the CU Museum and anthropology graduate student George Armelagos. Henry Irwin, Harvard graduate student and member of previous CU expeditions to the Sudan, also is attending the four-day conference at the Rockefeller Foundation Villa, Bellagio, Italy. The U. S. National Science Foundation NSF is sponsoring the session.

The CU anthropologists' work on the upper Nile River was to have ended this spring after two seasons, but recent findings have encouraged the Sudanese government and NSF to continue it for at least another year. NSF has awarded the CU group $53,800 for continuation of the project.

For the last two winters, CU has been conducting Archaeological operations near the town of Wadi Halfa on the banks of the Nile River, attempting to salvage knowledge before the area is flooded this year after completion of the Aswan High Dam. The expedtition this winter will work further up the river on tributaries of the Nile—areas which will not be affected by the backwaters of the dam for some time.

Hewes is spending the summer in Europe where he recently participated in the seventh International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Science in Moscow, which was attended by 2,000 anthropologists from all over the world.

Hewes read papers on the fossil skeletal remains found last January by the CU expedition near Wadi Halfa and on mapping the growth of the Old World Ecumene, or areas of Old World High Civilizations.

The anthropologist also served as chairman for a session on the mapping of ethnic groups and took part in a symposium on human evolution to which he contributed information connected with his theory of the relation of food-carrying to the beginnings of the human race's ability to walk on two legs.

Hewes said, "The meetings were fairly successful in bringing together anthropologists not only of many Western countries, who are fairly familiar with each other's work, but also scientists from Russia and other Eastern countries whose work is not as well known."

Five Civilians Awarded Checks At Ft. Carson

Five civilians were awarded checks amounting to $105 ceremonies held this week by the Incentive Awards Committee at Ft. Carson.

Elwood H. Young, post signal photographer, received two awards totaling $35. Adopted were his suggestion of a new method of processing 35mm negative film and for building an illuminated worktable for cutting film materials. He received his award from Vernon A. Peterson, deputy post signal officer.

Jesse C. Bollier of Post Engineers received $20 presented him by Robert W. Watson, supervisory general engineer, for recommending embossing tapes on documents, an idea estimated at saving $397.

Phillip V. Martinez, lead foreman of the cold storage plant, also received $20 for suggesting that an angle iron on the lower half of door jams prevent damage by forklifts and loss of refrigeration. Deputy supply officer Raymond E. Ferguson presented him with his check, based on $240 tangible benefits.

Clarence B. Robinson, sanitation foreman, earned $15 for suggesting 1½ inch gas valves on the 3-inch sewage gas lines to burn sewage gas, a saving of $240. He received his check and certificate from Watson.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Extremists - Two Kinds

What is an extremist?

There appear to be two kinds. There is the kind who has emotional convictions in any area in which he may not know the facts. And there is the kind who knows the facts and reaches a conclusion which appears to be extreme as a result of carefully assembled knowledge.

Almost any expert is an extremist. His knowledge, in a selected field, is extensive enough to take him out of the ordinary avenues and to push him into the category of those who are exceptionally well informed.

Emotional extremists are a problem. These are the ones who suffer from emotional fixations not derived from reason. Among these are labor bosses and union members. These are extremists. They are people with an unreasoning fear and hatred of business, notably big business. They suffer a kind of paranoia when confronted with the fact of profits, rents and interest. Anything they don't understand, they seek to abolish.

People who understand the market place and who seek to support it are not extremists in an emotional sense. They may be extremists in an intellectual sense because they understand it far more than those who criticize it with emotional non-reason.

Other extremists of the emotional order are those who love and support the state with blind passion. Anything the government does is laudatory as they see it. The government can invade every sacred precinct, can destroy morality, impose all manner of unjust fines and limitations, and the love of the pro-government people will not waver for an instant. They are emotionally committed. They have no facts to sustain their highly charged outpourings.

People who understand the government do not hate it with a blind passion. They understand it and try to encourage other people to understand it. They, too, are extremists, but of the intellectual sort. They have studied it and know what it can and what it cannot do. They state their views reasonably and in good temper.

The emotional extremists face facts with hackles rising. They don't want facts. They want emotional commitment.

Those who hate some particular race or religious sect are of the emotional extremist variety. Uusually, they know little or nothing about the people or the group they hate. But again, in this area, there are people who do understand and who are capable of objective reasoning. When they know enough they, too, can be classed as extremists.

There is a great deal of propaganda being poured out today against extremists and extremism, without much being said about delineating between emotional non-reason and reason. Yet the extremist who knows what he is talking about is not only no problem, he is a positive asset. We have too few of them.

Every truth is extreme.

This is a newspaper. That is an extreme statement. It permits of no exceptions and no other descriptive term. It is not a magazine, a portrait, a novel. It is a newspaper. We will insist on it. Does that make us an extremist? Certainly, it does.

One of the reasons there is so much heat over this question of extremism can be traced to our currently expounded philosophies as taught in government schools. It has been popular, since Einstein, to proclaim that there are no such things as principles. Anyone who says that there are philosophic principles can be labeled an extremist. Anyone who says there is such a thing as good or bad can be called by this name.

But what is not seen is that the statement that there are no principles at all is just as extreme as the statement that there are fixed principles. The statement, there is no God, is only as extreme as the statement, there is a God. Each of these is a totality. If one is true, it excludes the other.

Those in power are extremists. This is not to say the Democrats are extremists and that Republicans are not. Either party in power is extreme.

What is in order is not a marshalling of hatred against those who disagree with us, under the heading of "extremism." What is in order is a kind of extremism based on facts and on reason. Emotional extremism is a curse and a problem. Intellectual extremism is a guide out of a stormy sea.

Thus, to simply charge someone with being extreme can be either a compliment or a badge of ignominy. Every great man in history was an extremist in some category. We should rejoice in such extremism and try to emulate it.

Small Goal

Buyer 'Protection'

There is some merit in an article appearing in our Sunday magazine section today entitled: "You Can Be a Better Shopper." We applaud the idea embodied in that title, for it is a fact that most people shop less wisely than they should. There is a great deal of "impulse" buying, and far less of an "impulse" to save money. Many people buy many things without buying a savings account or an investment portfolio, which in time would have infinitely more meaning and value to them.

But we must raise an objection to the emphasis placed in the article upon what the government can do to protect customers. The author, Mrs. Esther Peterson, is now on the government payroll, having served for years with a free market agency called the National Consumer's League. As a member of the Consumer's League, Mrs. Peterson was in a position to make recommendations to producers and retailers. And to her credit she still recommends this procedure. But she is also giving indication that the government will be called in to compel producers to do certain things with their products in the way of disclosure. And the intrusion of the government into what is properly a personal relationship between a buyer and a seller, will lead to many abuses, and already has done so.

Mrs. Peterson decries the ancient and very wise motto, "Let the buyer beware" (caveat emptor). Instead, she is championing the motto: "Let there be full disclosure."

And while we would be very happy to go along with the idea that merchants and producers will gain friends and make profits by making a full disclosure, we are disappointed to see the implication that the government will finally bring conformity here and the buyers will be protected, even against themselves.

"Let the buyer beware" is a very good motto. In Russia, where the government sets all standards, it is one the consumer has had to learn the hard way.

There is no reason why the buyer should not be informed. There is no reason why he should be distressed, as Mrs. Peterson is, by the very wealth of choice a free market has to offer.

Indeed, Mrs. Peterson makes this her first objection. She tells us that when she was a girl, when she went to the store, she only had about 300 items to select from. Now she has between 6,000 and 7,000 items and it has her terribly confused.

But, she is on the right track. If government gets into the standardizing of products much more, competition will be ruled out entirely and customers will be back with 300 items from which to choose, if there are that many.

It has long been a habit with socialist protectionists to think in terms of eliminating trade names and grade differentials. A can of tomatoes is a can of tomatoes, isn't it? And what can a canner do to let you know that his can of tomatoes is actually superior to that of a competitor, when the best government can do is to compel him to list all the ingredients?

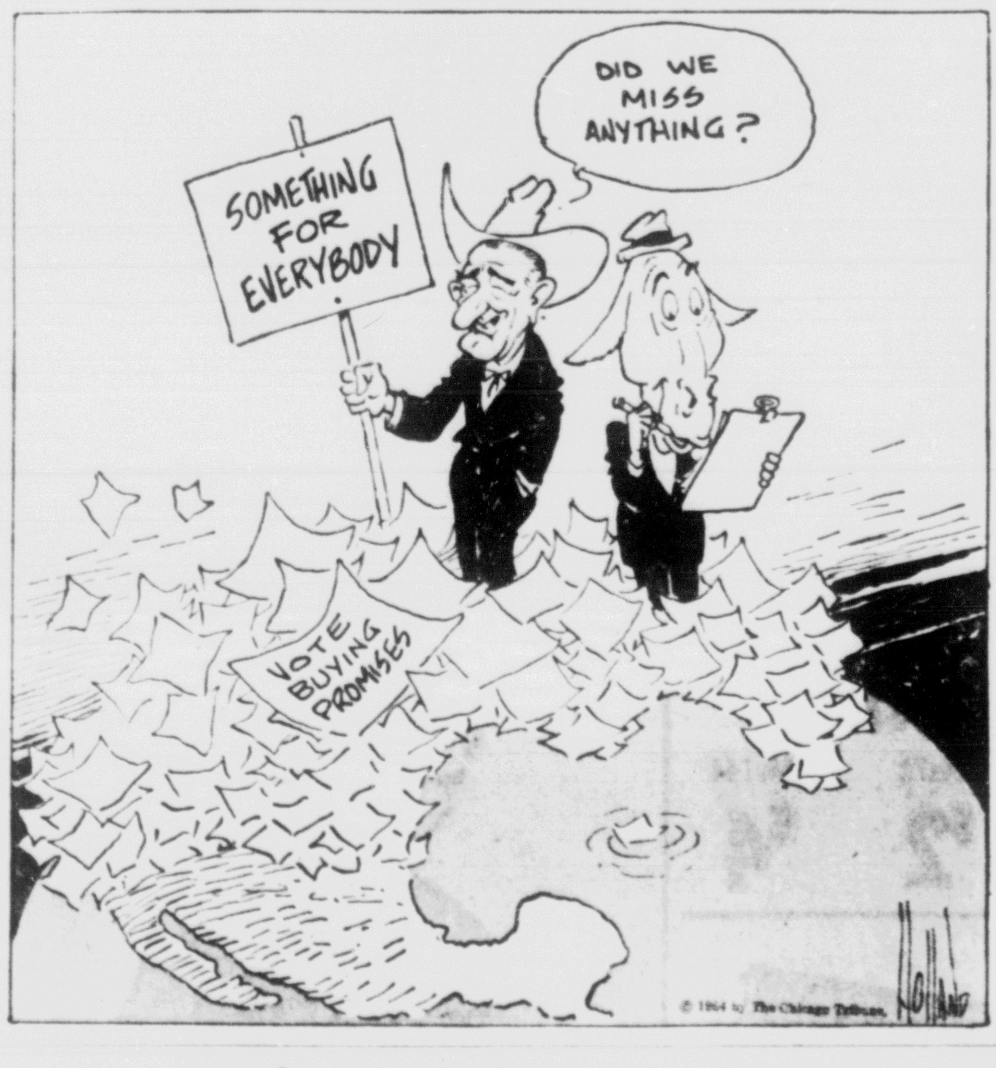
He may have the same ingredients in his product as the ingredients of his competitors. Yet, by virtue of superior selection and infinite care with his product, his may be far superior to another similarly marked item.

Let the government demand "full disclosure" and the government will assume, as it always does, that brand names make no difference and the "best" merchandise is always the least expensive.

Certainly, we can decry the occasional product that is improperly labeled. But the best check on that is customer awareness that such is the case. Government awareness and predatory action will not protect us, it will limit our choices to those areas in which standards are upheld as the only criteria.

We have no objection to having any item fully labeled, by voluntary action on the part of the producer. But we have a very great objection to bringing the state in as a monstrous agency to "protect" the customer. Increasing taxes will pay for this "service" and increasing costs will be reflected in increased reduction of choices available.

THE PROMISED LAND



Unfortunately Anonymous

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Anonymous letters invariably give me a feeling of sadness. It's not because writers of anonymous letters accuse me of being crazy or heartless, mean, cruel and totally lacking in a sense of humor. My sadness is caused by the obvious fact that writers of anonymous letters are afraid, and their fear is misplaced. Without even bothering to think, writers of anonymous letters should understand that I certainly mean them no harm. I don't even try to talk them into voting for politicians who simply cannot exist in official positions without doing harm.

Resting close to my right hand, a letter from an anonymous writer states that a certain candidate who shall also be nameless is ". . . not trying to achieve power over no one . . ." and if I ever lose my sense of humor, I'll write a column about the use of a double negative and how the anonymous letter writer agreed with my contention, by accident.

Last year when I did a little screaming in public about increases for several groups who draw government checks, I received quite a flock of letters from people who did not care to sign their names to their personal and very critical comments. In the same column, I mentioned the beginning of the end and the planned increases for elected and appointed hirelings, and I received a scolding for that, also.

Well, now that the increases for all of your favorite heroes have been voted into law, how do you like the situation which creates a payroll four to five times as large as the total budget for government in 1932?

Surely you've read a thing or two about "vested interests," too, and if you think a $16 billion tax dollar payroll doesn't add up to a vested interest in your earnings and investments, I'm sorry for your troubles. Maybe you'll feel better now that you know the House speaker will enjoy an increase from $35,000 to $43,000 plus the little fringe benefit of a continued $10,000 "unaccountable expense allowance."

One anonymous letter writer told me, "You're nuts. None of our great elected representatives would dare to vote a pay raise for themselves in an election year," and shortly thereafter I made a few remarks about the obvious fact that some mighty fancy vote buying would be going on this year and at a huge expense — TO YOU.

Politicians don't have to be very bright to understand that when election day rolls around, the sheep will be on hand to vote for one ruler or the other, regardless of what the politician does in the meantime. They've been watching as the voters sanction one form of thievery or another and one set of rulers or another, for a long time and they know what creatures of habit, unthinking habit, you are.

Of course, I have a sense of humor; I laugh when I receive mail from timid souls from whom I want nothing, as they announce their addiction to politicians who have every intention of taking the timid souls to the cleaners 365 days out of every year.

But — to all prospective writers of anonymous letters, let it be known that I mean you no harm, you need not be afraid of my reactions. When I receive letters from angry writers who sometimes dare to sign their names, I do not call upon your authorities to tell you to stop being mean and nasty to me — I'm not about to try to increase the size and cost and power of government at your expense and when I get right down close to the facts, I don't believe you really mean to harm me, either. Think about it this way: If Boardman is such a skunk you wouldn't want him to support your wonderful, omnipotent and admirable leaders, would you? Isn't it nice to know I want nothing to do with your leaders — I don't even want them to take something from you for my benefit. Surely, you can see the logic involved here. Obviously you wouldn't want me to admire your leaders and I wouldn't want writers of anonymous letters to agree with me, so as long as we maintain the status quo everything will be just fine and dandy — and how is your own sense of humor?

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

The Old Mountaineer

Conversation

By FRANK McDONOUGH

Recently, four couples of good friends descended upon us in mid-afternoon. The four women and my wife parked themselves in the livingroom and instantly the staccato of chatter filled the air. Simultaneously each woman carried on a conversation with each of the other four and how it could be done nobody knows. I have forgotten the formula of geometric progression but the number of cross conversations must have been astronomical. It sounded like a cross between a flock of turkeys at feeding time and the rattle of musketry in a minor Civil War battle.

I was lolling on my bed and the four men took possession of my bedroom. One of these men was that weird sort of character who sat and said nothing. He had that rare faculty of looking and acting like a double vacuum staring into infinity. There is usually one in any crowd.

Another had a special hobby of growing peculiar plants in his garden. The lush beauty of gladiolas and lilies in our own garden soon quieted his feeble recital of his own particular topic.

One of the other visitors was a Yankee baseball enthusiast but at the time of his visit his favorite team was in its worst slump in years and he was soon silenced.

The real champion conversationalist was the fisherman. His favorite topic was how to make friends with the wily trout or how to make enemies of the Game and Fish Commission. There was substance to his rapid fire of complaint against the way we have been discriminated against and that most of the fish had been segregated and stocked in places unknown. However, he could hold forth in the ways and means of catching fish, the paraphernalia necessary, when and where not to use bait, and all in all he should follow Issac Newton with a second edition of his famous text. No one could stop this conversationalist and no one wanted to because, after all, the male human is a fisherman at heart.

Some time later, they must have silently departed. When I awoke, I was in a state of exhaustion because I had just landed a ten-pound snook from the surf off of a west coast Florida key. I thank the gentlemen for a fishing dream that is second only in the pleasure of the real thing.

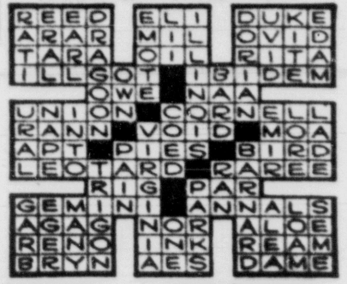
Answer to Previous Puzzle



The American Way

Needed More Debate

By ROSALIE M. GORDON

We hear once again, as we have heard in every political campaign since 1940, the demand for something called "bipartisanship" in foreign policy. This is an attempt by the modern liberals in both parties — and up to now it has made no difference whether the Democrats or Republicans were in control of the White House — to keep the opposition from criticizing their conduct of foreign affairs or propounding alternate policies, on the ground that in foreign policy we must present a united front to the world at large.

Of course national unity in the face of a common enemy is one thing. But to say, as some of our modern liberals do, that the people or members of Congress or the opposition party should not discuss, criticize, propose alternate foreign-policy courses, is to negate the whole basis of our free, constitutional system. It is, in effect, to say that the President should be an unquestioned dictator in the field of foreign policy. There are many instances in our history when such a course, had it been followed, would have spelled disaster for America.

POLITICAL PLOY

This demand for "bipartisanship" is always supposed to be idealistic and to transcend politics. But there is something ironic about it when we consider its origin. The kind of "bipartisanship" to which the modern liberals in both parties have tried to subject us in the past 25 years actually grew out of one of the rawest political ploys in our history. It happened in 1940 when Franklin D. Roosevelt decided to run for an unprecedented third term. There were many charges that if FDR were re-elected, he would take us into the war then raging in Europe. There was actually a plan to try to get the Republicans not to contest the election — to give FDR a third term by default. This fantastically un-American form of "bipartisanship" would be achieved by naming the Republican standard - bearers of the previous campaign, Alfred Landon and Frank Knox, as Secretaries of War and Navy in FDR's cabinet. But Landon found out about the scheme and refused to have any part of it. However, just before the Republican Convention met, FDR took the wind out of its sails by naming Frank Knox as Secretary of the Navy and another Republican, the aging Henry L. Stimson, as Secretary of War. Both men were in favor of FDR's moves to involve us in the war.

That was the beginning of modern so-called "bipartisanship" in foreign policy — a bipartisanship which some objective observers believe has been at the bottom of many of the weirder aspects of our conduct of foreign affairs. They suggest that what we badly need is not less discussion, debate, and argument about foreign policies, but far more than we have had in recent years.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Will a diamond dissolve in acid?

A—No. But the diamond can be destroyed. If a diamond is subjected to intense heat, the stone will turn to graphite.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

The statements and opinions expressed in this column are those of the contributors and do not necessarily express opinions or convictions held by this newspaper. Letters will not be published without the name and address of the writer. Letters must be received at least two days before publication.

A PRINCIPLE

To the Editor:

I quote from your excellent editorial of August 18, "We are caught between Scylla and Charybdis. But we are told to choose the lesser evil. Will someone kindly provide us with a principle by means of which we may objectively determine which evil is less than the other?" Scylla is the dangerous sheer rock in the sea between Italy and Sicily. Charybdis is the treacherous whirlpool opposite.

I gladly take up your challenge to provide you with a principle and that principle, my doughty antagonist, is personal honesty and integrity between two men — Barry Goldwater (of whom you said editorially, "We admire the man") and Lyndon Johnson, whose record proves is completely devoid of either virtue.

As usual, your quote is a most apt analogy but let us carry this old Greek mythology a little further. According to the legend, Hera, wife of Zeus, the great storm God, arranged for sea nymphs to be on hand and guide certain ships safely past this treacherous passage.

Can it be that Barry Goldwater has been sent as a possible guide to lead our Ship of State past the dangerous rock of a servile Congress and through the treacherous whirlpool of a welfare state?

At any rate, the difference between Goldwater and Johnson is so pronounced that no one should have any difficulty in choosing between what is right and good and what is corrupt and evil.

J. Evetts Haley has published a book (now printed in paperback), "A Texan Looks at Lyndon." The U.S. News & World Report recently said, in effect, that this book had the Johnson sycophants in Washington running scared. And well they should be.

Mr. Haley is a graduate of West Texas University and the University of Texas, and a former member of the Texas Technological College. He has been a Constitutional Democrat all his life.

His book proves that Johnson is one of the most corrupt politicians ever elected to public office in these United States and should be read by every voter who loves this country.

Page 6: "Just at this fateful period in our national life, as if by diabolical design, there has been thrust into the presidential office a man who knows the meaning and the uses of power; not power based on mutual confidence and consent, but the power of political pressure and of blackmail. Thus we are faced with illegitimate power in the hands of a ruthless ruler."

Page 7: "Federal bureaucratic pressure, state demagogues, intellectually elite, labor, money and criminal tactics combined to elevate him to high office in Texas. His special talents as a wheeler-dealer and political fixer have kept him there."

Page 53: "More than once in public addresses. . . Governor Moody boldly charged, in the proper jurisdiction, that 'if the district attorney here had done his duty, Lyndon Johnson would now be in the penitentiary instead of the United States Senate.' And there was no action for libel.

"The profound significance of this remark was, first, that the lawless underworld was in league with the highest echelons of the federal government, and second, that fraud and corruption had come to be tolerated if not admired by authority on the state level. In such a climate and environment, the adept Lyndon B. Johnson systematically and securely enhanced his power."

Page 80: "In an ironic way Don Reynolds (the insurance salesman who was forced to kick back part of his commission on a policy bought by Johnson) may be said to have done a public service. He had touched the Johnson nature at its two vitally sensitive spots: disclosure of its ruthless use of power on the one hand, and its infinite greed on the other — as well as its lack of ethics and principle in both. He had given another example — though more should hardly be needed — of the terrible power of blackmail, and what may be used on any man who dares stand in Johnson's way, even with the truth. Finally, he had added further proof of the historic principle that a nation ruled by illegitimacy is a nation ruled by fear."

Page 167: "In his State of the Union message he pledged 'utmost thrift and frugality,' adding that 'the government will set an example of prudence and economy.' The sheer hypocrisy of this vulgar pretense, even to his shallow showmanship in shutting off the White House lights, was quickly proven by the disclosure that his initial spending exceeded that of any other President in history."

Some of the truth as to the methods used by Johnson to steal his first election to the Senate were reported in both Life and the U.S. News & World Report. Read Haley's book and it is impossible to escape the conclusion that a vote for Johnson is an admission by the voter that he or she is willing to tolerate corruption in any and all politicians.

To anyone who might think that the leopard has changed his spots, we suggest a review of the Bobby Baker scandal. Lyndon Baines Johnson built little wheeler-dealer Bobby in his own image and likeness.

ROGER M. COFFIN
916 Skyway Blvd.

Editor's note: Contributor Coffin has not provided a principle. He has given us a summation of his likes and dislikes. Lord Acton gave us a principle: "All power tends to corrupt; absolute power corrupts absolutely."

Lyndon Johnson, in the Senate and in the White House, has given us a demonstration of what power does in the hands of any man. We see no reason to suppose that Lord Acton's dictum would apply to Mr. Johnson but not to Mr. Goldwater or any other man by any other name.

We have read the book of Evetts Haley. We have also noted that Mr. Goldwater, at one time against the U.N., now says that he is for it and will employ its powers. At one time Mr. Goldwater said he was against Social Security. Now he says he is for it and favors a five per cent increase. At one time Mr. Goldwater said that he would provide us with a brand new foreign policy. Now, with the taste of possible victory in his mouth, he says that he will follow the foreign policy of John Foster Dulles.

On these three issues (and others) Mr. Goldwater, with only the hint of victory to spur him on, has already reversed himself. This is not to condemn the man. This is to emphasize the principle and the fact that power corrupts. We might even add to Lord Acton's observation that the hope of power causes men to adjust their views to those expressed by persons offering support leading to power.

Mr. Coffin lives in a world inhabited by two kinds of people, the "good" and the "bad." The "good" people agree with Mr. Coffin. The "bad" people oppose him.

The established fact is that all men are both "good" and "bad" alternately but that when political power is added to any man, his ability toward "bad" is enormously enhanced.

NONE ARE THE SAME

To the Editor:

If a barrier arises in our thinking, it should be tackled and surmounted if one can. As long as unanswered questions remain, one should strive for an understanding of them. It is, of course, good when a proper direction is found.

The route should be traversed step after step. There are too many matters left to someone else for solving.

It is very important for one to realize that in spite of the number of humans in the world, none are the same. Each is an individual with a life to live. How many like to live as a carbon copy?

The laws of the universe which control all phenomena include man. Who can say that a man is excluded from that which controls all else? To assume so would be somewhat ridiculous.

Every portion of the universe necessarily must be different from any other portion. Logic says that if two things are the same, then they are one. In no way could they be separated into more than one unit. I see no way that this can be refuted, whether it is applied to any man or any part of the universe.

The separation and movement of objects as viewed by our senses give us this information. For something to be the same as anything else it would have to be in the same spot at the same time. It is obvious that were this to happen, they would be one. It necessarily follows that no two parts of the universe can be the same. The word one, then, means individuality of everything that exists.

Every part of the universe is free within the law of relationships to exist. Two different parts cannot become one. There is only one of anything. Every part has relationships which are different from every other part. The fact that each person has different ideas of shapes, sizes, colors, etc., shows us we are different. A man has the advantage over a stone, tree, dog and etc. He has a mind that can view itself and evaluate this knowledge that is gained. If a man wishes to continue to exist and prosper, he must find the

To The Point

Would You Care to Be Swapped for a Russian?

By RUSSELL KIRK

How would you like to be a hostage? Some months ago, a Madison Avenue advertising-man sent up a clarion call for what he called the "Peace Hostage Exchange." To secure peace between the Soviets and America, eminent people were supposed to send their near and dear ones — or even themselves — to dwell in Moscow; while commissars would do likewise, dispatching their offspring to Washington and New York.

Strang to say, this notion was not embraced warmly by the great American public, in its original form. But there has been established a "Citizens Exchange Corps," to persuade Americans and Russians to participate in people-to-people projects. Early in August, five American couples departed from Kennedy Airport for Russia, to inform the Soviets that this is a wonderful idea. One of the more voluble volunteers was a Dr. Irvin Amdur, principal of a Long Island City school.

Dr. Amdur and his fellow enthusiasts mean to persuade Moscow and Washington to employ warships, now "mothballed," as floating hotels, initially carrying a thousand Russians to America, and a thousand Americans to Russia. Surely, surely, if only Ivan and Johnny got to know each other, they'd see how everybody's just as good as everybody else, or maybe a little better.

This would be but a modest beginning. These reformers would establish a joint Soviet-American educational commission, perhaps under the auspices of UNESCO. "It would produce educational and press material in both languages, to be used by treaty agreement in the schools and the communications media of both countries," says a press report. Doubtless there would be easy concurrence on the principles of history, biology, economics, and politics.

But, gentle reader, you've not heard the half yet. Dr. Amdur would like to create "merged military units," half American, half Soviet, "which would be posted in each other's countries to work as Peace Corps." An international Mississippi Project? Or perhaps the Red Army could enlighten my native village of Mecosta, Michigan?

Let us not rest content with small endeavors. Between them, those jolly twins, Soviet Russia and the United States, would police the world benevolently. Principal Amdur would have his mixed military units "patrol trouble spots," such as the Berlin air corridor and the Caribbean round Cuba. Why, oh why, has no one ever thought before to form a mixed patrol of cats and rats, to keep the mice in order?

Talks with the Soviet Peace Committee, Dr. Amdur trusts, will bring to fruition these splendid undertakings. We all know, of course, how earnestly that Soviet Peace Committee desires peace — Communist peace, naturally, after victory.

I can think of just one small objection to this high-minded humanitarian project. I suspect, in fine, that the Soviet exchangees would be carefully selected Marxist zealots, trained in espionage; while the American participants, just as inevitably, would be perfect boobs.

law of the universe and follow it in his actions. A man has a choice to be or not to be. Only one of anything exists and it is never the same. It must gain relationships to exist. One of anything exists once and only once. For man to grow and prosper he must follow this law by growing in understanding and practice thereof.

The movements of bodies in space clarify that no two bodies are at rest.

Nothing means "having no relationship." So-called empty space is something as it has relationships; electro - magnetic waves, force of gravity, etc. The universe is energy of varying strength. We use words and symbols to convey our conceptions of the relationships we perceive.

Gravity is the force and control of the universe. To unleash the forces of the universe, gravity must be understood and put to use. Atom power will pale beneath the ease and unlimited use of time and space.

We tend by our nature to view (one) as lasting a period of time but this cannot be so. Actually, there cannot be even one of any thing — as only energy exists and no time. From a viewpoint using our senses, we view groups of energy and thereby add time and space to compare groups of relationships, but not all the relationships.

The points I am trying to convey are as follows: To think, one wants to be sure he is right, so basic immutable laws must be found: individuailty — free dom — responsibility.

TRIP TO EUROPE

To the Editor:

I just returned from a trip to Europe and will give you a run down of my observations.

They have two prices, one for the natives and another for tourists. In Ireland and Scandinavia they multiply it by about two and in other European countries about four or five; a cup of coffee or a small bottle of coke as much as fifty cents, and other things in proportion. In Italy a bank charges ten per cent to change American money to their money. If you walk into a park you have two choices: stand up or rent a bench. This is to show their appreciation to the American taxpayer for feeding them for the last twenty years.

As for the politicians' throw-away program nicknamed "foreign aid": an aid to help the foreigners fight among themselves. In one town in West Germany there are 26 generals stationed. This also helps to get rid of the tax payers' hard-earned money.

As for poverty, the stores are bursting with merchandise worse than in this country and new construction in homes and business buildings financed by the American taxpayer, much more than in this country. West Germany is very prosperous, which is not hard when the American taxpayer finances it. In West Germany the Mercedes car, the equivalent to an American Cadillac, is very popular and big percentage are used for taxis. The American taxpayer cannot afford to ride in Cadillac taxis.

In contrast, in East Germany old Khrushchev collects taxes and they must earn their living; also, not handed to them on a silver platter.

The politicians passed Johnson's so-called Civil Rights bill, which should have been meant for the American taxpayer. The politicians also passed the so-called Poverty Bill. If this country is so ungodly rich, why the Poverty Bill? Johnson's double talk does not make good sense, let alone horse sense.

If Goldwater can rid this country of communism I can assure him of one vote, and put this country back on its feet.

In the so-called better hotels you drink warm water in a dining room hot as an oven and obliged to wear your coat. The dining rooms are air conditioned like the boat that Columbus discovered America in. The meals in these hotels are for foreigners. The only good meals I had was enroute.

CONVENTIONS

To the Editor:

After a good look at the operation of the Democratic convention it looks like the pot was calling the kettle black as far as the GOP convention's operation. Goldwater, who had tight control of the convention machinery, could have made everyone who was admitted as a delegate sign a loyalty oath to vote for and support him as a prerequisite for admission to the convention. He did not. But then, he is more or less an amateur at crooked politics of which there was so much of in the last presidential election. Most of today's crooked voting procedures no longer consist of ballot erasures and re-marking and ballot box switches as much as rigging voting machines to vote the way the crooked judges and election officials want the election to go. (There were over 2,500,000 crooked votes cast in 1960.)

I lived in a large city in my teens and I've known people to vote eight or more times in one election. And if you register and DON'T vote, you may find someone has voted for you. I know a couple who registered but didn't vote in an election. When they went down to re-register they found out they were already registered. They got the standard explanation: it was an oversight. I sure got a laugh out of it.

I thought the ballot was secret but the Democratic convention sure doesn't help make it look that way. Talk about steamrollers, they've got one.

The Mississippi delegates could sign a loyalty oath and be seated. Which adds up to two things: they have too much honesty to lie, or they may have someone looking over their shoulder when they vote. Take your choice.

HOME-TOWN ITEMS

To the Editor:

1. Judge Calvert had a charge against a young man for writing a no acount check for $21.78. The bond was set at $2500. Why set the bond at more than a hundred times the amount of the check? Does the judge want to be sure that the man cannot get a bond and so must go to prison? I don't know the judge, nor the young man, but it seems to me that a bond of double the amount of the check would have been more suitable and plenty, then the man might be able to make the bond. I've noticed the same thing among many judges, who are supposed to dispense justice. Why does the law not specify that the bond should be in some proportion to the value of the crime? Justice we want, and also mercy, and fair play for all.

2. Judge Quine fines a man $10 and costs $7.60 for driving under suspension. I am sure I have read of many cases where the fines for this offense were many times larger. Is there no rule to go by, no way for a man to know in advance that if he does this or that the price is just so much? With laws so flexible, no one knows what the causes of high or low penalties are, whether it is the color of a man's hair, his height, weight, or age, or maybe what he owns. I think laws should be more uniform.

3. District 11 ups tuition for outside students. The way we squander money all around for parks, libraries, and new buildings, it seems that we might not be too hard on the few pupils (or rather their hard - worked parents) in the matter of giving instruction to those who need and want education. $3.7 million for Wm. Mitchell High School, and then raise tuition to the astounding rates of kindergarten to $200, elementary to $400, junior high to $550, and senior high to $650. It is surprising to me that people can send their children to school at those rates. It is a case of extravagance in buildings, and in teachers' salaries, and take it out on the pupils. Big buildings don't make an education, high salaries for teachers don't make an education. Some of the most devoted teachers I ever knew never made more than $75 to $100 a month, and they turned out some wonderful pupils.

5. Bickley said county doesn't seek bids for purchase of supplies and equipment. If they do not get plenty of bids, they are not doing their duty. I don't care if he is a Democrat, he is right on that question and it is no small matter, no one knows what is spent for these items.

And this gasoline matter, it is terrific. It should be up for bids, and then should be divided among those who would participate at the low bid. There are many gas stations in the county, and all pay taxes. There is no reason for the county to make one man rich because he may be a commissioner and a gas man, too. This road building business is a thing that should be put up for bids, too. The equipment could be traded for road building services on a bid basis, so that the county could get full price for all the equipment, and then the users of the equipment would have a personal interest in seeing that it was taken care of; there is no care like the care of an owner. Only competition will get the work done reasonably. The things above were all reported on page one of the Gazette, and there is more on this page. Then there are 56 more pages, might be something that is worth talking about on them, too.

The TV and radio orators go so fast these days that they do me no good. They seem to fear that the five or less minutes allotted to them will disappear before they get the message all told, so they hurry so fast that most of it is a blur, sound without meaning, so I stick to my newspaper for all the news.

Wishing you the same, I remain yours for health and freedom.

VOICES FROM THE RIGHT

To the Editor:

Ideas, not conspiracies, make revolutions. The so-called Goldwater revolution is no exception. Yet millions of printed words have been spent on the John Birch Society, which is nearly devoid of intellectual attributes.

Almost nothing has been published, meanwhile, about those self - proclaimed extremists of the radical "right" who have indeed created what threatens to become a massive cultural revolution. I speak of the libertarian intellectuals.

A little has been said, I grant you, about Ayn Rand, writer of "Atlas Shrugged" and "The Fountainhead" — but then her views have occasionally been distorted beyond recognition. Meanwhile, "Atlas Shrugged" nears the million mark in sales and, six years after publication, continues to sell far over a hundred thousand copies a year.

The Nathaniel Branden Institute, on the other hand, has received next to no mention, yet about 25,000 students in North America are taking NBI courses this year alone.

Nothing whatsoever, to my knowledge, has been said about the libertarian societies which now exisit at many universities, yet they form a good portion of Senator Goldwater's campus support.

Dr. Milton Friedman, of the University of Chicago, author of "Capitalism and Freedom," is a prime voice among Goldwater's economic advisers. Few newspaper readers ever heard of him or of Professor Aaron Director, another free - market economist at that university. Perhaps these two distinguished gentlemen lack the sensational appeal most readers demand.

Professor Robert H. Bork, more than any other, is responsible for Goldwater's civil-rights stand. The 31 August, 1963, issue of New Republic, at least, was tolerant enough to give him a hearing.

Other members of what can be called the Goldwater brain trust are: Warren Nutter, University of Virginia; Paul McCracken, University of Michigan; Harry V. Jaffa, Ohio State University; Gottfried Habeler, Harvard University; Raymond J. Saulnier, Columbia University; Gerhart Niemeyer, Notre Dame University; and Karl Brandt, international trade specialist at Stanford University.

Another dominant intellectual force way out on the "right," and way out West, is Robert LeFevre's Freedom School in Colorado. On its Academic Advisory Board are such distinguished names as those of Ludwig von Mises and Murray N. Rothbard.

Also there are the less academic, but equally articulate figures such as Paul Neimark, James T. Farrell, Jack Morano, Thomas W. Sanders, Vivienne Jackson, Gill Cantwell, Tom Marshall, Konda Carter, and Cara Leach — all of whom have written, in one capacity or another, on behalf of a society which permits the absolute sovereignty of the individual human being — and all of whom, I'd be willing to bet my next paycheck, before deductions, are active in their support of the Goldwater revolution. Yet who has ever heard of them? Well, most of us know that Farrell wrote "Studs Lonigan," anyhow.

No mention has been made, maybe I'm wrong, of the Liberal Innovator — the preconvention issue of which offered "A Positive Program for Responsible Extremists," and — in an editorial — offered Goldwater this advice: "To vigorously expound liberty and to lose is more effective than to appease statists and win a meaningless victory; and it is certainly more effective to expound liberty and to lose than to appease statists and lose!"

The view that the American "right" can in any manner be represented by a non-intellectual little mob of church - state reactionaries will not only prove more embarrassing to its exponents as the tide of the future mounts — it is also a view which fosters the growth of that headless monster, the conspiracy theory of politics.

ALWAYS FOOLED

To the Editor:

As Abraham Lincoln observed, you can fool some of the people all of the time, but not all of the people all the time.

But how come it is always the Communists who always fool our government? Fooled Roosevelt into thinking they would stop their subversive activities in return for U. S. recognition. Fooled our government into giving them as War II Lend Lease everything from gold mining equipment, U. S. currency printing plates and stock, to uranium and A-bomb know-how. Fooled them into making 101 agreements which were never intended to be kept by them.

But how come it is always us who are fooled by our own government? Fooled into believing it when Roosevelt promised less government. Fooled by the peace plans of Eisenhower which ended the Korean War and left us with a Soviet base in Cuba. Fooled for thirty years into believing the same programs for security, for jobs, for prosperity which have not yet solved the problem would somehow work the next time.

Isn't it strange those whom we elect and their appointees are never smart enough to avoid getting fooled by the Communists, but always smart enough to fool us?

ROAD TO NOWHERE

To the Editor:

The bureaucrats in Washington evidently feel it is our duty to rescue every backward country on earth. After 18 years and billions of dollars, the results of our extravagant and wasteful foreign aid are negligible and communism continues to advance on every front.

The U.S. taxpayer has dug in his pocket to pay for wives for tribal chieftains, roads leading nowhere, and mansions for rulers of emerging "nations." We even have given Tito of Communist Yugoslavia over $2 billion in aid. Yet we are asked to continue this give-away program at a time when our government owes more money than the rest of the free world combined.

On September 15, 1953, Lyndon Johnson had this to say: "We cannot indefinitely tax our citizens to support the rest of the world. The era of the open American pocketbook is out — as it should be. We cannot afford to sap our own vitality in a futile effort to support people incapable of supporting themselves."

Wonder why Lyndon changed his mind?

Question Box

Question No. 575: "Does not any law or regulation that increases minimum wages for women and those under 18 years of age above the minimum for men, tend to cause more juvenile delinquency and make it harder for women and teenagers to get jobs where they have an opportunity to learn how to earn more wages? If so, how and why?"

Answer: All people who have had successful experience in business know that each individual must produce and thus earn his own wages if he is to have a steady job. So any minimum wage law or ruling that makes it so beginners cannot earn their own wages and leaves only menial tasks for them to do, retards their ability to get more wages later, or it may keep them in school where they are not interested and where they are indoctrinated and their minds are stupified and dwarfed; where they come in contact with instructors who are really not enough interested in learning themselves that they are willing to answer questions to determine whether tax - supported schools violate the stealing commandment. Nor are they able to define stealing other than what the state says is stealing.

Of course, the state can make stealing legal but it cannot make it moral. To make a law that keeps the youth of the land under the influence of politicians where the government has a monopoly on education is gradually leading us into state socialism and collectivism and is bound to greatly reduce production, increase crime and injure everyone.

Questions are limited to general human relations, questions that will improve the well being of all mankind on this earth.

The Local Scene

Every Litterbit Hurts

By RUFUS L. PORTER

They say it takes all kinds of people to make a world. But I can't, for the life of me, understand why litterbugs should be one of the kinds.

Now, we don't know who the litterbugs are, unless we happen to catch them in the act of littering, and this isn't easy since they tend to be sly about it. There is no way of telling them from the rest of mankind. They have no distinguishing marks that set them apart. They could be, and many of them no doubt are, people we know and respect and admire.

Since there must be so many of them, judging from the tremendous amount of litter they scatter, they must come from all walks of life and one very probably would, if we knew him, look like an average citizen who is honest, hard working, sincere and a good neighbor. He very likely mows his lawn, rakes up his leaves, keeps a decent-looking backyard and takes as much pride as the rest of us in the appearance of his home.

But when he gets out on the highway, or goes camping in the mountains, or just on a Sunday picnic, he carelessly, recklessly or deliberately scatters candy wrappers, beer cans, beer and whiskey bottles, cigarette packages and much larger items, including old car cushions or unwanted pieces of furniture, worn-out tires and even, in some instances, the kitchen sink, along the highway and in or around the camp grounds where he spent a week of carefree fishing. Carefree is the word for it — he didn't care a darn how he left the place for the next camper.

There is a deep borrow pit about 200 feet long in front of our home here in Cascade (we live just above Highway 24) that is a prime target for the litter bugs, and beer cans seem to be their chief ammunition. Those and whiskey bottles repose in the pit by the hundreds. There are also parts of windshields, car bumpers, car doors and old license plates and discarded Christmas trees tossed into the pit. We are thankful that the tall grass and the fast-growing young pine trees now hide most of the debris from our view.

When we first moved here, I used to make an effort to clean the borrow pit out every spring. But I gave it up as a hopeless task. Then a gully-washer buried a lot of it for us and the grass and trees took over. We own the ground to the very center of the pit and much of the junk rolls onto our property. But that part of it is of little use to us. Even so, we hate to have it littered from end to end.

There must be a cure for littering, but I do not believe it can be cured by legal means. Laws prohibiting littering are more apt to have the opposite effect. Many otherwise upright people appear to take pleasure in breaking small laws, or even big ones, when they find it easy to get away with. Besides, prohibitive laws in little things rub many of us the wrong way.

The cure must be found in education; as it was found once by a Denver resident of Capital Hill one fine Sunday morning. I remember reading some years back about a picnic a Perry Park rancher and his family enjoyed in the private garden in front of a fine Capital Hill mansion.

The rancher parked his station wagon at the curb and the family unloaded the folding tables, the folding chairs and all the picnic paraphernalia and set them up under the beautiful shade trees on the immaculate lawn. The parents turned the kids loose while they prepared the repast. The kids rapidly made a shambles of the flower gardens and the shrubbery.

When the feast was spread, they threw chicken bones in all directions, watermelon rinds were scattered all over the place and paper napkins and containers were left where they fell. The place was a mess. The owner, who came home as the revelry was about to break up, naturally expressed his indignation and his outrage in forceful language and threatened to call the law. But he changed his mind.

The rancher proceeded to remind him of a picnic he and his family had held the previous Sunday on the rancher's property in Perry Park, and of the mess they had left in their wake. The rancher had discreetly spied on the picnickers and got their car license number by which he traced them to their Denver lair.

"Let this be a lesson to you," said the rancher as he drove off. It probably was.

I have just now had a telephone call from Dale Risk, who is a frequent visitor to the region from Nebraska. He has relatives in Woodland Park and he called from there. He and his wife just returned from a week's camping trip at Snowmass Lake over near Aspen. And the tale he told about conditions in the camping grounds of that area is about the worst imaginable.

He says fishermen have cleaned their catches at the water's edge all around the lake and the flies and the stench are sickening. They have left their debris scattered in all directions, ignoring the covered pits built in convenient spots in all the camp grounds as receptacles for garbage and other rubbish. They have also chopped up picnic tables and used them for firewood and have even used outhouses for the same purpose. The tables and outhouses, being painted, furnish dry wood, even in wet weather.

Snowmass Lake is one of the more beautiful places that is easily accessible by car. This gives Mr. Litterbug an excellent opportunity to enjoy his favorite pastime of fouling up the landscape. But, since this is a "public" area, meaning government owned and maintained, the litterbugs, having been told repeatedly that they "own" these places and that they pay the forest rangers' wages, may just naturally assume that the forest rangers can and should clean up their messes. And since they "own" the outhouses and picnic tables, they feel no compunction about chopping them up for kindling in case of emergency, such as wet firewood.

I have talked with private owners of camping grounds and they don't seem to have nearly so much of this kind of trouble as the public ones have.

But some people go out of their way to see how much litter they can leave behind in one lifetime. The last time we drove to Cripple Creek we noticed, on our way down the Midland Turnpike, where somebody had dumped what appeared to be a year's accumulation of garbage and tin cans for a large family smack in the center of a beautiful roadside picnic spot.

Nation's Press

Uneasy Living

From Wall Street Journal

The sharp worsening of America's balance-of-payments deficit in the second quarter should finally direct attention to its basic causes. Yet there remains this curious reluctance in official quarters even to discuss, let alone do anything about, the real sources of the difficulty.

It seems to us beyond question that one of the root causes of the deficit is the government's policy of easy money. Indeed, some of the ablest observers, like John Exter, senior vice president of New York's First National City Bank, have long maintained that the payments problem is primarily a monetary problem. As Mr. Exter said in a speech last spring, a deficit arises "essentially because the supply of one's own money, whether in the form of bank notes or bank deposits, is too large relative to the supplies of all other currencies in the world."

Others describe the prime cause as a combination of fiscal and monetary policy. That is, running domestic budget deficits reflects fiscal policy, and the way the government finances the deficit can add to the money-creating process. When that happens, you might say fiscal policy compounds errors of monetary policy.

But whatever the precise degree of easy money's culpability, we think the Exter analysis shows it must be considerable.

The U.S. has been incurring international - payments deficits almost continuously since 1949, but with especial severity in the past six years; the current deficit is at an annual rate of nearly $3 billion. In the bank official's words, the main reason is that "the Federal Reserve has been creating money during those years, principally by purchasing United States government securities, $10 billion of them." While this process is more sophisticated than literal resort to the printing presses, it can have the same inflationary effect.

The new money quickly finds its way into the hands of foreigners through short or long-term capital flows, imports, tourism, foreign aid or a combination of all these and other factors. In Mr. Exter's view, they are manifestations of the original trouble, which is the creation of excess money.

When the foreigners want gold for their dollar holdings, we must comply, and the upshot is that we have lost $7.5 billion of gold over the past six years. "In addition, our net position in the International Monetary Fund has deteriorated by almost $2 billion, which is tantamount to losing gold, for fund transactions entail a gold guarantee."

The nation has been able to sustain this heavy loss only because it is so very rich. Despite the drain, the American gold stock is still over $15 billion, larger than that of all Western Europe and almost 40 per cent of the entire free world's. Less affluent countries must stop their money creation when faced with serious payments deficits, and that is exactly what a number of them have done in recent years.

The fact that the U.S. has a lot of gold left is hardly an occasion for complacency, and of course Washington is not complacent. It has devised a number of expedients for dealing with the payments problem. Unfortunately, they deal mostly with the symptoms, and sometimes they are even self-defeating.

The chief explanation for the failure to grapple with basic causes appears to be a political fear that such a course would be injurious to the domestic economy, in particular that it would increase unemployment. Yet the ironic truth, as Mr. Exter remarks, is that the easy-money policy has actually stimulated other nations' economies more than our own. A "payments surplus is highly stimulating to an economy and a payments deficit depressing."

It is important to note that the right prescription does not call for a complete reversal involving a destruction of money in place of creating it; that could bring the deflationary ills the officials fear. What is required, rather, is a halt to the money-creating process — and, we would add, bringing federal expenditures under control.

The problem certainly is not disappearing at the rate the government is going. It is a pity those entrusted with the people's money persist in playing fast and loose with the nation's solvency. After all those years and billions, they should realize that easy money may be financing a far from easy future.

SEASON THIS YEAR OCT. 17-NOV. 5

Last year 9,810 of the permits were allocated and issued. This year there are to be 10,340 permits.

The accompanying map shows both the areas for antlered elk hunting, open to anyone with regular elk hunting license, and the special areas in which hunter's choice (antlered or antlerless) may be taken by the limited number of hunters holding special permits, issued to applicants chosen by lottery. (Note permit areas HH and V are open for permit hunters only, and not for regular antlered elk hunting.)

The entire area within heavy black lines on accompanying map, both shaded and white sections, is open for antlered elk hunting during regular big game season.

Areas shown with crosshatch lines, and areas of state not shown on map, are closed to all elk hunting at all times, except for small pre-season permit hunt Cold Spring Mt. area in extreme northwestern corner of state.

Neither residents nor out-of-state hunters are required to employ licensed guides to hunt elk or deer in Colorado.

The 10,340 hunter's choice and special permits are issued to hunters who make application and whose names are selected in an open lottery.

Fifteen per cent of these permits are reserved for non-resident hunters.

Each hunter must apply for a specific permit area, and his application will be considered only in the lottery for that area.

Deadline for applications for special elk permits is 5 p.m. (MST) Wed., August 26, at the Game and Fish Dept., 6060 Broadway, Denver 16, Colo. The public lottery will be held Friday, Sept. 4, beginning at 8:00 a.m., at the Game and Fish Dept., 6060 Broadway, Denver, Colorado.

RESIDENTS

1. Buy your elk license. 2. Study the 1964 elk permit map and select area in which you make application for permit. 3. License holder must complete and mail application. 4. Successful applicants will be notified by mail early in September, and permits will be mailed to them. 5. Unsuccessful applicants will also be notified.

NON - RESIDENTS

1. Get application by writing Game and Fish Office, 6060 Broadway, Denver 16. 2. Fill out application completely, and return with $50—no cash or personal checks. 3. Successful applicants will receive a license and a hunter's choice or special permit. Unsuccessful applicants will receive a license good only for antlered elk during the reguar season in open elk areas.

NO HUNTER MAY KILL MORE THAN ONE ELK IN COLORADO DURING THE 1964 SEASON, UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES.

ARADCOM Assigns New Security Man

Lt. Col. Frank L. Butler has been assigned to the Security Division, G-2 (Intelligence) Section, at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs.

After his arrival here, he was presented a Certificate of Achievement for duty in his previous assignment, that of secretary of the Army Military Police School at Fort Gordon, Ga. The ceremony took place in the office of Maj. Gen. D. B. Johnson, deputy commanding general of ARADCOM.

During the Korean War, Colonel Butler was commander of the Military Police Company of the 3rd Infantry Division. He received a Bronze Star medal for meritorious service in this duty.

He, his wife, and their 6-year-old daughter are living at 1536 Wood Ave.

Traffic Controls Will Be Placed At Intersection

An automatic traffic signal and other traffic controls will be installed at the intersection of Wahsatch Avenue and Costilla Street in early October.

City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith said the installation could not be made earlier than October because of previously scheduled signal installations, especially in school areas.

In addition to the installation of an automatic traffic signal, warranted by traffic volume and the frequency and number of right angle collisions, Smith said it is also planned to accomplish the following:

2. Inclusion of a lag (delayed) green arrow for eastbound Costilla Street left turns, with this movement to be made on the green arrow only.

3. Increase the speed limit from the present 20 to 30 miles per hour.

While the study showed that the proposed improvements are necessary, Smith pointed out that the location of the intersection at the top of a hill makes it an undersirable place to signalize. "This will be especially evident under icy conditions, but other factors outweigh this disadvantage."

Another point to be emphasized, Smith added, "is that although traffic signals generally tend to reduce the right angle type of collision. They seldom eliminate it. Also, it can be expected that the rear-end type of collision, non-existent at present, will occur."

Study by the Traffic Engineering Department shows that in 1963 there were nine collisions at the intersection causing two injuries. Four of these involved left turns (three eastbound turning north) while the other five were right angle collisions involving improper stop sign observance.

Smith said that so far this year there have been 11 collisions injuring 13 persons at the intersection. Again, he said four of these were left turns for eastbound vehicles going north while the remainder were right angle type collisions due to improper stop sign observance.

Study showed that at least 600 vehicles per hour enter the intersection from both approaches, or the major street (Costilla), during any eight hours of an average day. He said this 600 vehicle requirement to warrant signalization was surpassed for 13 hours.

RECEIVES GRANT

DENVER (UPI) — The Colorado Department of Public Health has been awarded a federal grant, expected to total $182,465 over a three - year period. The grant is for the development of a selective service rejectee rehabiliation program to serve as a prototype for other states.

AFA Meeting To Spotlight Manpower Ideas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A symposium on the "Manpower Dilemma," with Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Auckert as one of the panel members, will be a highlight of the Air Force Association's 18th National Convention in Washington, D.C., Sept. 9 to 12.

More than 4,000 AFA members — active Active Air Force personnel, USAF Reservists and Guardsmen, veterans, and aerospace industry leaders — are expected to attend the Convention, again making it the largest and most significant aerospace meeting of the year. USAF participants will include commanders of virtually every major Air Force command worldwide.

Other key Convention events are a major address by Secretary Zuckert, a seminar on the Air Reserve Forces led by five USAF deputy chiefs of staff, and AFA's Third Annual Honors Night, where awards will be presented to the men who have made aerospace history in the past year.

But perhaps the sentimental highlight of the 1964 Convention will be an address by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, USAF Chief of Staff, making his last appearance before so broad an assembly of Air Force people before he retires next February. He will speak at AFA's Aerospace Luncheon on Thursday, September 10, and, with Secretary Zuckert, will be honored at a huge reception that evening.

The manpower symposium will, for the first time, consider that subject in terms not only of military personnel, active and reserve, but their relationship to federal civilian employees and contract service personnel as well. AFA has pointed out, for example, that while Congress and the Administration have regularly imposed ceilings on military and civil service strength, the use of contract services has been steadily rising in all the armed forces.

The implications of this trend on mission cost-effectiveness will be discussed, together with such direct military problems as the pros and cons of the draft, pay and benefits, and retirement policies and post-retirement career opportunities.

Resurfacing of City Streets Starts Monday

The asphalt pavement resurfacing of several sections of streets in Colorado Springs will start Monday, according to an announcement by M. R. Pearce, city director of public works.

This work will be accomplished on a heater re-mixing basis, and this will be done by the G. J. Payne Company, a southern California concern, which recently submitted a low bid of $15,680 for the heater remixing of about 800,000 square feet of existing asphalt paving on various streets in the city. Engineer's estimate for the work was $16,000.

Earlier this month, the City Council approved awarding the contract to the Payne firm, which was the only bidder.

Pearce said the city would take care of all traffic control, pavement cleaning and all patch work prior to the re-mixing process.

He said the city will also be responsible for the furnishing and applying of the asphalt rejuvenating agent as well as furnishing and spreading a three-quarter inch asphalt overlay after the contractor has heater-remixed the pavement.

The streets to be heater remixed and covered with the three-quarter inch asphalt overlay are as follows and listed in the order which work will be done.

Pikes Peak Avenue from the west side of the underpass to Prospect Street, Prospect Street from Platte Avenue to Kiowa Street, Uintah Street from Union to Palmer Park Boulevard, Uintah Street from Hancock Avenue to Prospect Street.

Wood Avenue from Del Norte Street to Fontanero Street, Fontanero Street from Wood Avenue to Culebra, Chestnut Street from Platte Avenue to Bijou Street, Boulder Street from Chestnut Street to Spruce Street, Walnut Street from San Miguel Street to Buena Ventura Street, and Uintah Street from 19th to 22nd Sreet.

Air Station Chief Due Here For Assignment

Lt. Col. Eric C. Nicholls, commander of the 4626th Support Squadron at Topsham (Me.) Air Force Station since June, 1961, is scheduled to arrive early next month for duty as executive officer to the Deputy Chief of Staff of Materiel, Headquarter, Air Defense Command, Ent AFB.

Lt. Col. Nicholls is a graduate of the University of Akron with a bachelor of science degree in business administration. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserve upon graduation through the Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

Called to active duty in the Army Air Corps and assigned to Chanute Field, Ill., as tactical officer with the Aviation Corps of Cadets, he received his captain's bars before transferring to Yale University, Conn., as assistant commandant of cadets in December, 1942. From October, 1944, to February, 1946, he was stationed at Langley Field, Va., as personnel affairs officer.

On inactive status from 1946 to 1951, now Maj. Nicholls, he returned to the service as chief of military personnel for the Western District USAF Auditor onel in 1953, he was transferred to Pennsylvania for duty as chief of the management division, USAF Auditor General Group. He was reassigned with the group to Washington, D.C. in 1955.

He went overseas in March, 1957, as chief of the personnel and administrative division for the Far Eastern District, USAF Auditro General, Tokyo, Japan. He returned to the states and Topsham AFS in July, 1960, as director of personnel for the Bangor Air Defense Sector headquarters.

He and his wife, Toni, have two boys; Eric Jr., who attends ocllege in Ohio, and Dennis, a Brunswick High School student.

Grenier Says Demos Lose South

DENVER (UPI)—The Alabama attorney who serves as executive director of the Republican National Committee said Friday the Democrats lost the South when they picked Hubert Humphrey for the vice presidential nomination.

John Grenier of Birmingham made the observation while at Denver to attend a regional party workshop and to help get out the vote for GOP candidate Barry Goldwater in the West.

"It is interesting that substantially the same delegates to the Democratic convention who repudidated Lyndon Johnson in 1960 now unanimoulsy nominate him," Grenier said.

"It is also interesting that they selected as their vice presidential candidate a man who was emphatically repudidated by the Democratic party in the only two state where he entered primaries in 1960—West Virginia and Wisconsin."

In addition to Grenier, officials attending the work shop, included Richard Hermun, regional director for the GOP national committee for eight Western states, Raymond B. Humphrey, director of political education and training and Mrs. Rita Bass, door-to-door canvass chairman.

Grenier said the three big issues of the campaign would be:

—The failure of the Administration to stop communism.

—The "sleight - of -hand" budgetary juggling of President Johnson.

—Lawlessness and violence in the streets, "prevention of which requires unimpeacable examples of honesty and integrity in the White House."

Since World War II, New York City has put up as much new office space as Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco combined. In 1963 alone, 9,080 buildings costing $900 million were completed.

Springs Center Adds Hebrew To Curriculum

Two new courses, one on inventions and the other on modern Hebrew, have been added to the fall semester, non-credit classes, offered at the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado.

For the first time in this area, local residents will have the opportunity to take "Creaive Engineering-Technique of Invention." This scientific and practical course is designed to help students create and invent. The instrucor, Hans von Hortenau, is an inventor and a Diploma Engineer of the Technical University of Karlsruhe. After an exhaustive study of the methodology of invention, he first offered his course at the Institute of Technology of Stockholm, Sweden. In 1760, von Hortenau introduced his course at the University of Colorado.

The course covers most of the important questions concerning inventions in the fields of history, psychology, technology, patent laws, and valorization of inventions. Also covered are discussions covering inventors and inventions, encompassing idea formulation, documentation, and the commercial aspects of invention. The class is designed for scientists, Army and Air Force personnel, engineers, technicians and all others having an interest to develop and use new creative ideas in the industrial, military and aeronautic fields. The class will meet for 18 sessions on Tuesday from 6 to 8:10 p.m. beginning Sept. 15.

"Modern Hebrew," the second new fall class, will meet for 30 sessions on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 to 8:10 p.m. beginning Sept. 16. Taught by Rabbi Louis Jacob, the class will first acquire a store of new words, have exercises in new expressions and grammar and do intensive reading. Included during the seond part of the course is additional reading material, some of which conerns the revival of the land of Israel and of the Hebrew language, silent reading, exercise in pronunciation, and conversation using topics from everyday life.

Registration for all classes will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 9 and 10, from 6:30 to 8:30 at Jackson House, San Rafael and Nevada.

Four ADC Airmen Win Top Suggestor's Contest

Four Air Defense Command airmen were recently rewarded for placing in the top three positions in the command - wide ADC "Top Suggestor's Contest." A nine member board, including two officers and seven NCOs, convened in mid-July to determine the contest winners. The three top "penny-pincheers" saved the Air Force more than $210,000.

A first place cash prize of $300 was awarded to Airman 1.C. Donald G. Bringman of the 4645th Support Sq., Duluth, Minn., International Airport. He was assigned to the 756th Radar Sq., Finland AFS, Minn., at the time he submitted the prize winning suggestion.

Second place was worth $200 to S. Sgt. Joseph G. Shoen of the15th Organizational Maintenance Sq. at Selfridge AFB Mich.

Co - suggestors from the 4608th Support Sq., at Ent AFB, earned themselves a $100 award. S. Sgt. Glen M. Spoone from the 1137th USAF Special Activities Sq., at Hq Command, Ft. Myer, Va., combined talents with T. Sgt. Orville W. Hardwick of the 4608th for the third place honor. Sgt. Spoone was assigned to the 4608th when they submitted the suggestion.

Tangible and intangible savings of more than $30,000 were required before a suggestion was even reviewed by the board. They started with 16 entrants, cut the field to seven and then to the final top three.

A point system was used to determine winners, with Airman Bringman's top suggestion garnering 82 to 76 for Sgt. Schoen's runner-up idea. The two - man team from the 4608th were just two points shy of runner - up honors with 74.

Of the original 16 suggestions reviewed by the board, three had been submitted at Ent.

In a letter of commendation from Maj. Gen. William B. Keese, ADC chief-of-staff; Airman Bringman was cited for saving the command $71,150. Beside the savings in man hours and material, Bringman's idea will continue to save ADC money through improved operational effectiveness.

The prize-winning suggestion had to do with eliminating the transformer circuitry in the new 6080 Tube used in radar apparatus. In doing this, an expensive maintenance probem was eliminated.

Shoen was assigned to the 319th Fighter Interceptor Sq., in the San Antonio Air Materiel Area when he made his money-making suggestion. He recommended a modification in the method of draining the Constant Speed Drive oil tank. His idea included a faster way of draining the CSD without having to lower the transmission and without performing engine runs for leak checks after re-installation of the transmission.

Sgt. Shoen's idea was estimated at a possible sacings of $136,500 in man hours. In dollars and cents, this seems to be a greater savings than the top prize winner. Bringman's suggestion, however, was awarded the first place honor because of its improvement of operational effectiveness.

Local winners, Sgts. Spoone and Hardwick, submitted a suggestion for the improvement of the maintenance of supply records at base-level. Their idea also assured maximum accuracy of status records for outstanding base supply requisitions with minimum manual operations. The twosome from Ent, of course, shared the $100 award.

Medical Society Awards SCSC Funds for Loans

The Pueblo County Medical Society has notified Marvin C. Knudson, president of Southern Colorado State College, that the society would make available $19,000 for student loans at the institution.

The money in its entirety was given to SCSC to aid deserving students who plan medical or related careers such as nursing, pharmacy, dentistry, medical and x-ray technology. The fund will be designated as the Pueblo County Medical Society Student Loan Fund.

The $19,000 became available to the Pueblo County Medical Society through the "Polio Sunday" drive the past winter of 1963-64 when a 25 cent donation was suggested to each person receiving the oral polio vaccine. The cost of the program was tremendously decreased through generous donations for the vaccine and the effort of many agencies, individuals, organizations and donated time. Their concerted cooperation and work on the program made the $19,000 loan fund possible for SCSC students.

Students who apply for loans from the fund at Southern Colorado State College will be screened by the Committee on Student Aid of the Department of Student Services. The loan will be interest free during college years and repaid with interest at an ascending rate beginning with the date of graduation.

Dr. W. Kemp Absher, president of the Pueblo County Medical Society, said it is the Society's sincere desire that the availability of this money will encourage young students to choose medicine or a medically related field of study and training.

New Economics Course Offered At CU Center

A brand new course in economics, designed and taught by an expert in the field, is being offered this fall at the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado, according to Donald King, administrator.

"The Economics of National Security" is the title of the course, which is offered for three semester hours credit. Cap. Douglas Jones of the economics department at the U.S. Air Force Academy is the author and instructor of the course.

Approved by the economics department of the university, the course content includes the economics of research and development, financing aid and alliances, logistics and procurement, wartime controls, and arms control and disarmament. It also appraises the impact and implications of defense expenditures on the economy in terms of industrial concentration patterns, corporate decision making, national income, growth, and stability.

The class will meet Thursday evenings from 6 to 8:10 p.m. beginning Sept. 17. Registration for the fall semester is Sept. 9 and 10 in the evening. For further information about fall program contact the center at 1105 N. Nevada Ave.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Defense Ministry has decided to publish a Russian translation of "Seven Days in May," the American novel about a military plot to seize the United States government.

These Sub-Contractors MEASURE UP To The Standards of a CIMARRON HOME!

HERMAN'S PLUMBING & HEATING

The importance of plumbing in Cimarron Homes has not been overlooked. Herman's Plumbing and Heating will carefully install all the plumbing equipment in your home — paying careful attention to details. The A. O. Smith water heater and General Electric heating plan are standard equipment—skillfully installed in youra new Cimarron home.

EL PASO LUMBER CO.

All the lumber used in your new Cimarron home has passed careful inspections to assure you of the finest quality from the floors to the rafters. El Paso Lumber Company takes special pride in handling first-quality lumber that is split and warp-free. So you can depend on quality construction throughout with El Paso Lumber Company supplying the materials.

PERFECTION TRUSS

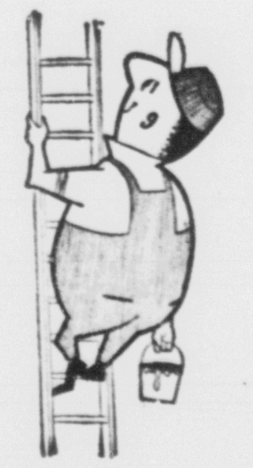
The roof trusses are pre-assembled at Perfection Truss Company. In this way each and every one is uniform with the next, saving construction time and providing you with a roof over your head much sooner. The word and the name "Perfection" mean perfect construction to give you a better quality Cimarron home.

DON'S ROOFING

For year-to-year protection from the elements, Don's Roofing provides us with 240-lb. Marvel Locking-Tab shingles. These particular shingles are best for the Pikes Peak region for protection against hail and wind for a trouble-free roof for many years. As they say in the industry "They cost more, but they're trouble-free."

A. L. CONSTRUCTION

All of the fine quality framing, finishing and carpentry work is provided by Les Johnson who has been in business over 20 years. His skill and service are well known in the Pikes Peak Region. While browsing around Cimarron Homes, notice how well everything fits, and after you buy one, you will continue to appreciate his fine craftsmanship. Phone 473-4830.



VARNELL DRYWALL

Quality drywall work for beauty and practicability for many years to come . . . all this is yours in a Cimarron home. No cracking and no peel, and if you like, it can be easily wall-papered. The acoustical-type ceiling has an attractive texture that will retain its beauty, will not show seams, and cleans easily for years to come. If you desire a change of color, years later, it paints beautifully with a roller.

LAWNBRITE FERTILIZER CO.

Your lawn will be planted in Kentucky bluegrass or Marion Kentucky bluegrass. Just state your preference and these lawn-seeding experts will have your lawn looking green within a week after it is seeded and ready to cut within three weeks. See some beautiful lawns at Cimarron Homes and for your present or future lawn-seeding needs, phone 632-7490.

COLUMBIA SAVINGS

Ready to serve you and meet your financial needs on the new Cimarron Homes. Fast, efficient, courteous service that will enable you to move into your new Cimarron home with a minimum of delay. Their experienced officers and personnel are trained to guide you and give you financing counseling service. Member of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Located at Pikes Peak Ave. and Nevada Ave. Phone 473-9242. Now $95 Million strong.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

You can be assured of quality appliances in your kitchen and in any other part of your Cimarron Home because they are installed by a reliable dealer and built by General Electric. Whether it be your new GE oven, dishwasher or disposal, you can rely upon General Electric quality. General Electric and Cimarron Homes are proud to work together to furnish you with beautiful reliable electrical appliances.

HURST INSULATION CO.

Only the finest Rockwool insulation is used in the walls and ceilings of Cimarron Homes to insure the comfort of your family—summer and winter. Insulation is important to maintain a constant temperature, thereby saving you costly heating and cooling bills. Your furnace won't run as often and won't require as much servicing and the same is true of any cooling equipment you may have. Phone Hurst Insulation Service at 633-7919.

READYMIX CONCRETE

READYMIX BUILDING PRODUCTS, a division of READYMIX, supplies the concrete, concrete building materials and accessories, aluminum windows, basement windows, patio doors, steel bi-fold colonial closet doors by Leigh and many other building materials for Cimarron Homes. You can depend upon the rest of your home's quality because it is supported by READYMIX concrete.

ICG ELECTRIC

All wiring and fixtures in your new Cimarron Homes are installed with confidence that is built upon experience. If there is one thing you don't have to worry about it's the quality of wiring—above code standards and completely trouble and service free for the life of the home. Complete residential and commercial contracting. Phone 633-5343.

FORMSETTERS INC.

The walls and floors will always be smooth and dry—never crack, sag or bulge. Soil core-tests and excavation taken at the homesite proved that the soil did not show any traces of adobe or rock, making it a perfectly sound soil for homebuilding. Even under these conditions the concrete is reinforced with steel to allow absolutely no chance of cracks in basement walls, tile-lifting moisture or heaving due to freezing and thrawing. You are always assured of comfortable, high and dry living in a Cimarron basement.

JACK DECKARD PAINT

Only the finest paint is used inside and out on Cimarron Homes. Smart decorator colors are used to blend with your particular furnishings. Expert advice is available on the all-important color scheme of your new Cimarron Home. An infinite variety of color schemes may be arrived at to suit your present decor. Notice the carefully planned color schemes at the new model homes. Phone 636-1622.

IXL

WASTE KING UNIVERSAL

DENVER

See the kitchen of your dreams today finished in "Sculptured Spicewood" or "Shadow-wood." Contemporary "Shadow-wood" cabinets are expertly crafted from select hardwoods and finished in a mellow, baked lacquer that retains its beauty for years. Plenty of convenience features too: Exclusive "Sta-Close" drawers, adjustable shelves, and sliding shelves. Don't wait another day—see the new Cimarron homes and their beautiful kitchens.

BONN-A-WOOD CORP.

A leader in the countertop industry since 1950, the Bonn-A-Wood Corporation supplies form-rite countertops surfaced with formica. Form-rite fully formed tops have smooth, free flowing curves at front edge and between back splash and top. No seams or cracks at the critical areas to be dirt catchers or sanitary problems. No-drip front edge prevents liquids spilling off top to drip down cabinet front or on your floor. Another Cimarron quality feature.

Miller Says LBJ Left Navy Before War Began

By ROBERT T. GRAY

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller, Republican vice presidential candidate, says President Johnson "elected to be a congressman instead of a soldier" in World War II while "Barry Goldwater stayed in the service for four long years."

Miller also said in a speech Friday that a filmed biography of Johnson — shown at the Democratic convention this week and televised nationally — showed Johnson entering the Navy but did not show that "six months later he was back home again, before the shooting even started."

Johnson went on active duty as a lieutenant commander in the Navy on Dec. 8, 1941, the day after the Japanese attack on Pearl Herbor. He went on bombing missions in the South Pacific, was awarded the Silver Star and returned to Washington in July 1942, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt decreed that members of Congress could not serve in the Armed Forces.

During the war Goldwater saw duty in the Azores and in Karachi as a ferry pilot. He had entered the Army Air Corps despite objectios to his age and eyesight. While on active duty from 1941 to 1945, he also served as flight instructor. He holds the Air Medal, and is a major general in the Air Force Reserve. He was elected to the Senate in 1952.

Miller entered the Army in July 1942 and was assigned to the Military Intelligence Branch and later served with the War Criminal branch at Washington until August 1945. He was an assistant prosecutor of Nazi war criminal trials at Nuremberg, Germany, in 1945 and 1946.)

Miller, an upstate New York congressman, climaxed a 14-hour political tour with the hour-long speech before 7,000 persons at the Chautauqua Institution, famed cultural center at Chautauqua.

Miller, accompanied by his wife, Stephanie, and his two oldest daughters, Elizabeth Anne, 20, and Mary Karen, 17, also visited Olean and Jamestown in southwestern New York, and Bradford, Pa.

The various crowds were good sized and Miller won applause and cheers. There were five rallies, two formal speeches, two receptions and a news conference on the tour.

It's a good idea to have two pastry brushes; one may be used for meats and similar dishes, and one for desserts. This way there's no chance of incompatible flavors mixing!

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

When I was a small child mother bought me a little brown covered composition book. The following articles are samples of what I thought was good writing in those days.

CATS:

Cats are small animals with soft hairy coats. Cats are a great many different colors, there are black and white, gray or brown. Our cats name is Bob he is a lazy cat. They do a great deal of good in catching mice. Edith and I were walking up the lane one day and I heard something mew. It was growing dusk and I looked and could see nothing and I felt and I felt, and I felt something warm and soft and I picked it up and it was a little black kitten. I took it up to the house and mother said to take it to Miss Allen and she said it was not her cat I found so I took it home again. I thought an awful lot of that kitten. It was coal black and I named it Fib. One day mother said that we would have to kill her because she has fits. And, so they killed her and I have been trying to get another ever since. Well, I did get another and it stayed awhile and went away. I guess they have quit coming to our house.

DOGS:

Dogs are animals with four legs, a hairy coat and a long bushy tail. Our dog is black and white, it is a sheperd dog. It went one day to bring in the cows when Mark could not find them, her name is Jennie. She is twelve years old and is older than I am. She knows when Sunday is and is always ready to take a walk and is mad if I don't go with her, but will never go alone. We have three dogs, there is one that is not our dog. The man that owned him has gone back to the states and we took him till he came back. He is a little dog his name is Snip and the other dogs name is Carl. He is the old dogs puppy. He is a big yellow dog. I don't know how old he is. Jennie is quite deaf, she went one time and drove the cattle when we told her to come back then she came and wanted me to tell her she was good. I did, but she wasn't.

BIRDS:

Birds are different from animals because they have two legs. There are Magpies, Parrots, Hummingbirds, bluebirds, blackbirds and others. The blackbirds eggs are speckled. Some birds can talk. The Magpie and Parrot can talk. Some birds are nice pets. Our Magpie can say "Ouch", "Quit", "Oh Mack", then if he doesn't come then she says "Oh Maxcnl." We have to keep her in a coop because she eats eggs. And, when they let her out she goes in the henhouse and punches holes in the eggs. She doesn't like the other Magpies to come and scares them off. Did you ever see anything like that.

MAGPIES:

This bird is about eighteen inches long and is black and white. It can talk as well and I think better than the Parrot. It lives mostly in this country and builds its nests in the high trees. Its nest is round and has a hole big enough to let it go in and is lined in side with mud worked soft. The young are ugly and have great big mouths, plenty big enough to eat bread and milk when you feed it to them, and great large chunks of meat. When older it ought to have meat. You most always find from six to eight eggs in a nest, and there have been thirteen found in one. The eggs are about the size of a pigeon egg and they are greenish white covered with brown markings. We have a Magpie that talks. Some have been caught that would not talk at all and others would. They talk quite young if they are ever going to. I was holding our Magpie on a stick one day and she would peck at it. Mother laughed at her and she laughed just like Mother did and then said "come on, come on." She will be four years old next summer. We keep her in a cage because she eats hen eggs. She pecks them open and calls the chickens. When we do anything she does not like she says "quite." She is very nice to some folks she pecks them. When Lucy and I went bare foot she would run after us and peck our feet and when we have shoes with holes in them she pecks the holes. They catch the magpies in the nest when they are young and they soon get quite tame. They have a very long tail and also a very long bill. They can turn their eyes all the colors of the rainbow and they like to talk when the wind blows.

GUILD BOARD ADDS SCHENKER

NEW YORK (AP) — The Theater Guild, the White Way's oldest producing organization, is augmenting its management board with Joel Schenker. During the past six years Schenker has sponsored a number of plays independently and in collaboration with Roger L. Stevens and the Guild.

In addition to joining the directing staff, Schenker has become a principal stockholder. The other management partners are Armina Marshall, Philip Langner and Warren Caro.

Army Retiree Will Cook For AFA Mess

Sfc Jerry J. Johnson, who retires Aug. 31 at Ft. Carson, will bring 18 years of Army food service experience to his new civilian job with the U.S. Air Force Academy cadet mess.

He has cooked for generals at Carson and for prisoners-of-war in Europe and recalls losing a cook to General Dwight D. Eisenhower—James Martin who is retired now in Colorado Springs.

Johnson ends his 23-year Army career as a maintenance sergeant with Headquarters Battery, 6th Battalion, 21st Artillery. Before that he had been with the Post Engineer roads and grounds division since 1961.

He came to the mountain post originally as cook for the late Maj. Gen. Harry Collins who brought the 31st Infantry Division to Carson in 1954. Johnson remained as culinary expert for other subsequent commanding generals until 1959.

The sergeant exchanged a civilian cook's whites for Army uniform in Chicago in 1941 when the 8th Infantry Regiment, Illinois National Guard, was federalized early in 1941.

He went into World War II shortly after D-Day with the 101st Ammunition Detachment as a mess steward and remembers feeding from 300 to 500 men daily in a field mess near Verdun, France, as a peak in his career.

Passing through Johnson's mess line then were personnel of ADSAC Headquarters, displaced laborers and German prisoners - of - war. He served briefly in the German occupation before returning to the United States.

In 1959 he returned to Germany to become a utilities foreman with the 249th Engineer Company.

His duty tours of Carson have sold the Johnson family on the Pikes Peak region. They live at 1001 E. Las Animas St. with their three youngest children. Mrs. Johnson's son, Walter R. Taylor, lives at 420 S. Hancock St.

Johnson is a 32d degree Mason. His home lodge is at Shelbyville, Ind., but he has been active in Masonic work in Colorado Springs.

(hint)

More people buy Chevrolets than any other make. So it only follows, we think, that Chevrolets must be a better buy.

And as for right now, what with the '64 model year almost over, the buys on these No. 1 cars and trucks couldn't be any better.

Your Chevrolet dealer has made up his mind that nobody, but nobody, is going to even come close to the record he's set.

Hurry, though. Because the word's gotten around. A lot of these last-of-the-'64s are already starting to show up in front of homes and on the job all over town.

And if you don't make your next move a visit to your Chevrolet dealer's, sure as you sit there somebody else is going to get away with just the car or truck you wanted.
